THE LAST DAYS of summer for these two old men are good old days. "There's not much else to do," one of them explained.

Board OKs New Food Store

Another food store will be coming to Elk Grove Village.

The village board Tuesday voted 5-0, with Trustee Ronald Chernick abstaining, to allow rezoning of three-quarters of an acre at the southwest corner of Tonne and Landmeier roads for construction of a 7-Eleven Food Store.

The plan commission had previously voted 5-4 to recommend against a request by Centex Corp. to rezone the property from R-3 single-family residential to B-1 commercial.

However, since that vote was taken the developer agreed to make several changes in the proposal.

Access and egress to the food store will now be off Tonne Road and Love Street which presently serves as part of the driveway to the Elk Grove Wesleyan Church, 545 Landmeier Rd.

Originally, access and egress to the store had been planned for Landmeier Road.

SIDEWALKS WILL be located near the store on Tonne and Landmeier. In addition, money will be given to the village for a sidewalk on the north side of Landmeier Road from the Commonwealth Edison Co. highlines east to the area near Fleetwood Lane.

There also will be two or three more shops in the drive-in shopping area which will be adjacent to the church and the Cardinal Court Apartments under construction.

In other action, the board learned that Bill Dunning of the police and fire commission and Harry Jenkins, police chief, are studying the possibility of a minibike route in the area. They plan to talk with the Cook County Forest Preserve, High School Dist. 214, and park district officials.

Also, Trustee Edward Kenna said he would no longer vote to extend fire and ambulance service to the Forest View homeowners past the Sept. 22 deadline. The homeowners have received several extensions in the past.

"The people in this village pay for service. Let them pay for it too," he said.

Forest View is an unincorporated area surrounded by the village. It contracts with the village for services. The current contract, however, expired last winter.

The village board also voted to seek bids for the purchase and construction of a water reservoir at well No. 9, north of Brummel Avenue west of Rte. 83 in the industrial park.

Dist. 59 Teachers Plead With Board

Several teachers had tears in their eyes as they pleaded with Dist. 59 board members Tuesday night to reduce class sizes.

The board announced that little relief would come until sixth-day enrollment figures were received. Next Tuesday is the sixth day.

Almost 100 teachers came to the meeting to present information to the board about their class sizes in hopes of convincing the board to hire additional teachers.

Although the teachers returned to the classrooms on the first day of school Tuesday and said they would continue to teach, they said they would not approve a teaching contract unless it included a lower class size.

The board has offered a salary acceptable to the teachers but the contract has included no provisions for class size.

"WE HAVE NO intentions of exceeding last year's class size," Richard Hess, board president, said.

When the teachers said their classes were larger than last year, Hess said the board would have to wait until the sixth-day enrollment figures were received before making more changes.

Enrollment figures are compiled on the sixth day because of state regulation. This day was chosen because the enrollment is more stable by then, Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent in charge of finance, said.

The teachers proceeded to present their class attendance figures, however, to prove their point, saying things would probably be worse by the sixth day.

One female junior high school teacher listed class sizes as 44, 43, 39, 35, and 31 students.

"I THINK IT'S time we stop talking about money and start talking about human beings. We talk and talk and do nothing and tomorrow I'll have to go back to 44 students. It's our fault. They can't do anything about it," she said, now in tears.

One art teacher exclaimed, "I have an average of 40 students in my class. I had to put in two extra tables to seat the students. There are no windows and no ventilation. God forbid if there's a fire because they won't be able to get out."

A special education teacher at Dempster Junior High School told how she worked for a year to place one boy back in a normal math class, only to find the smallest class had 28 students, which she said meant the boy would have trouble.

She said her students were not counted in the class ratio, yet she had 15 others which she was hoping to eventually return to normal classes.

Other teachers reported sizes of 33, and 36 in remedial reading classes.

"YOU THINK THOSE remedial classes are heavy now — keep this up and you'll have all remedial classes because we don't have the time to reach all these kids," another teacher said.

The questions and statements by the teachers came after a report of opening day presented by Supt. James Erviti.

Erviti said there were no figures available yet for class sizes in the junior high schools — whose teachers registered most of the complaints. However, several teachers disputed his elementary school figures, which set 38 students in a class as the high.

One teacher listed classes at Robert Frost School as 28, 34, 35, 35, 35, and 36. "Yes we have one with 28," she said. "But this is a split class with second and third graders."

THE TEACHERS were told that several large classes in the junior high schools would receive additional teachers immediately, however, Al Walkman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, said there are only slightly over 10 teachers to be hired for the quota.

Erviti commented, "We still have not heard one teacher say what a desirable size is, or how the community will face paying for additional teachers."

"The teachers problem is not a problem created by the board of education but by the community," he said.

Erviti was referring to a defeated tax increase proposed by the administration and board last November.

No further negotiation meetings have been scheduled as yet, Walkman, chairman of the district negotiation team, said.

Here's Board's Proposal

School Dist. 59 released details yesterday of its latest offer to teachers.

Details were developed by negotiating teams in a session last Thursday. They were rejected by the Teachers' Council negotiating team.

Here are the details.

"The board of education has agreed to allocate $79,600 for extra-duty pay.

"This is money paid in addition to teachers' regular salary for additional duties like coaching sports, directing plays, or being a department head.

"The board agrees to add as net additions to the district staff, enough teachers for the 1970-71 school year to preserve district-wide class size averages prevailing during the previous school year.

"Historically and philosophically, the board is committed to make every effort to allocate extra revenue to decrease class size. It pledges to continue to support this program.

"IN AN EFFORT to retain career teachers, the superintendent will select 10 per cent of the full-time equivalent teaching staff as of Oct. 1, or 53 staff members, whichever number is greater, to be career service teachers.

"Sixty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by Dec. 1 to teach in the following year's summer school program.

"These teachers will receive an additional five per cent of their yearly salary as of Dec. 1 of the current year. They will be committed for 20 half-days of teaching in the summer school program.

"Forty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by the superintendent to carry out specific assignments during the year. He will appoint them as the need arises.

"THESE ASSIGNMENTS could include such things as developing special programs, evaluating curriculum, pupil records and recording systems, or resource accounting systems; projecting resource needs; teacher training; or professional internships.

"The board had previously approved an agreement which included a $7,600 starting salary for beginning teachers a salary scale up to a maximum of $15,995 for experienced teachers. It also promised to add half the payment cost of medical insurance for dependents."

"We are ready at any time to continue to meet with the teachers' negotiating team in an attempt to reach agreement," said Albeon Waltman, Dist. 59 assistant superintendent in charge of personnel and head of the district's negotiating team.

The elementary district has nearly 12,000 students in 20 northwest suburban schools — 10 buildings in Elk Grove Village, five in Mount Prospect, four in Des Plaines, and one in Arlington Heights.

Greenhouse Sold To Highway Dept.

Mrs. Melanie Goerger, 84, of Elk Grove Township, has finally retired from the greenhouse business after more than 56 years.

Her daughter, Mrs. Alice Hacker, of 306 E. Hawthorn, Arlington Heights, Tuesday turned the keys to the old family greenhouse over to the State of Illinois, who bought the 2½-acre site at 501 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, for widening of the highway there. The business sold for $128,700.

The keys were turned over to Scott Andrews, an agent of the state right-of-way department.

Sold were the land, the 4,500-acre-foot greenhouse and a four-bedroom frame home, where Mrs. Goerger lived and worked since 1914, when her husband, the late Martin Goerger, bought the business.

It is located next to the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Mrs. Hacker said her father died in 1950, but her mother carried on the business, with the help of her children, right up to the end.

"WE HAVE A LOT of memories here. I guess our feelings are mixed about the sale," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said she and her sister, Florence Vacilek, 401 W. Algonquin Road, Des Plaines, ran the business with their husbands.

"We sold wholesale. Friday was our last day of work. We started with roses, then went to lilies and the last 15 years sold chrysanthemums," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said her mother had another greenhouse on Algonquin Road in Mount Prospect, but will lose that in three years through a condemnation suit filed by the Mount Prospect Park District and in 1973 it will be turned over as parkland. It is now run by one of Mrs. Goerger's sons.

Mrs. Goerger, who lived in the house across from the greenhouse, has moved to 52 Lonsdale Road, Elk Grove Village and is reported happy in her new home.

The state is expected to destroy the buildings immediately in preparation for the road widening project.

Police Report Theft At Construction Site

Two burglaries of construction and surveyor equipment valued at $1,090 were reported Tuesday to Elk Grove Village police.

The equipment was apparently taken from construction shacks on lots adjacent to each other on Conrad Street, west of Rte. 55.

On one lot the equipment was owned by Centex Construction Co., which reported a loss of $800 and the other was owned by Jack and Randy Brown Inc. which reported a loss of $490.

Jaycees Plan Trip For Village Boys

About 60 boys from Elk Grove Village will receive a free trip to the Armed Forces benefit football game Friday at Soldier's Field, thanks to the Elk Grove Village Jaycees.

The boys, ages 8 to 14, will be chosen by the pastors in the village. Twelve Jaycee chaperones will accompany them and provide the transportation for the Bears-Viking game.

Village Police Report Thefts

A burglary of $150 from three vending machines at Service Plastics, 1250 Touhy Ave., was reported to Elk Grove Village police Tuesday.

Quotables

"It's the funniest show ever. It beats out anything on TV," said William Pavese, former teacher at Salt Creek School, explaining why he still attends Dist. 59 school board meetings.

Driving along Schaumburg Road in a merry old mobile, a youth enjoys the open air on a fall day.

THE ACCEPTED INFLUENCE IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Board Defers Transit Action

The Elk Grove Village Board Tuesday deferred action on participation in the formation of a mass transportation district.

Several trustees indicated they did not have enough information to vote on the proposal in the form of an ordinance submitted by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad Co.

The railroad, which operates its west suburban line south of the village, has asked that communities along the route from Chicago to Elgin join in the formation of a transportation district.

ESTABLISHMENT of the district would provide the means for federal funds to be obtained for the purchase of additional equipment for the railroad.

Railroad officials have maintained that they do not have the financial resources necessary to meet the needs of the rapidly expanding suburbs. As a result, they are seeking financial assistance from the federal government through the district.

The district would be governed by a board of trustees with representatives from each of the communities formed by it.

Two-thirds of the funds for additional equipment could then be obtained from the government upon application by the district.

The remaining one-third must be raised locally.

HOW THE MONEY would be raised locally has not been determined though there has been talk of a state subsidy, and utilization of the bonding power a public body such as a district would have.

There is also the possibility that a tax would be levied through a referendum by voters in the district. That a tax would be asked is unlikely, according to railroad officials.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert noted, however that formation of a mass transportation district would include the power to tax by referendum, he said.

TRUSTEE EDWARD Kenna said the village should learn which railroad serves Elk Grove Village best — the Milwaukee Road, or the Chicago & North Western — before it votes to form a district with the Milwaukee Road.

It was acknowledged that if the Milwaukee Road is aided by a district and the North Western forms another district for its route which serves the northwest suburbs, Elk Grove could find itself in two transportation districts.

Thomas Ploss, a spokesman for the Milwaukee Road's "Project Transplan," said the North Western is not interested in forming a mass transit district but that it is interested in a proposal to link its commuter line with the Chicago Transit Authority.

Girl's Memorial Fund Initiated

The Leslie Stansell Memorial Foundation, named for the Schaumburg girl killed in a Peruvian air plane crash last month has been initiated by Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Atcher kicked off the fund with a $100 check Tuesday night at the village board meeting. Money collected will be used to defray the costs put on parents whose children participate in student foreign exchange programs.

Trustee Jack Larsen will request the services of the Schaumburg Jaycees to take up fund raising for the foundation.

Legal services toward establishing the fund have been volunteered by Trustee James Guthrie.

Students participating in American Field Service (AFS) foreign exchange programs from Conant High School have their transportation costs and a small spending money allowance provided by the school, said Robert Lyons, last year's activities director.

MONEY THE SCHOOL provides is raised through student-sponsored activities through the year, he added.

Any additional expenses incurred by students have to be paid by the student's family, he added.

The Schaumburg Rotary Club this year sponsored a trip to New Zealand for Laurie Smith of Hoffman Estates.

The host Rotary club in Christ Church, New Zealand, will contribute $400 toward Laurie's expenses in the coming year. Her family must pay travel expenses and provide $100 for an expense account for her.

Leslie Stansell was a 16-year-old Conant High School student killed in the Peruvian plane crash. She had spent eight weeks in Lima as a participant in the International Youth Fellowship program.

Miss Stansell maintained b-plus grade average at Conant and was active in student affairs. She was selected for the program on basis of an essay, teacher recommendations and interview with a screening panel Conant.

Lutheran Church Group Meeting Set

The Lutheran Church Women's Group of the Christus Victor Lutheran Church in Elk Grove Village has scheduled a general meeting Monday at 8 p.m.

The topic of the meeting will be Browsing with Books, presented by Mrs. Ruth Youngdahl Nelson.

The meeting will be held in the library of the church, located at 1045 Arlington Heights Rd.

Youth Committee

To Meet Today

Local teenagers in Elk Grove Township have been invited to meet with the township youth committee today to discuss future programs. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the township hall at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Road.

CATV Asks Presentation

A cable television firm has asked to make a presentation to the Schaumburg village board.

The request was turned over to the development committee headed by Trustee Sig Thorsen this week for a recommendation.

The request came from Vue Sonics, Inc., 104 Minnie St., Crystal Lake.

Cable television seeks franchises in municipalities and offers subscribers a special line inside their home to connect to their set.

It offers channels not normally available in the area and better reception, promoters say. Another benefit is the possibilities of broadcasting local programs such as high school football games, parades or board meetings.

Subscribers pay about $6 a month for cable service. For granting a franchise, a municipality receives a fee, usually based on the amount of business, the cable station does.

Several different cable firms are making franchise proposals in nearly all Northwest suburbs.

Cable television has been most successful in areas remote from television transmitters.

Fire Service Triples In Schaumburg

Last year the Schaumburg Fire Department handled a total of 463 ambulance and fire calls. In 1971, the projected total is more than three times greater or 1,460, according to Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson.

The fire department, which began operating as full time in January, has handled a total of 495 calls for the first seven months of this year, Abrahamson told village trustees Tuesday.

Trustees authorized purchase of about $725 in additional saws and other equipment for the department.

In other action, Police Chief Martin Conroy was authorized to get bids on seven new squad cars for 1971. He will also get bids on three three-wheel motorcycles.

A grant is expected to pay for the motorcycles and one squad car.

Trustee Jack Larsen suggested that specifications for new squad cars include anti-pollution equipment. Mayor Robert O. Atcher said that would be a good idea for all village vehicles.

Conroy said Sgt. Al Herzfeld will attend a supervisory school at the University of Illinois for two weeks. The $335 cost will be reimbursed by the state.

Civil Defense Dir. Robert Ciner said the unit will be moving into the new public works building when it is completed. "For the first time, we'll have garage space for our vehicles," he said.

The unit will also have office space in the building. The Civil Defense office is currently in the police department.

CD picked up 17 dozen blankets through a government surplus program last week, Ciner said. The blankets will be left in various public buildings for emergencies.

YMCA Group Plans Trip

The first fall Adventure Series trip sponsored by the Elgin YMCA will be to the House of the Rock, Spring Green, Wis., on Oct. 7.

According to Mrs. Steven Hamilton, YW adult program director, the House on the Rock is widely acclaimed as an architectural marvel. Designed and built by sculptor Alex Jordan over a period of twenty years, the house consists of twenty luxurious rooms built on top of a huge chimney-rock hundreds of feet above the valley.

The house uses the rock itself to determine the size and shape of rooms, and includes rock gardens, grottos, cascading waterfalls and seven lighted pools. Large trees which originally grew out of the rock have been incorporated into the house with branches reaching through the roof.

The House on the Rock complex includes the Gate House, Wild Life Pond area, and the Mill House as well as the main house. The sod-roofed Mill House contains the world's largest fireplace and many exhibits of antique dolls, clocks, and music boxes.

The Adventure Series group will have a ham luncheon at the Dutch Kitchen. The chartered bus will leave the YW at 8:30 a.m. and return between 5 and 6:30 p.m. Tickets are now available at the YW for $9.50 including luncheon. YWCA membership is required for participation in Adventure Series trips.

Mens' Swimming To Begin At Elgin Y

Men interested in learning to swim may enroll in a beginning swimming class at the Elgin YMCA.

Instruction begins Monday at 6:30 p.m. and will continue for seven weeks, reports James Klever, YMCA adult physical director. "Men will learn rotary breathing, arm stroke, kicking, treading water and increase their endurance," he added.

Enrollment is open to persons 15 years of age and older and YMCA membership is not required for enrollment. "However, YMCA members may enroll at a reduced rate," Klever said. Maximum enrollment is 25 persons.

For more information, contact the Elgin YMCA, 695-1100.

Fee Reduced For School Room Use

The Dist. 54 school board reduced the fee charged civic, community, and fraternal organizations for the use of school facilities other than gyms from $10 each time to $7.50 last Thursday.

The change was recommended by the board's policy committee so that these groups would be paying the same rate as church groups. Church groups had been charged the lower fee so that they could save money for their own building.

Civic and church groups will be charged $15 for the use of wooden floor gymnasiums in Dist. 54 junior high schools.

In other action, the board denied permission for the owner of the Bobbie Rivers Dance Studio to conduct dancing classes at Robert Frost Junior High School during the 1970-71 school year.

The dance studio had also requested that PTA groups at Dist. 54 junior highs mail literature to parents.

Man, 23, Sentenced In Murder Case

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

A 23-year-old man who lived in the unincorporated area of Des Plaines has been sentenced to 35 to 100 years in prison for the 1967 murder of 17-year-old Carol Lynn Littlejohn.

Richard Schutz was sentenced Tuesday by Criminal Court Judge Louis Garippo after a two-week trial. Garippo passed the sentence after turning down a request by assistant state's attorneys for a 75 to 150 year prison term.

According to police, Schutz was arrested by Cook County Sheriff's Police one day short of two years after the Nov. 24, 1967 slaying. He gave sheriff's police oral and written statements admitting the murder.

Miss Littlejohn, of St. Charles, had had Thanksgiving dinner at the home of her cousin, Steven Oberst, and his family in unincorporated Des Plaines. Miss Littlejohn apparently had an argument with her mother and left the apartment at 8702 Gregory Lane about 7:50 p.m. to take a walk, sheriff's police said.

When Miss Littlejohn failed to return to the Oberst home by 10:30 p.m., her family searched the area for her until midnight. When they couldn't find her they called the police who also searched the area but couldn't find the girl.

Her body was found the next morning by children playing in a wooded area behind the Gregory Lane apartment complex.

According to Det. Gene Gargano, Schutz was linked to the murder after his estranged wife told police she had received threatening phone calls from him.

"We picked Schutz up last November," Gargano said. "And we questioned him about the murder. At first he denied knowing anything about it, then he changed his story the second time around but still didn't admit anything. The third time he told us what he had been doing on the day of the murder he confessed."

Schutz told police he and his wife, who lived at 3904 Church St., unincorporated Des Plaines, had dinner at his grandmother's house in Maywood. The couple came home at 9:15 p.m. and had an argument about moving from their apartment, police said. Schutz told police he left his apartment at 9:30 p.m. to take a ride and look for a new apartment.

Schutz said he drove into the Gregory Lane apartment complex where he saw Miss Littlejohn and asked her if she wanted a ride.

According to Gargano, Miss Littlejohn stared at Schutz until he asked her again if she wanted a ride then she walked up to his car, swore at him and started to walk away.

"Schutz told us he got very angry and got out of his car to chase her," Gargano said. "He chased her into the woods behind the apartments," Gargano said. Schutz then knocked her unconscious and molested her. She came to and tried to escape, but Schutz hit her again. "That was probably the fatal blow," Gargano added.

Schutz told police he then went to a nearby motel parking lot where he sat in his car for about 15 minutes. He then returned to the field and assaulted the girl again.

"From there," Gargano continued, "he went to the service station on Golf and Greenwood roads where he worked and washed the blood off his hands. Then he went to the Foster Avenue beach and came home at 3 a.m. the next day and threw away his blood-stained clothes. His wife didn't think anything about her husband's disappearance."

'I Would Like To Do It All Again'

Actor To Appear In 75th Role

by LEON SHURE

The beautiful heroine will tell her tale of woe. A tall man, dressed as an 80-year-old Indian, will listen and fall asleep.

Underneath the make-up, is a Des Plaines resident, Ed Sauer, who will be helping the Des Plaines Theatre Guild Friday to celebrate its 25th anniversary. And he will be celebrating a few of his own.

Sauer is the only charter member of the Guild still performing, and he figures that this production of the musical "Little Mary Sunshine" will be his 75th play.

Sauer, 51, of 9700 N. Dee, Des Plaines, has many memories of the 25 years since the Guild's founding in 1946 — like the time the Guild performed by flashlight, and three members of the cast came down with laryngitis at the same time.

HE JOINED THE Guild at the urging of its founder Harland Roden. Sauer was living in Park Ridge then, and taking voice classes at a small drama school. Roden was looking for actors.

Sauer had been interested in acting since he played a part in a St. Patrick's Day play when he was 17. He'd served at Pearl Harbor during World War II in the 9th Naval district personnel office.

Sauer, then 26 years old, played his first Guild role as a 50 year old man in "Brighten the Corner," a comedy. This seemed to set the pattern for Sauer. He played many comedy character roles. At one point he acted in 15 plays in a row.

The Guild had 25 members in the beginning. The actors sometimes had to finance the plays themselves. They performed in the gym of the Rand Park Fieldhouse, in Des Plaines. Later they moved to the second floor, west room.

In 1962, the Guild moved to 620 Lee St. in downtown Des Plaines, and fixed up an old Masonic meeting hall. They renovated it, and put in regular theater seats, from the Pickwick Theater in Park Ridge.

AMONG HIS LEADS were roles in "Majority of One" where he played a successful Japanese businessman, and the weak husband in Lillian Hellman's "Little Foxes."

He has directed several plays, the most recent, last season's production of "Tom Jones."

He also is a former president of the Guild, and is now serving a two year term on its board of directors.

During the 25 years of the Guild, he has seen it grow to an annual subscription sale of almost 600.

"We are able to do better productions, because we have better talent coming in from all areas. We can do stronger plays, and we're stronger in other ways like set design and directors."

"I've made a lot of friends here, and met so many new people. I've seen it make a real difference in the lives of the people who have joined the guild. It's given them confidence and self assurance."

All did not go smoothly during the 25 years. Sauer remembers an ice-storm that blacked out the Rand Park Fieldhouse during a performance.

"WE ASKED THE audience to go to their cars and bring up their flashlights, if they wanted us to go on. We performed by flashlight and lanterns."

The only performance cancelled in 25 years, Sauer said, was the night that three members of the cast got laryngitis the same night.

During a performance of the play "Tipsey Rebellion" Sauer was clunked on the head by a clamp which was supposed to hold up some scenery. It didn't knock him out. "I guess my head was harder than the clamp."

Sauer's finest moment was his performance as Lord Burleigh in the play, "Mary Stewart," he said. Sauer had played so many comedy parts that he'd been dubbed the "Clown of the Guild." In this performance, in which he played an absolute villain, he feels he proved he could play a truly dramatic role.

Sauer, who moved to Des Plaines several years ago, is unmarried, and works in the Loop, doing personnel work for Cook County.

HE IS 6 feet 2 inches tall, with blue eyes and grey hair. His hobbies are golf and swimming.

In the production Friday, he plays an old Indian named Fleetfoot, who is the opposite of his name. In fact, he can hardly stay awake long enough to find out what's happening.

He only speaks a strange mixture of gibberish that's supposed to be Indian. His anniversary speech begins towards the end of the first act. He says "Um-tomgola," and it's the beginning of another comedy role.

Another statement is more appropriate. "If I had these 25 years with the guild to do over, I would do it all again," Sauer said.

Effects of Smoking Topic of Meeting

"The Effects of Smoking on the Human Body" will be the topic for discussion when members of the National Health Federation, West Suburban Chapter, meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Elmhurst.

G.T. Hewlett, member of the Hinsdale

Sanatorium and hospital staff, will be guest speaker.

Dr. C.L. Dale, pathologist of the sanatorium and hospital, aided Hewlett in assembling material for the program.

The meeting will be held in the Reserve Savings and Loan building.

Campaign Comments

by ED MURNANE

Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Bellefonte, Democratic candidate for state treasurer, spent the first of several campaign days in the suburbs yesterday. He made stops in Arlington Heights and Niles Township, and said he plans to concentrate his October campaigning in the Chicago area.

State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, for the second time, will host a cocktail party Friday afternoon following a press conference featuring U.S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn. Anderson is visiting the 13th District, Warman said, "to discuss in depth the congressional committee which is presently investigating Rep. Philip Crane's exceptional attempts to whitewash the Con Son prison situation and the Thieu-Ky regime, as well as Crane's questionable attack on House colleagues."

Crane's story on Con Son has been backed up recently by Astronaut Frank Borman, who also visited the prison.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman's son, Andy, went back where he came from last weekend. The Schlickman's drove Andy to Georgetown University in Washington D.C. where he is starting his freshman year. Andy was born at Georgetown Hospital.

Do you know what Helminthosporium Maydis is? That's the official name of the fungus responsible for Illinois' corn blight. Dr. Franklin Yoder, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said the fungus will not cause human infection. Thought you'd be interested.

George Dunne, Cook County board president and a candidate for reelection, will attend the St. Emily's Church picnic Sunday afternoon at Northwestern Forest Preserve in Des Plaines.

Ed Warman is using the same campaign stationery this year that he used last year, with a new campaign headquarters address typed over the old address. Campaign funds are getting scarce for everyone.

The College Democrats of Illinois are launching a drive to register 65,000 students in time for the Nov. 3 election. According to the organization, the 65,000 are at nine universities and colleges in the state and are over 21 but have not registered. Makes you wonder about the 18-year-old vote, doesn't it?

County Assessor P.J. Cullerton, Demo-

Sen. Alan Dixon

crat seeking reelection, will open a Northwest suburban headquarters in the Lawrencewood Shopping Center in Niles. Phone number is 967-6500. Grand opening will be scheduled soon.

Mrs. Jeanette Erskine and Mrs. Charlotte Harvey, both of Des Plaines, have been named co-chairmen of the 10th Annual Elk Grove GOP dinner-dance Oct. 16. The dance is to be held at the new Naverone Restaurant, Higgins Road and Oakton Street, in Elk Grove Township. Tickets ($30 a couple) are available by calling Mrs. Jacki Brenner at 439-5015. Mrs. Brenner says you better hurry.

U.S. Rep. Daniel Rostenkowski, D-8th (Chicago), said Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, "has one of the sharpest political minds I've seen." Rostenkowski, prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., said Crane's image as a "far-right conservative" isn't true. He's voting as a good Republican.

Bill Swinford, former Paddock Publications staffer who was recently in the PR department of the Peace Corps, is now with the Department of Housing and Urban Development, according to Thomas Houser, Peace Corps deputy director.

Taxes Can Be Protested

You think your real estate or personal property taxes are getting out of hand and you would like to file a protest?

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, the law gives you the right to protest the appropriations and levies of local tax bodies — but it isn't easy. Moreover, even though you may protest all or any part of a tax, you must at the same time make whatever tax payment is due. The notice of payment under protest must accompany the timely payment of the tax and be in the form required by Illinois law.

In the case of payment under protest of a real estate tax, the protest must contain the volume number and item number of the tax as these appear on the tax bill, the original amount of tax and amount of the payment that accompanies the protest. Most important, at a time after paying his taxes under protest, the taxpayer must state his ground for objecting to the tax and the percentage of the tax which he claims should be refunded by filing his written objections with the circuit court of the county in which the property is located.

THE FACT THAT A real estate taxpayer feels that his taxes are "too high" is not one of the grounds of protest provided by law. Instead, the taxpayer must allege that certain procedures were not followed when the taxes for the year in question were appropriated and levied for his taxing district. The taxpayer, by his protest, petitions for the refunding to him of his pro-rata share of the allegedly illegal tax.

Generally speaking, the law requires a three-step procedure in order for taxes to be properly levied by the taxing body. An infraction anywhere along the line could provide ground for a taxpayer's protest.

The three steps are as follows:

1. The taxing body must prepare a budget which estimates the assets and liabilities of each fund of the body as of the beginning of the fiscal year, as well as income it will receive from various sources and the expenditures which are anticipated.

2. The taxing body must appropriate the money required to cover the anticipated expenditures and this appropriation usually must be published in a newspaper which has general circulation within the taxing district.

3. The taxing body must pass the levy which authorizes the levying of taxes against the property in the tax district. In most districts, a certified copy of this levy must be filed with the county clerk. In certain districts, there must be a public hearing before the appropriation is passed.

ACCORDING TO THE ISBA, any failure on the part of the taxing body to fulfill the legal requirements may be a substantial defect which voids the levy. The protesting taxpayer may allege that the taxing body underestimated available assets or income, overstated liabilities and that had more accurate assessments been made, the tax levy would have been reduced or unnecessary.

The rules and procedures for protesting of personal property taxes are similar to those for protesting real estate taxes. The ISBA said protesting one's taxes is different from objecting to the assessor's evaluation of a person's real estate or other property for tax purposes, which is another story.

The Almanac

by United Press International

Today is Thursday, Sept. 10, the 233rd day of 1970 with 112 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1813 American Navy Capt. Oliver Perry defeated a British squadron in the battle of Lake Erie.

In 1846 Elias Howe received a patent for the sewing machine.

In 1889 Empress Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary was assassinated by an anarchist.

In 1962 an Air Force jet tanker crashed near Mt. Spokane, Wash. killing 42 persons.

A thought for the day: Samuel Lover said, "Reproof on her lip, but a smile in her eye."

Social Security And You

Q I'll soon be 60 and eligible for social security widow's benefits. I have no idea what my husband's social security number was, and I can't find his card. Can I apply for social security anyway?

A Yes, go ahead and file the application at your social security office. But to locate your husband's number, they'll need to know his full name, where and when he was born, his father's name, and his mother's maiden name.

Q I get social security because of my disability. Is there a limit on how long I can get checks?

A Your benefits will continue as long as you are disabled or until you are 65. At 65 your disability benefits will be changed to retirement benefits. The amount of your payments will not change however.

Q I was getting social security as the wife of a retired worker until I went back to work. Now I have worked enough to get retirement benefits on my own record. Can I collect as both a wife and a retired person?

A Sorry, you can't get both benefits at the same time. But if the benefit based on your earnings would be larger than the amount you'd collect as a wife, you would get this higher benefit.

Q My husband and I receive a single social security check with both our names on it. Can we receive separate checks?

A Yes. Checks for married couples usually are combined to save administrative costs and to save check cashing fees. But, if you'd rather get separate checks, just send a written request, signed by you or your husband, to your social security office.

Q My father wants to retire at 62. Will he be able to get social security?

A Yes, but his monthly checks would be 20 per cent less than the amount he'd collect if he retired at 65.

Q I have contributed to social security for 10 years. How much will I get when I retire?

A That depends on your earnings. The amount of your social security checks will be figured at the time you retire on the basis of your average earnings over a period of years. But your contributions over the past ten years ensure that you have enough work to qualify for retirement benefits and Medicare.

Q When I started working, my social security contributions were very small. They have increased a number of times since then. Have benefits gone up, too?

A Yes. The average monthly benefit for a retired worker has increased some five times since payments first began in 1940. The average retirement check in 1940 was $22.60. Today, the average is $118.

Not only has the benefit amount increased, but health insurance and benefits for survivors, dependents, and the disabled have been added over the years.

Q I get VA disability benefits. Can I get disability benefits from social security, too?

A Yes, if you meet the social security disability requirements. The fact you get VA payments will have no effect on social security benefits. The disability requirements for social security are different than the requirements for the VA benefits however.

For further information call 282-5200.

The Doctor Says:

Suffering From Arteriosclerosis?

by WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—IN WHAT WAY does disodium edetate help arteriosclerosis? Is it available yet?

A—This drug is given to bind the calcium in the blood when too much calcium is present in the tissues including the arteries. It is available on prescription as Endrate or Sodium Versenate.

Q—I HAVE temporal arteritis. What is the cause and treatment?

A—The cause of this inflammation of the temporal artery in the skull is not known. It is rare in persons who are under 55 and is characterized by pain and soreness to touch in the temporal region. If cortisone is given early in the course of the disease and continued for six weeks, the condition is usually cured.

Q—A PHYSICAL training teacher said that standing on one's head is good for hardening of the arteries. Is this true? Would it have any harmful effects?

A—Standing on one's head will increase the blood supply to the brain but will not improve cerebral arteriosclerosis. If continued for more than four or five minutes, it may cause unconsciousness.

Q—WHAT IS the difference between polyarteritis nodosa and periarthritis nodosa? Can they be cured?

A—These are two names for the same disease. The cause is unknown but it is rarely seen in anyone under 30. Drugs of the cortisone group give the best chance of improvement but they must be used with caution in victims of this disease.

Q—I HAVE HAD agammaglobulinemia since 1957. I get an injection of gamma globulin every week. Are there any pills I could take instead?

A—Your shortage of natural gamma globulin increases your susceptibility to infection. There is no drug you can take by mouth for this but the injection of an adequate amount every four weeks should be sufficient.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., IN CARE OF Paddeek Publications, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Air Conditioning, Anyone?

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
NEW YORK (UPI) — You've made it through the worst of another long, hot summer but next year — air conditioning.

If you own your own home, plan to live in it for some years, if it has ductwork or is so arranged that ducts can be installed easily and economically, central air conditioning could be the answer for you. Now, before winter winds cool the memory, is the time to plan next year's air conditioning. And your plans need not be grandiose.

But central air conditioning is not essential to comfortable summertime living. One or two window units can work wonders — in a three-room apartment or a two-story house.

"The key is in thoughtful planning," says Paul Komroff, vice president of engineering for the Quiet Kool division of Emerson Television & Radio Co., Woodbridge, N.J.

Komroff speaks from 35 years of engineering experience in the room air conditioning industry and such personal credits as the first 10,000 BTU, air conditioner to operate on 7½ amps — plug in anywhere unit — and the first 14,000 BTU unit at 12 amps.

A delightfully frank man, with a faculty for translating his engineering know-how into layman's language, he talks not of the perfect air conditioning system for the ideally designed home, but of the ingenious setup such as that he worked out for the first apartment of newlywed young relatives.

Air from the cooled living room was blown down the hall to the bedroom at night by means of a directional fan placed on the floor and adequately protected by a screen box. "You'd be surprised at how well the one unit cooled that apartment," he said.

Adequate size is important in an air conditioner, of course, Komroff said, but he warned against the pitfall of thinking biggest necessarily is best. "An oversize unit won't do a better job. It will cool faster, then shut off, allowing humidity to build up and make you uncomfortable."

If the requirements for your house work out between standard unit sizes, say 11,000 BTUs, buy a 10,000 BTU unit, not the 12,000 job, he advised.

"Use ingenuity in locating a unit," he urged. Some examples:

In a typical small two-story house with forced air heating and ducts, a single 24,000 BTU unit, selling for less than $400, can cool the whole house nicely.

Place the conditioner in a room where the noise will be least annoying — in a dining room perhaps, or a ground floor utility room. Then manipulate your heating ducts. Run the furnace fan in summer position.

Shut off supply ducts to the room where the conditioner is located, open the return ducts. As air is cooled it is returned to the furnace fan and recirculated to other rooms where supply ducts have been opened, return ducts closed. At night, supply ducts can be shut off in living rooms and the cool air concentrated in bedrooms.

IN HOUSES WITHOUT ducting, smaller units upstairs and down may do the job. To cool a typical three-bedroom second floor with no hall, for instance, Komroff recommends a fairly large unit be run all day in the master bedroom, then be shut off at night.

A kitchen exhaust fan will help distribute cool air from a conditioner on the first floor. A regular window fan moves too large a volume of air to be used for this purpose, he said.

In a typical two-story, center hall layout, Komroff said, a unit in the upstairs hall window usually will do the trick, perhaps with an auxiliary unit downstairs in kitchen or family room.

In some split levels where basements are above grade and windows are of adequate size, units may be ducted directly into a forced air furnace for distribution to rooms upstairs. Ordinary basement windows generally are too small and too low, Komroff said.

As a general rule, he said, place a conditioner as high as possible, allowing the cool air to drop to lower levels. For less conspicuous location in a permanent dwelling, units may be placed in sleeves through the wall.

Adequate roof insulation, awnings to shade windows unprotected by trees, a dehumidifier in the basement can help

Tornado On Capitol Hill?

by CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI) —Tornadoes are rare on Capitol Hill, but a watch has been called for next January. Most observers predict the impending storm will take its shape in feminine form.

They say it will hit in the guise of a vociferous congressional hopeful named Bella Abzug, a lawyer, 49, referred to by her supporters as the "Wonder Woman."

"I plan to shake Congress up or there wouldn't be any reason for me to go," Mrs. Abzug said in an interview. "I believe in a new style of politics —activism and leadership."

"Anybody can make a speech but, the people want someone who will understand their problems, organize, fight and stay with them and not wait for them to write a letter."

"I'm an activist. I really believe in the role of leadership. I don't just talk about it."

Mrs. Abzug, a practicing attorney since 1947, is a founder and member of both the New York state and national executive committees of the New Democratic Coalition, a reform democratic organization.

SHE BEGAN her congressional bid with a hard hitting Democratic primary campaign in Manhattan's conglomerate 19th district. Campaigning against the war and for total equality for women, she incumbent Leonard Farbstein, 67, for the nomination by a vote of 17,341 to 14,642, thus ending liberal Farbstein's 14-year tenure in the House of Representatives.

The 19th district is heavily Democratic so that the primary victory is considered tantamount to election, which means the house will get its first women's liberation spokesman.

However, Mrs. Abzug —the wife of a stockbroker and the mother of two teenager daughters —does not associate herself with the radical side of the women's "lib" movement.

"I'm very sober in my approach to women's liberation," she said. "I'm not interested in replacing men, but I do think they can be changed a little."

"Women should be able to lead full lives and realize their total capacity, which society does not fully allow. Women are not encouraged to reach the levels men are allowed to reach."

"I will take the cause of women —America's oppressed majority —to the halls of Congress. I will fight in Washington against the discrimination that condemns most women to low-paying jobs, gives women welfare instead of income, keeps them out of the professions, denies them day care facilities, mis-educates their children, gives third rate health care to black, Puerto Rican and poor women, and forces them to risk their lives by submitting to illegal abortions."

Mrs. Abzug, national legislative director of Women Strike for Peace, said that the Vietnam war and "archaic" congressional rules will be her first targets.

An outspoken opponent of the war, she believes America is going in the direction of militarism.

"The Pentagon is still running the country," she said. "People want jobs and decent housing, but they can't get them because all the money is being used for the war."

"THE WAR IS robbing us of our maternal resources."

Of congressional rules, she said, The "archaic" rules don't allow Congress to represent the people. The committee system is an impossibility, she said.

"I will join the small but growing group of men and women in Congress challenging the outmoded seniority system and insisting that Congress represent the reality of American life."

In November, Mrs. Abzug will run against the radio broadcaster, Barry Farber, the Republican-Liberal candidate. Both are outspoken but Mrs. Abzug's booming voice puts her points across with pile-driver punch. Her campaign literature tells you that "This Woman's Place Is In The House ... the House of Representatives."

Harris, Ginger Loughman Win Paddock Tennis Titles

Greg Harris and Ginger Loughman reign as the new 18-and-under champions in the 10th Annual Paddock Tennis Tournament.

Harris, seeded No. 1 in the tourney, was hard pressed by third-seeded Jim Merkel in the title match. After the eventual champion captured the opening set by a 6-1 score, Merkel reversed the total to take the second set. Harris came on in the final with a tough 6-3 victory and the trophy.

Miss Loughman wrapped up the crown on Labor Day with a pro set 10-6 win over Nancy Skarzyski.

Miss Loughman reached the finals with three wins and a bye. After getting by the opening round without using her racquet, Ginger stopped Ann Tobin by two 6-2 scores.

Then she had an easy (6-1) and then a hard (8-6) set victories over Pam Crews to gain a semifinal shot.

In the semis she met and defeated Andrea Laffey by scores of 6-3, 6-4.

Miss Skarzyski also drew a bye as the top seeded player. In the second round she met and defeated Kim Crews by scores of 6-4, 6-0; the next victim was Claudia Borman by nearly identical matches of 6-2, 6-0; and finally she disposed of Lynne Schwabe — ranked third in the seeds — by totals of 8-6, 6-1.

But Miss Loughman, who was the fourth seeded player, proved to be too tough to handle in the finale.

Harris posted five victories enroute to the title. He blanked his first two opponents — Craig Mathews and Eric Vid — by 6-0 counts; defeated Roger O'Keefe 6-2, 6-4 in the fourth round; stopped Gray Pederson 6-0, 6-3; and put out fourth-seeded Don Martin in the semifinals, 6-3, 6-1.

Merkel, who finished second in boys action, won the opener by default. He blanked Don Cerva (6-0, 6-0) in the second round and was off and running. Jeff Seeger was the second victim by 6-2, 6-1; then handled Wayne Fish, 6-1, 6-0; and won his semifinal match against Don Martin's brother Dick by sets of 6-2, 6-3. So both Martin brothers just missed facing each other in the finals.

The men and women will play for their titles on Sunday beginning at 1 p.m. at the Arlington courts. Their final rounds were also rained out last weekend.

Don Martin reached the upper bracket semifinals in this manner:

He stopped his first two opponents — Dave McAllister and John Paczkowski — by 6-0, 6-1 counts; then he won 6-3, 6-1 over Mark Greenberg; and finally reached the semi's with a 6-4, 6-3 decision over Doug Lauterberger.

His brother Dick also avoided any three-setters enroute to the semi's of the lower bracket. He progressed this way:

He defeated Vern Fish 6-1, 6-0 in the first round; stopped Bill Joyce 6-3, 6-2 in the second; handled Scott Steingraber 6-2, 6-1 in the third; and then disposed of tough Bruce Starek by scores of 6-4 and 9-7 before losing to Merkel.

The two girls to reach the semifinals — Lynne Schwabe and Andrea Laffey — got there in this manner:

Lynne had an opening bye and then handled Karen Greenberg by scores of 6-0, 6-1. After that she met and defeated Sue Hoglund by sets of 6-2, 6-3 for her shot at Nancy Skarzyski.

Andrea wasn't lucky enough to have an opening bye and had to go three sets before ousting Debbie Rubner 2-6, 7-5 and 6-3. She had an easier time of it with Susan Dean winning 6-1, 6-2. She reached the semi's by defeating Laura Schunk by scores of 6-2, 6-3.

There were 64 boys and 23 girls that competed in this first singles tourney sponsored by Paddock Publications.

During the past nine Labor Day tourneys, the field had been held to just mixed doubles play. In all there were over 170 adults and children participating from throughout the area.

FIRING AWAY at the elusive tennis ball is Roger King during last weekend's Paddock Singles Tournament at Arlington High School's tennis courts. King went three sets before bowing to Lothar Peistrup. Peistrup can earn a berth in the finals on Sunday by getting by Dave Johnson. The finals were moved up from last weekend because of the heavy rains. Both the men and women will play for the first place trophies.

LOTHAR'S KING. Lothar Peistrup returns a shot at Roger King during action last weekend in the Paddock Singles Tennis Tournament. Peistrup took three sets before defeating King and advanced to the semifinal round against Dave Johnson. The finals for both men and women will be played on Sunday at 1 p.m. because of last weekend's rainstorm.

Tony Sacco— Vet Official

by JIM COOK

Rules govern professional sports just as laws control a democratic society; yet the enforcers of these regulations are often unpraised or even entirely ignored.

In the realm of professional athletics, the umpires or officials are a major influence, although they hesitate to admit it.

Whether calling a third strike on a pitch on the outside corner with the bases loaded and a full count, or bringing back the winning touchdown because of an offside infraction with time expired, the decision of these men is final.

Tony Sacco is one official who dons the black-and-white striped shirt every weekend during the NFL-AFL grid campaign. In his role as umpire, Tony is responsible for observing the play of the interior linemen for a variety of infractions.

His whistle will be the first to interrupt the bone-cracking tackles on up-the-middle plays while his penalty flag will signify an ineligible receiver downfield, holding, illegal use of the hands, clipping, etc.

It's one of those jobs that you never dream about as a youngster. Sacco longed to star on the grid scene, but in a different capacity. In his college heyday, Sacco spent most of his time and energy directing the offense at St. Ambrose College in Davenport, Ia. where his ability earned him All-Conference honors and Little All-American distinction.

He bumped heads with the Green Bay Packers in his first taste of pro ball during the College All-Star spectacle in 1940, after which he was rapidly drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Sacco's dream-true-reality, however, quickly turned nightmare when his playing career vanished with a shoulder injury in the St. Louis Shrine Game. The misfortune instead transformed Tony into one of the game's most effective "policemen."

He returned to school to work on his masters in Chemical Engineering, but his yearning for the gridiron soon found him back in action.

"I got my start in the Arlington Heights-Palatine area," Sacco said, "when Wally Grace and Earl Stutzman asked me to officiate a varsity football game."

Since that first rung on the ladder, Sacco has climbed through grade school, high school, college and finally professional ranks.

His technique and excellence have earned him assignments to the National Football League Championship Games in 1961 and 1965, the Playoff Bowl in 1966, the Eastern Championship Games in 1967 and 1968 and the College All-Star classics in 1968 and 1970.

Adding to his repertoire in the off season, Tony contributed his services in over 200 cage games and the Illinois State High School Basketball Tournament in 1961-2-3.

As football expanded into the American League, the need for more and better officiating grew in proportion.

Schools for officials soon blossomed to meet the need and to better interpret rules and techniques of the game. Sacco, a past president of the Central Official's Association in Chicago, helped in the seminars to instruct and direct the incoming students.

He will join forces with Tommy Bell and Pat Hardner, two other NFL officials, to conduct a camp in Chicago this year.

The latest regulation to emerge from the clinics is the answer to the official timer. Previously, the official clock was kept by the head linesman. His watch, however, was sometimes in contradiction with the scoreboard clock which was influencing thousands of fans viewing the game. The new rule, however, makes the scoreboard time official.

Asked if the invention of the "instant replay" for the television audience has been degradingly revealing for the officials, Sacco said, "On the contrary. I think people realize we're making the right calls when they review the play."

Of course, bad camera angles are responsible for some of the refute, but the device has served to expose aspects of the game that may have gone unnoticed during the "live" action.

The final gun hardly terminates work for the professional football official. During the next week, for example, coaches and league officials will review the game and offer constructive criticism for the six referees.

Came Monday morning, Tony Sacco is back to "normal" life at his Oak Park residence preparing for a day's work as vice president of the Acid Products Company Inc. and the Midwest Chlorine Corp. of Chicago.

Five days later, though, his mind will be drawn to keeping peace among the bruisers of the gridiron.

Boys' Hockey League Plans Organizational Meeting

A hockey league is being formed for boys between the ages of 8-18 from Schaumburg and the surrounding communities. The proposed instructional league will divide boys into five age groups as follows: Squirts (8-10), Peewees (11-12), Bantams (13-14), Midgets (15-16) and Juveniles (17-18).

All instructional or clinic skaters will be supervised by experienced mature skaters from the area. The entire program is organized in cooperation with and under the guidance of the Schaumburg Park District and the Schaumburg Athletic Association.

A tryout will be held Saturday night at 8:15. Ice time has been reserved at Michael Kirby Arena in River Forest and all boys who wish to register and try out should report to the arena at 7308 W. Central Ave. no later than 7:45 p.m.

Skates and all available equipment should be brought with the boys. Those who have already signed up should report to the rink by 8 p.m. A fee of $1.50 will be charged for this initial tryout to defray cost of renting the Kirby rink.

More information will be published in later Paddock issues and at local school. A general meeting of interested parents will be held at the Great Hall in October. Immediate information is available now by calling Bob Atkinson at 804-0825 or Paul Dirda of the Park District.

GOLF TALK IS STILL GOLFIN'.

Taxpayers Ask The IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) — I DON'T have the money to pay all that I owe on my third quarter estimated tax. Can I pay part now and the rest next time?

A) — You may have to pay a penalty based on a 6 per cent annual rate if your payments are not made in full when they are due. To avoid the penalty, your estimated tax installments must be paid on time and should amount to at least 90 per cent of your income tax when your return for the year is filed. Farmers and fishermen can avoid this penalty if their payments equal 66 and two-thirds per cent of their total tax liability.

Q) — I USED an employment agency to get my job. Are the fees I paid deductible?

A) — Yes, if you itemize expenses this will be deductible. If a job was not secured, the fees are nondeductible.

Q) — I WORK part-time as a maid. How can I tell if social security is being paid for me?

A) — Ask your employer whether these taxes are being paid for you. Employers are required to file a return and pay social security taxes for household employees when cash wages of $50 or more are paid to an employee during any calendar quarter. Employers are also required to provide employees with an annual statement of wages paid and social security taxes withheld.

A full statement of your Social Security coverage may be obtained by writing the Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Md. 21235. Give your name, address and social security number when you write.

Q) — MY SON has earned almost $600 this year. If he makes any more will I lose his exemption?

A) — If your son is either under 19 at the end of the year or a full-time student for at least five months during the year, the amount of his earnings will not affect his status as your dependent. The other dependency tests, support for instance, must continue to be met.

Q) — I TOOK a loss when I sold some stock I inherited. Can I deduct this on my return?

A) — If you sold the stock for less than its fair market value on the date of the decedent's death then you are entitled to either a short or long term capital loss depending on how long you owned the stock beginning with the date of death. Anything over six months would be a long term loss.

Q) — THE BANK where my daughter opened up a savings account wants her social security number. Where can she get one?

A) — Your daughter may apply for a social security number by filling out Form SS-5 which may be obtained from your local Social Security or IRS office. Banks and other financial institutions are required by law to report certain dividend and interest payments by the identifying number of the recipient.

Teachers Attend Religion Class

More than 1,000 Catholic volunteers from the Northwest suburbs will attend workshops this month in preparation for teaching religion to students enrolled in public schools.

The volunteers from 11 parishes in the area will attend eight-hour workshops in nine centers sponsored by the Northwest Coordinators, a regional group of religious educators working in Northwest Cook County.

The cooperating parishes are: St. Anne of Barrington; St. Cecilia and St. Raymond of Mount Prospect; St. Colette of Rolling Meadows; St. Edna and St. James of Arlington Heights; St. Julian Eymard of Elk Grove Village; St. Hubert on Hoffman Estates; St. John the Evangelist of Streamwood; Our Lady of the Brook in Northbrook; and St. Theresa of Palatine.

THE NINE workshops for the volunteers who will teach catechism is the first cooperative project being planned by Northwest Coordinators to pool the resources and professional abilities of the Northwest area where parishes are facing the problem of rapidly expanding populations.

Coordinators of the participating parishes are: Sister Eileen Marie of St. Anne; Mrs. Bernadette Arnold of St. Cecilia; Sister Grace Marie Kelly and Mrs. Pat Miller of St. Colette; Sister Kay Merrill of St. Edna; The Rev. Thomas

Dore of St. Hubert; Mrs. Vicki Driver of St. James; Sister Carol Plochowski of St. John; Sister Rosemary Lynch of St. Julian Eymard; Sister JoAnn Persch of Our Lady of the Brook; Sister Mary Mrozynski of St. Raymond; and Sister Jean Allen of St. Theresa.

Republican Election Judges Meeting Set

Maine Township Republican election judges have been invited to attend the regular organization's monthly meeting Friday at 8 p.m. in the Thomas Jefferson school, Niles, north of Oakton near Prospect.

Major business of the evening will be a special training session on how to conduct an efficient and lawful election, instructed by Mayor Robert O. Atcher of Schaumburg, Republican candidate for Cook county clerk, the office that controls the suburban election machinery.

County Commissioner Floyd T. Fulle, Maine Township GOP committeeman, said Atcher knows more about proper election procedures than anyone in the county, and it is hoped the session can help avoid a repetition of the election day "mess" that hit Maine township and the suburbs two years ago, which Fulle blamed on inefficiency in the county clerk's office.

In some respects Ely Culbertson was way ahead of his time back in the early '30s. At least, he was always coming up with ideas for new bids.

One of his greatest brain children was the "Asking Bid." This bid was so far ahead of its day that no one wanted to use it back in the '30s. It is still a mighty complicated bid and only a few expert partnerships use it today but there is a lot of merit to it.

Specifically, an "Asking Bid" inquires about his partner's holding in some suit. The simplest asking bid is a common sense one.

North has a mighty fine hand opposite an opening bid that improves considerably when his partner gets around to bidding the heart suit. He wants to find out exactly one thing. That is what his partner can do about the club suit.

South has a very strong opening bid, 16 high-card points and two good five-card suits. He merely bids two hearts at his second turn. At this point North can count enough points for a slam. However, you can't make a slam if the opponents take the first two tricks and North wonders about the club suit.

His jump to five hearts is a clear request to partner to go to six if he can handle the second round of clubs. South can't handle the second round of clubs so he passes in spite of his big hands.

If West doesn't open a club South will make all the tricks but West does open his suit and does take the first two tricks. This five-heart call was a common sense asking bid. Tomorrow we will show one of Ely's original asking bids.

AMERICA'S LARGEST FAMILY CLOTHING CHAIN

She's Carrie Nation Of Abortion Drive

by GERALD P. MERRELL

SAUSALITO, Calif. (UPI) — A 41-year-old Sausalito woman, educated in parochial schools in Oklahoma, seems an unlikely nominee as the Carrie Nation of the movement for unrestricted abortion.

But Patricia Theresa Jean Maginnis comes as close as anyone. She has been in and out of jail, has had three abortions, two self-induced, and estimates she has helped over 15,000 other women secure abortions.

Miss Maginnis was jailed after lecturing on self-abortion in seven California counties.

For many women, a stay behind bars epitomizes disgrace. But for Miss Maginnis the arrest marked the start of a series of court cases — none of which have been resolved — and an assault on the medical profession and abortion laws.

She was jailed after their counseling classes led to 1,200 abortions in only six months.

SINCE THAT INITIAL arrest three years ago, Miss Maginnis has stopped lecturing women on how to abort. But she continues the crusade against abortion restricting laws.

"The issue is simple," Miss Maginnis says. "Either women have the right to control their reproductive system or they don't."

The answer, she believes, rests within the judicial system and not in the halls of government.

"We're counting on the courts in the country to bail us out," she says. "The medical profession is not prepared to give abortions and the politicians are not eager to pass laws making abortions legal for every woman.

"Our fight will not end until all women have the right to receive abortions at any time and for any reason."

"The public has largely been left in the dark concerning the endless double-talk of lawmaking authorities and law enforcement personnel."

"No other medical concern of woman-kind has been more brutally degraded by sectarian beliefs and laws than abortion. No other women's right has suffered more at the whim of clergy and politicians than this issue."

Miss Maginnis equates her campaign with the civil rights movement of the 1960s. "We believe our fight is one for civil rights, just like the blacks waged a few years ago. And it was the courts that eventually gave them their rights, not laws. We believe the courts will do the same for us."

She points to the recent California State Supreme Court decision that the killing of a fetus at any time is not murder because a fetus is not a human being.

There are two other California cases which Miss Maginnis believes will bear heavily upon liberalizing abortion laws in the nation.

THE FIRST IS the case of Los Angeles physician John Gwynne who was arrested five times within six months for performing abortions. His case is expected to go to the United States Supreme Court where a landmark decision is expected.

The second is the case of former

Northern California instructor Richard Conrad Orser, arrested on charges of abortion counseling.

Miss Maginnis says if the courts rule in behalf of the two defendants, the barriers restricting abortions will go down once and for all.

Miss Maginnis maintains that the crux of the fight is for women's rights.

"Women can't show they are responsible about reproduction until they have the choice of not continuing a pregnancy."

Most states require that the pregnant woman be in danger of death from a pregnancy in order to qualify for legal medical care for abortion, she said.

"This shows that women are not emancipated. It's a insidious society which sets up social control over our private lives."

The Lighter Side

A Boondock Nemesis?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon wants to revitalize rural life in America and toward that end he appointed a task force to study ways of invigorating the boondocks.

I was looking over a copy of the task force's report just now and guess what it listed as one of the problems that must be overcome?

Why, bless my soul, if it isn't our old urban nemesis, the "communication gap."

Yes, sir, the task force has discovered a communication gap right out there in America's hinterland, the same as us city folks have.

"We urge business organizations, professional associations, farm organizations, service clubs and others to appoint joint working committee to bridge the communication gap between towns and farms," the task force urged.

MAN AND BOY, I must have seen at least 50 studies of urban problems and almost invariably they pointed to a communication gap as one of the difficulties.

Word that the gap has now spread into the countryside is distressing news indeed.

And for one who has a bucolic background himself, it is puzzling as well as distressing.

For during the time I spent in a rural environment, we communicated without cleavage.

There was, in fact, a plethora of communication. Which is why some of us fled to the city.

In thinking over the matter, I have concluded that the rural communication gap probably is the fault of the Rural Electrification Administration.

Since 1949, REA has underwritten the installation of 558,768 miles of telephone lines in rural areas. Needless to say, this has dealt a sharp blow to the old party-line system, under which up to about a dozen subscribers would share a single line.

Any old farm boy can tell you that a party line phone was the most effective communications medium ever devised. On a good day you might reach as many as 11 eavesdroppers with a single call.

If the REA has now made private conversation possible in pastoral areas, it obviously has severely straitened the means by which country folks once kept in touch with each other.

Probably the only way to bridge the communication gap would be to legalize wiretapping.

ATHENS (UPI) — In 399 B.C. the Athens supreme court condemned the philosopher Socrates to death on charges he corrupted the city's youth.

Socrates was offered the choice of exile, but drank the poison hemlock rather than leave Athens, where he was a central figure in the debate over whether children should be educated only in the home, or in schools run by professional educators.

Plato, in his "Dialogues," quotes Socrates on the day of the trial as saying: "And now I must go to the Stoa of the Basileus to answer to the suit which Meletus has brought against me."

Now archaeologist Leslie Shear Jr. and a party from the American School of Classical Studies have unearthed remains of a small stone building they are sure is that Stoa in the market place of ancient Athens.

Shear, of Princeton University, cited Socrates' statements as proof the philosopher was sentenced at the Stoa of Basileus. He referred to a description by the 2nd century traveler Pausanias as proof the newly discovered building is indeed the Stoa.

Pausanias who left detailed accounts of the places he visited, wrote that he entered the Agora (market place) through the dipylon (double gate) and saw the Stoa of Basileus on his right.

Where Shear's team is working, traces of roads described by Pausanias can be seen with their marble gutters on either side. Only the foundations and part of the north wall and eastern pavement remain of the Stoa, where cases involving religion and murder were heard.

In the courtyard, Shear found the foundations of six stela (memorial pillars) to Hermes, the Greek god of commerce.

Socrates' friend Alcibiades was tried in absentia 16 years before Socrates and convicted of mutilating the pillars. The mutilation took place on the eve of the Athenian fleet's departure for Sicily, where it was destroyed. Alcibiades escaped death by defecting to Sparta.

Shear said the Stoa of the Basileus is one of the oldest and longest-used buildings of ancient Athens.

"It was built in the sixth century B.C. destroyed by the Persians in 480 B.C. when they sacked Athens and rebuilt soon after. This building was used continuously until the barbaric invasion of Greece in the 4th century A.D.," Shear said.

During the invasion the building was damaged and left outside the new walls built around the shrinking city.

The Stoa was discovered about 20 feet below the present street level under a maze of byzantine ruins, in a stretch of land alongside the Athens-Pireaus electric railway track.

Shear is confident if excavations are continued to the north, archeologists will find the Stoa of Hermes, built in 470 B.C., and the Painted Stoa, which dates to 460 B.C.

The Greek government paid for the expropriation of land where digging now is going on, with the archeological work financed by a $1 million grant from the Ford Foundation.

Leslie Shear of Princeton has been digging in the Agora on and off since 1931. The first professor Shear died in 1945 and his work later was taken over by his son.

"In view of my family, it is not surprising I became an archaeologist. I've been coming here for 15 years now," Shear said.

Stoa Building Unearthed

Doris Is 'Healthy' Star

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Doris Day may be the healthiest star of a weekly television series, no small thanks to her dedication to health foods and a plentiful dose of exercise.

The freckled star of "The Doris Day Show" arises before 7 a.m. each day, exercises lightly in her bedroom and then swims vigorously in her extralarge swimming pool.

After a shower Doris has a hearty breakfast and is off to the studio for a day's work, which frequently doesn't end until after sundown.

It is not unusual for Doris to have a short nap in her dressing room after a lunch of fruit or salad.

A widow — her husband, producer Martin Melcher, died more than two years ago — Doris' name does not appear in the gossip columns.

Shattered by the death of her husband, Doris retreated to her desert home in Palm Springs to reassemble her life. She is a devout Christian Scientist and drew strength from her religion.

She and Melcher once enjoyed the weekends at their Malibu Beach home, but Doris no longer spends much time there. On warm days she drives to the beach for long walks along the sand.

On days when she's not working, or during vacations, Doris likes nothing better than riding her bicycle around the neighborhood.

With freckles abloom, a straw hat, slacks and blouse, Doris is rarely recognized by tourists or residents. She enjoys riding into the heart of the Beverly Hills shopping district to have a cup of tea and cookies at a favorite shop.

HER COMPANIONS at home are six dogs. There is a collie named Daisy June, a mixed schnauzer and poodle who answers to Bubbles, and a frolicking foursome of poodles: Tiger, Muffy, Bobo and Charlie.

Doris is an avid sports fan who can be found in the stands cheering for the basketball Lakers and baseball's Dodgers.

When the mood seizes her — which is not infrequently — Doris redecorates her large, comfortable house. She is addicted to happy, bright colors, especially yellow and orange. Her furniture is comfortable and contemporary.

She likes to slip on a pair of gloves and putter about the yard, although she has a gardener. Additionally, she enjoys cooking, despite the fact she has full-time domestic help.

Neighbors are sometimes surprised when Doris, now in her 40s, stops on her bicycle to admire their gardens.

The blonde star of the CBS series is the mother of a son, Terry, now in his 20s, who is an executive with a recording company.

The two are close and it was Terry to whom Doris turned for counsel when Melcher died.

This season the format of her show will be changed somewhat to make Doris more metropolitan, a switch from the country setting of the series in its first year.

Doris is pleased with the change and the high ratings.

Are you getting enough out of life?

HAIR CARE IS not only important to good grooming but also to good mental health. Debby Hirschfelder of Forest Hospital talks to young women who are patients at the hospital on grooming techniques.

Family Living As Therapy

by DOROTHY OLIVER

The fashion show was a huge success. There were over 275 people in attendance; lovely fashions were provided by the Cynthia Shoppe whose staff spent many hours choosing the right clothes; and the models glided down the aisle, poised and beautiful.

The setting was the large, comfortable auditorium on the fourth floor of Forest Hospital. The models and stagehands were patients of the Des Plaines mental hospital. The fashion show was therapy.

The fashion show, lectures on grooming, family living discussions, occupational therapy and numerous other forms of therapy are part of the young adult program provided by Forest for men and women between the ages of 18 and 30.

There are anywhere between 30 and 40 young adults in the program with all types of mental illness, from the least to most serious.

PSYCHO-THERAPY, one part of the treatment program, is handled by the doctors. Psychodrama, a chance for the patients to act out experiences they have had, is held twice a week, and group therapy meets three times a week. Family therapy is also an important part.

The rest of the program is geared to normal activities, said Mrs. Kent (Debbie) Hirschfelder, who is in charge of hospital partialization and heads the young adults program. "We design the activities to what they can do despite their illness. Our activities are designed to be therapeutic."

One such activity was going on in occupational therapy. The patients were working on booths for a hospital carnival held in August. Large refrigerator boxes were being sprayed bright green to house the games. Patients, family and friends were invited to attend the event.

"THE OCCUPATIONAL therapy (O.T.) activities are geared to help the patients learn socialization skills. They also give them new and interesting leisure activities," Debbie explained.

She guided me through the O.T. work area which included every form of art and craft material imaginable. Leather work, ceramics, paintings, clay heads, papier mache, masks and so on were being created by engrossed patients of all ages. Debbie pointed out the art instructor, Helene Gullotta, who was busy setting up an easel for a bearded young man.

"She's been retired for 10 years after having taught art for years in the public schools. She has been at Forest teaching classes ever since she retired," Debbie explained.

The drama class is making a movie. They wrote their own script and are putting it on film. Debbie mentioned that there were several staff people at Forest who have had experience in production.

FAMILY LIVING is another large area of the complete program. Debbie noted that each area overlaps with another, making it a tight and complete means of treatment. Once a week, members of the young adult program plan, buy for and serve the dinner meal. After the meal they sit around the table over dessert and coffee and discuss budgeting, food-purchasing and the whole gamut of family living topics from venereal disease to marrying out of your religion.

"You wouldn't believe how many of the women here, at 30 years old, are not able to buy food for a simple meal. They have either never done it or they just don't know how to go about it — they're afraid. The night they make the dinner every participant gets the feeling of having accomplished something," Debbie said.

THERE IS ALSO a vocational guidance program for the young adults. People from the state come in to counsel and help the patients get jobs. The counselors on the program give advice on what to wear for an interview, how to fill out applications and how to act during an interview. In some cases, Debbie explained, the former job of the patient was a contributing factor to their illness and when they return to the working world they have to find a job in another field.

The hospital gives vocational training in some areas. They have typing and shorthand classes, and patients can earn high school and in some cases, college credits for courses they pursue while being hospitalized. Also, a sheltered workshop on the grounds enables patients to do piece work for companies and be paid a small wage. Other patients work in the hospital, acting as sales personnel in the gift shop, as librarians in the staff library, doing typing and other clerical jobs and for pay.

THE GROOMING CLASSES are part of the family living program. Presently, Pam Krug of American Airlines is donating her time to instruct the young women in how to choose their clothes, wear their make-up, sit, stand, walk and other bits and pieces of good grooming.

"Having a stewardess give the lectures adds a touch of glamor and also makes it more interesting for the patients," said Debbie.

The fashion show was the aftermath of the last family living session. "It gave the women a lot of confidence in themselves. They all started from scratch — no one had ever modeled before — and they all worked together."

"The women from the Cynthia Shoppe were wonderful. They gave so much time and had so much patience," she said.

Social therapy gives the patients a chance to learn new behavior and then try it out. They're in a very supportive atmosphere while doing this, Debbie explained, which makes it easier. Current events discussions, debates and other activities help each one to gain confidence in himself and gain social skills at the same time. They learn to relate to others.

HOSPITAL LIFE for the young adults is not limited to the hospital grounds. Frequent expeditions are undertaken into the outside world. Once a week the patients go on a shopping trip to Des Plaines. They have gone to baseball games, to dinner and theater at the Old Orchard Country Club and to Arlington Park race track. Every Friday night they attend or hold informal dances. Each patient has to have permission from his doctor to participate.

"We try to get out as much as possible," said Debbie. "Some of the patients feel they have 'mental illness' written across their foreheads and it's good for them to find out that they can be out and no one has any idea they are mental patients."

Always available as friends and advisors are the five counselors who supervise the young adult program. All have backgrounds in psychology plus extensive experience in working with the mentally ill. They range in age from 24 to 30 matching the ages of the people they treat. Debbie, a Des Plaines resident with a master's, in clinical psychology heads the team. Working with her are Mrs. Robert Bloom, a mother of two from Elk Grove; Bruce Townsley of Park Ridge; Tom Grabber of Chicago; and Christine Smith of Chicago, who was just hired.

"OUR RELATIONSHIP with the patients is very good," Debbie said of the staff. "It is one of friendship while they're here. One of us is close to each of the patients. Then, too, the rest of the staff at Forest works with our people."

No matter how excellent the programs or the facilities — both of which Forest Hospital can boast — they succeed or fail because of the people behind them. At Forest they succeed for that very reason.

Sweethearts On Parade

Hear Ye, PTA Gals, No Hard Feelings?

Now, now, all you PTA gals who have written and called because the Paddock-sponsored publicity workshops are not designed for PTA publicity chairmen...

We didn't say you couldn't attend — just that the workshops are not aimed at PTA news but are planned specifically to help women's organizations whose news appears exclusively in Paddock's Suburban Living Section.

PTA news is local news and as such is handled by the news editors of your local Herald, and not by the women's department. Each year, your PTA Council sponsors a leadership training program that includes a session for publicity chairmen; other women's groups have no such help and that is why our workshops are geared to these clubs and organizations.

BESIDES, OUR "capsule course" is just that, and it would be impossible for us to cover in just one morning all the deadlines and particulars of sending in news to all sections of the paper.

Tsk, tsk and shame on you if you missed the council-sponsored publicity program, but if you did and feel that the Paddock workshops might still be of help, you're welcome to make a reservation. Or stop by our office for a publicity handbook.

For A Happy Life

It's Fun in September To:

1. Dream about tulips and daffodils. Order the bulbs you want to plant this fall.
2. Write a lullaby and sing to a small child.
3. Make plaid ponchos for your little girls. Add a matching babushka.
4. Consider taking voice, piano or guitar lessons once the children get back in school.
5. Dress up in a long lounging outfit some afternoon and pretend you're a millionaire heiress.
6. Watch yourself the next time you are with friends and see how you use your hands when talking.
7. Be on the look out for savings on Christmas cards if purchased early.
8. Consider what Publius Syrus said in 42 B.C. — "His own character is the arbiter of everyone's fortune."

Nice Shrimp 'n Rice

SHRIMP AND RICE are nice as any fine Creole cook can attest. To make the easiest-ever Shrimp Creole, combine a 1 pound can of stewed tomatoes with 1½ cups water, 1 tablespoon butter and ½ teaspoon salt in skillet. Stir in a package of Spanish rice and boil 1 minute. Reduce heat, cover, and simmer 25 minutes. Add 1 pound cooked cleaned shrimp and cook 5 minutes longer.

Since the Spanish rice is a savory combination of long grain enriched rice blended with celery, tomatoes, carrots, red and greenpeppers, herbs and mild aromatic spices, the seasoning is all in the package, and your Shrimp Creole is fool-proof.

The Way We See It

A People Revolution

Years of growth, years of change. The impact of the 1960s revolutionized the Northwest suburbs.

Nothing more clearly documents the change than the preliminary figures recently released by the U.S. Census Bureau.

Twelve incorporated communities in the area currently served by Herald newspapers increased in population from 132,884 at the start of the decade to 318,977 in 1970. Dramatic growth was also recorded in unincorporated areas, although census figures for these areas have not yet been released.

Within the decade, Arlington Heights, which now has 62,568 residents, moved ahead of Des Plaines, to become the most populous community in Northwest Cook County. Census takers counted 58,191 people in Des Plaines this year.

Arlington Heights became the fifth largest city in Cook County, after Chicago, Evanston, Skokie and Cicero. However, none of the larger communities showed appreciable growth, and Arlington Heights could end up in the second spot in the next U.S. census.

The three percentage growth leaders in Cook County were all Northwest area towns: Hanover Park went from 451 persons to 10,985, a rate of 2,336 per cent; Schaumburg went from 986 to 18,312, a rate of 1,757 per cent; Buffalo Grove went from 1,492 to 11,549, a rate of growth of 674 per cent.

Based on the tentative figures, only three of the 12 area towns failed to double their populations: Des Plaines (70 per cent); Mount Prospect (87 per cent); and Rolling Meadows (74 per cent). Even so, they were among the county's growth leaders.

Manners Provide Example

This letter is not to downgrade our teen-agers or young adults. I believe they prefer to be called that. What I am about to say will, I'm sure, be encountered by them as they grow older. It actually pertains to us parents and children.

Through our example and manner we hope they'll learn the values of good manners. Naturally where one starts is in the cradle. In this country, where there is an abundance of everything, clothes for our backs, food for our stomachs, I feel the main things missing are the manners and neighborliness between the people and even the children.

YOU CAN'T GO to a shopping center or restaurant and even get a cheery smile. Do you ever stop and ask yourself, maybe that is the only personal greeting he or she may have to look forward to that day. Our children, yes. Where have the days gone when little girls would have their dolls and carriages, playing house, etc., and the little boys with their fire engines or little dress-up outfits and happy faces. Even they seem to have forgotten how to smile. Taunt and bother, yes. I don't mean all children.

Yet we forget to realize that our children learn through our example. What about our older citizens? Winter is only a few months away; will a young boy or girl offer to shovel their driveway or help carry out their garbage? No, but they don't mind knocking and kicking the cans in the street — or throwing garbage on their lawn. Yet we fail to forget we the parents should ask ourselves once in a while when our children are out, what are they doing? Never mind saying, "Well, I don't get involved with children's difficulties." Maybe if they did they'd realize their child isn't the angel they feel he is.

A smile is such an easy thing. It can make a day for the lonely. Even the most hardened heart can melt — they may not show it, but they do have feelings. To me a smile is part of our manners. One can live on a street for years, minding one's own business, yet on meeting a neighbor chat awhile, being cordial, yet, oddly enough doesn't seem to mold into their idea of being neighborly. You are either called a "loner" or you are snobbish. Yet they fail to realize if they would offer to be friendly themselves, maybe that's what the person has wanted, but afraid to do it themselves for fear they are imposing on them. Once again I must clarify that not all people are like that, but the biggest majority are.

WHY NOT BEGIN TODAY and open the lips that God gave you and "smile" once in awhile. It doesn't hurt. Then you'll find that our children will smile, rather than being rough and name calling.

I realize children do these things. Unfortunately it seems they pick on the ones much younger than they are. That to me reflects the parents not teaching the children to be kind to each other.

The U.S.A. is a lovely country. Many Americans don't realize your good fortune — but also remember people. They have feelings. I believe there's a saying, "We can live without friends, but not without our neighbors." Just because we don't particularly go in for daily morning coffees or popping into one's house each day, it does not mean we're unfriendly or don't care to associate with our neighbors.

My only regret is I should have written this a few years ago. When at that time, a friendly neighbor for me would have been a blessing.

'Insight' On Traffic Safety

I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank you for Judy Brandes' Sept. 1 article in the Herald. It is rare to see such "insight" in a person not directly involved in the police profession, and it is gratifying to know that someone such as she will take the time to express their ideas in print.

Her approach to the whole idea of the police department's concern with the life and safety of our youngsters "hits the nail on the head." Most of us are parents too and can, therefore, see both sides of the problem having to do with where and how many guards we are to put on the streets. The logic of her suggestion that a slightly longer route to school may supply the adult supervision desired is one that we have been trying to express for years. We would much prefer that enough funds and personnel were available so we could place an adult guard on each corner; however, this obviously is not the case.

UNFORTUNATELY, there are not enough people who will take the time she has taken to think things out and understand that we are "on their side too," but are still limited as to how much we can do in certain areas. She makes a good point when she recommends that hazardous areas and problems should be brought to the attention of the police, but the solutions needed for these problems should be left to those of us charged with the responsibility for solving them.

In closing, let me add that intelligent, constructive suggestions such as hers can do more to unify our community and accomplish its goals than the police department could ever hope to do on its own.

Rest For Guards

This letter is in response to Judith Gustafson's letter to the editor published in the Sept. 2 issue of the Herald.

Despite the obvious selfishness with which her letter is written, it is also clear she has no understanding of the 10-minute rest period.

She states in her letter that she must sit during this period and "watch and wonder why?" With her knowledge of the reasoning behind the 10-minute rest period, her entire letter should consist of the word wonder.

THE 10-MINUTE rest period is a rest period for the life guards who must sit on the guard stands for one hour at a time. It is believed that those over 21 have the ability to stay in the water without the life guards. The age 21 is as good as any. Also it is believed that the parents who brought their children to the pool would get a break from just sitting and having to watch the kids swim. It is now their turn to enjoy the facilities of the park district.

The alternative, she states, is entirely incorrect. The correct alternative is to close the pool for everyone for 10 minutes.

In the end, Judith Gustafson, is 10 minutes really that much to ask from you?

Spotlight:

A Friendship Blossoms

by CRAIG GAARE

It was like the poor little child who enters the toy section of the department store just before Christmas.

The Buffalo Grove Park District was the little child, scarcely a year old, who stood in awe of the Wheeling Park District and its facilities at a joint meeting between the two districts last week.

commissioners listened in eager anticipation.

At the outset, both boards were a little ill at ease and sparred verbally trying to find out each village's intentions for expansion into the unincorporated area between the two municipalities.

THE BUFFALO GROVE commissioners learned about the little things — the little things necessary to give their district direction.

One of the suggestions made was that Buffalo Grove establish park district colors and decide on an official seal, to give the district an identity.

Also, Wheeling gave Buffalo Grove information on how to go about negotiating with High School Dist. 214 for a future school-park pool.

Wheeling also gave some other advice on swimming pools; that it is almost impossible to sell revenue bonds on the open market to pay for construction of a pool.

The facility which both districts are lacking is a golf course. Neither board said they were buying one, but made it known they were in the market. The feeling was that, with co-operation, the two districts could jointly own and operate a golf course.

THE BUFFALO GROVE Park District can only gain from any sharing relationship. The question is how can Wheeling benefit? Perhaps the answer can be found in the desire to acquire a golf course.

The Buffalo Grove commissioners learned much from the meeting. In time they will catch up with their "big brother" in facilities and experience, but for now the common bond between is acquisition of a golf course.

No Problem???

by MARTHA KOPER

There is no drug problem in the Northwest suburbs.

Believe it or not, that's what some people around here think. I know because I answered the phone a couple of weeks ago when most of our front page told about a gathering of people concerned with drug abuse.

Along with two stories describing the drug seminar held at Northwest Community Hospital was a picture of some of the participants. The man in the photo had long curly hair and a cigarette dangling from his mouth.

Apparently, that picture was just too much for some people and they called to say we were "sensationalizing."

I'M STILL bewildered.

How can a photo of a psychologist for the Illinois Drug Abuse Program be anything other than what it is?

The man, Eric Shapp, is concerned about people who use drugs. He's doing his work mostly in Chicago, but when he heard there were a few people in the suburbs anxious to fight the problem he wanted to join them.

Although he may look a little "unusual" to some here, he has got a better chance of relating to the acid droppers.

But there's more than the complaints about the picture to the story.

Unfortunately, it must mean there are still people who only want to bury their heads in the sand. If something like that picture on the front page of their morning newspaper can be so distressing, I wonder what they would think about marijuana, speed, LSD, heroin.

Between the Lines

2 Big Events

by STEVE NOVICK

There are two major events taking place from Conant High School in Hoffman Estates Saturday that are noteworthy.

An all-day program to inform area civic groups on how to deal with the suburban drug problem is one of the events.

Sponsored jointly by the Schaumburg Jaycees and High School Dist. 211, the program is hoped to be a spring board for an effective campaign against the misuse of drugs.

A GROUP OF speakers will address the adult audience. Featured speakers will be Senator Ralph Smith and Mitchell Ware, Illinois Bureau of Investigation director.

While the adults are gathered in the Conant auditorium, hundreds of teens will be out marching.

The march, however, is for an unrelated cause. They will be out to raise money needed to pay for night lights being installed at Conant's football field.

It would be interesting to know how many drug abusers will be among the teens who will walk up to 20 miles in exchange for money pledged to pay for the lights.

From all the drug programs I've attended the point always made most fervently is that amphetamines and barbiturates are most prevalent of the dangerous drugs used in suburbia.

These two classifications of drugs, also called "uppers" and "downers" are supposed to be real killers if used indiscriminately.

Martha Koper

Of course, it is not their children we have to worry about. It's not their kids who prompted a meeting of more than 100 people at Northwest Community Hospital last month to talk about drugs.

Four years ago in Palatine there were six drug cases reported to the police. By 1968, the figure had jumped to 19. Only 19 drug cases reported in a town topping 26,000. That's not bad at all.

BUT THE KEY word is reported. Experts are quick to point out that no one knows the extent of drug use because the users are not being apprehended.

So as long as the statistics are not alarming enough, I suppose we'll continue to have people ignore a growing problem.

There is no drug problem in the Northwest suburbs. That's why a long-haired young man joined more than 100 other concerned people last month to see whether a small task force can shake some reality into stale, complacent suburbs.

Steve Novick

They first kill the mind, which is a good place to start if you want to knock off the whole body.

I ASSUME an item that will be mentioned Saturday is that good kids misuse drugs. I mean the kind of teen-ager who would go out and walk 20 miles in an afternoon so his or her high school can have football games at night.

The same youngster might find drugs very glamorous and experience a euphoria from uppers and downers not to be found in every day suburban life.

A thorough education program on the dangers of drug misuse is needed for the whole community — adults and young people. The Jaycees and Dist. 211 are taking the right step in Schaumburg Township.

Without such efforts, the same kid might not be walking anywhere next year if this year he's popping uppers for kicks.

NORTH POINT STATE BANK of Arlington Heights (IN ORGANIZATION)

The new North Point State Bank moved one step closer to reality last week with the approval of the bank by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The bank, which had previously been approved for a permit to organize by the Illinois Commissioner of Banks and Trust Companies, now has clearance to complete its organization.

The bank is expected to open approximately October 1st, in temporary quarters in the North Point Shopping Center.

Shortly after the official opening of the temporary quarters of the North Point State Bank, ground will be broken for the bank's permanent headquarters to be located at the north end of the shopping center.

Approximately 10,000 shares are still available for purchase, and the sponsors of the bank have stated their intention to give local area residents first opportunity to share in the bank's ownership.

Persons desiring more information about the bank may call 825-5520, or fill in the coupon.

Programs conducted by the associate members, in September of each year, are usually the best attended meetings of the Board because of their outstanding presentations. For this reason early reservations are urged at the board office in Arlington Heights.

Officials And Builders Meet

Government officials and builders met Sept. 8 to discuss the value of the planned unit development as a new zoning method at a general membership meeting of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland, in the Furniture Mart, Chicago.

Community officials on the panel were: Leo Blanchette, mayor of Bartlett; Richard Kus, chairman-plan commission, Bartlett; and Leroy James, chairman-zoning commission, DuPage County.

Al Hoffman, of Tekton; and Art Gingold, of Levitt & Sons, Inc.; both developers who have used the P.U.D. approach were present to take part in the discussion. The moderator was Bruce Blietz, a north suburban developer.

A special display of Owens-Corning Fiberglas ducts and one piece tub-shower and shower enclosures was also featured.

- THIS IS A SHORT STORY BEGINNING WITH A WANT AD AND ENDING WITH RESULTS -

Computer Display Is At Randhurst

Shoppers at the Randhurst center in Mount Prospect showed great interest at the opening of a computer demonstration display by members of M.A.P. Multiple Listing Service, reported Bob Glorch, who manned the display when it opened Sept. 2.

The exhibition and customer information booth will be on exhibit at Randhurst through Sept. 17, said Glorch. He is the Prospect Heights office manager for Kemmerly Real Estate.

"We invite all the public to come over and see how the multiple listing service works," he said. "We explain that there are 300-400 sales personnel affiliated with the area M.A.P. offices, who enter their listings in the computer. While they wait, we can fill out a computer analysis sheet, and let the computer scan the listings for them.

"In addition to finding a home, and telling the customer what it's worth, the computer is equipped to handle requests for condominiums and apartments," said Glorch. "It also has an investment analysis function which will give income projections and the rate of return."

Glorch said various salesmen, representing M.A.P. Multiple Listing Service, will be at the booth through Sept. 17 to answer questions about the computer and real estate sales.

Financing is Set For Carboy Site

The one-story industrial building is sponsored by the Carboy Corp. and has been designed for multi-tenant occupancy. There will be 37,000 square feet of space offered, 20 per cent of which is air-conditioned office space.

Construction is under way by the Frederick Quinn Construction Co. Architects are the Nowicki-Rappe firm of Chicago. Completion is scheduled for late summer.

ROBERT BARRIE will head Marriott Inn Franchises, Inc., as vice president and general manager, announced James E. Durbin, president of Marriott Hotels, Inc. In his new capacity he will have responsibility for the development of new Marriott Inns throughout the nation. Succeeding him as general manager of the Chicago Marriott Motor Hotel is J. H. Shop For A Neighborhood

Although finding the right house within your budget is of paramount and immediate importance, where that house is located can be equally important, said John L. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager for Baird & Warner, Inc.

Hall suggests the following checklist in selecting a neighborhood:

Location. Is it close to your place of work, friends and other resources you often use?

Schools. Are they highly rated? Enough buildings? Enrollment/budget/taxes rising or falling?

Appearance. Are individual houses, lawns and landscaping well-kept? How about public greenery?

Public safety. Is there sufficient police and fire protection? Volunteer or paid? Fire station nearby?

Streets. Are the streets in good repair, wide enough, well-lighted? How about parking facilities and sidewalks?

Neighbors. Do they seem to be your age? Similar social and economic level? Too many children — or too few?

Public facilities. Is there a nearby park? Library? Tennis courts or swimming pools?

Medical care. Does the community support a hospital or clinic? How close? Is it adequate for the population?

Garbage disposal. Is this service provided by community? Privately? How expensive? How often?

Water supply and sewerage. Is the water supply public or private? Is it adequate? How does it taste? Are there public sewers and treatment facilities? If not, will it become a tax-supported public service?

Zoning. How well is the community zoned to assure well-planned residential areas? Where are non-residential areas? Are they properly separated?

Public transportation. How much? What kind? How close? How expensive? What frequency on weekdays, weekends, holidays?

Shopping. What kinds of shopping facilities are available? Is anything on the drawing boards? Do you need car to go shopping?

Commuting. How much time to get to work in the morning and home at night? Are there good traffic routes? Service stations? Public transportation or commuter railroads?

Churches. Of your denomination? How many? Conveniently located?

Amusements. How close to movie theaters, bowling centers, golf courses, community center?

Long-range outlook. Does the community seem stable? Likely to grow or decline? What do community planners expect?

Deed restrictions. Do the deeds in the area limit changes you might want to make in the property?

Nuisances. Are there nearby factories, airports, railroad lines, etc. causing noise, smoke, dirt or odors — or are there likely to be any — so as to constitute a present nuisance or hazard and impair property value?

Savings institutions. Are there nearby banks or savings and loans with convenient hours and services?

"No neighborhood is perfect in all respects," said Hall. "After you have ranked your personal order of importance, the big job is to investigate various communities or neighborhoods to see how they stack up."

There is no universal "system" for sizing up a neighborhood, Hall said.

A short commuting distance may outweigh all other considerations to one family, while to another excellent schools or neighborhood stability might be most important.

"As a yardstick, you might list the 20 items on the checklist in your personal order of importance and have a check-off for excellent, good or poor next to it," said Hall. "You could then compare the strengths and weaknesses of each neighborhood. Or you can assign a point system: three points for excellent, one for good, and none for poor — and select the neighborhood with the most points."

Hall, who directs the operation of 27 Baird & Warner sales offices throughout the Chicago area advises a buyer to consult a knowledgeable real estate agent, the builder or owner of the home, a community association, city or county administration office — and even attend a church service.

"A real estate agent can be a storehouse of information. He knows about taxes, community services, and many other details often based on living in the community he serves. But it is vital that you give him as much information about your needs and interests as you can," said Hall.

For other information that you'll want to feed into the decision-making process, Hall had these tips:

A trip to city hall or the county courthouse will answer questions about such vital services as water supply and sewerage, police and fire protection, the number of schools, and growth prospects.

You'll want to find out not if but how the community is zoned and what are the future road-building plans. You can also determine where non-residential developments — commercial buildings, factories, or shopping centers — will be.

A homeowner's or similar community organization can be a good barometer of the neighborhood. See how many such groups exist, how big is the membership, what do they attempt and what do they accomplish?

While the builder or owner of a used home has a vested interest in making a sale, he should not be dismissed too lightly as a source of information, said Hall.

"Besides being your prime source of information on the house you are considering, he might be willing to share his experiences with the home and neighborhood."

Apartment Council Gets Rolling

The Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago (ACMC) held a coming-out party last week in Chicago to announce officers and directors as well as educational programs for the coming year.

The trade association has been formed to serve owners, managers or builders of multi-family housing in the Chicago area, according to president Edward Zale. Others in affiliated industries may join as associate members.

The group now has 80 members, with projections of 200 members next summer.

The formation of the council is a reflection of the growing importance of multi-family housing, Zale said. "The Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago (HBAGC) and the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) are at present considering name changes to reflect the present and future importance of multi-family housing in America," said Zale. Zale said ACMC has decided to affiliate with the HBAGC and through it the Home Builders Association of Illinois and NAHB.

Officers, in addition to Zale, include: David Server, the Server Co., vice president; Murray Wolbach, Draper & Kramer, Inc., vice president; Irving Cherry, Metropolitan Structures, treasurer; Richard Kohan, Harbor Management, secretary; and Mayer Singerman, executive vice president.

The purpose of the ACMC include: Educational programs sponsored by the council this fall will include a training course for prospective apartment managers starting Sept. 21 and a seminar for those already in the industry in October.

Representation at national, state and local levels to various administrative and legislative groups, and a means to keep informed about their activities as they pertain to multi-family builders.

A unified voice to deal with labor problems and organizations.

An opportunity to gain greater knowledge about the apartment industry through a free-flow exchange of information with others in the same business as well as with other business organizations vital to the industry.

An industry public relations representation with the press, the public and various government bodies, including feedback from these groups.

An opportunity to gain greater knowledge of all aspects of the apartment industry through workshops and seminars in such subject areas as: money, management, marketing, government opportunities, planned unit development, apartment design, construction and maintenance, taxation or any relevant topic.

Research and action with respect to the problems and conditions of the apartment industry.

An opportunity through the Apartment Council to be affiliated with all the other activity in the nation which can be of benefit to multi-family builders.

Zale has been named a trustee for one of the NAHB's four regions in the United States for apartment councils, according to Singerman.

NAHB has created a committee for apartment councils with four trustees to take responsibility for assisting the more than 50 councils already in existence and to help form additional councils in the 470 communities in which there are home builder associations at present.

The area covered by Zale includes Illinois, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Zale, who is also vice chairman of NAHB's apartment and construction committee, said, "This recently created regional arrangement is making it possible for almost instant communication between the Washington Apartment Council and local councils and provides for the rapid exchange of ideas between councils."

QUINLAN AND TYSON LEADS IN NORTH SHORE REAL ESTATE SALES AGAIN IN '70, AND NOW IS ALSO NORTHWEST AND FAR NORTH.

Plans Fall Opening Of Interlude Units

Fifteen hundred apartment units will be included in the new Interlude development in Hoffman Estates.

The $35 million project, located at 800 Bode Road will consist of efficiency one and two-bedroom apartments.

The first four-story building in phase one of Interlude is scheduled to open early in October.

The development, on 60 acres of land, will also include recreational facilities. Three swimming pools, tennis courts, a party room, game facilities, saunas and kitchens for group entertaining will be featured. Each Interlude community fishing lake, putting green and three community facilities each equipped with house will have a fireplace.

Tower Construction Co. of 5309 Touhy Avenue, Skokie, is the developer and Tower Management Co. the resident agents.

Features in the Interlude apartments include fire-resistant construction, two high speed elevators per building, storage facilities, dishwashers, carpeting, individually controlled thermostats, air conditioning in each apartment, sound conditioning inside the units and in all common areas. Traffic plans lending privacy are also planned.

Ray Green and Jerry Caplan of Tower Construction Co., said, "We believe the young people want space, not just recreational facilities, but plenty of space to live in and entertain their friends as well, and privacy."

The total projection is approximately five years with revisions of architectural plans and ideas to be utilized.

THREE SWIMMING POOLS, tennis courts and three community houses are among the recreational facilities planned for the Interlude apartments in Hoffman Estates. A total of 1,500 efficiency, one and two-bedroom apartments is projected for the project. Developer of the $35 million apartment complex is by Tower Construction Co. of Skokie.

Downtown Can Come Alive

Main Street can come alive again through the concerted efforts of an enthused citizenry, according to a new booklet from the Department of Civic Relations of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Prepared under the guidance of the Build America Better Committee, the booklet, How to Give Main Street New Life, noted that a positive point of view is needed to restore downtown to its former eminence as the dominant, stable, commercial, cultural, and professional center of the city. Designed to aid small and moderate size communities that might not be able to take advantage of a visit by a Build America Better Advisory Team, it encourages action by local boards of Realtors to unify community efforts to improve main street. E. Thornton Ibbotson, Bellflower, Calif., is chairman of the Build America Better Committee.

The BAB advisory teams are composed of Realtors from several sections of the country who are experts in the fields of planning, zoning, redevelopment, and rehabilitation who visit a community for several days of extensive and intensive study and conferences with local officials, community leaders, service clubs, and businessmen. Although they donate their time and expertise, their expenses are paid for by the local community.

A project such as the rejuvenation of a downtown area must involve practically everyone in the community, the booklet said. In order to achieve this goal, the booklet noted, it is necessary to put into practice some of the concepts that have made suburban shopping centers such successful achievements. These include a degree of separation between vehicular and pedestrian traffic, adequate off-street parking, harmony of design, and amenity in shopping environment.

Successful efforts in several small communities are cited. Morristown, Tenn., undertook a program to put new life into downtown which included elevated sidewalks. Sidewalks were constructed 16 feet above the regular sidewalks, bridges permit pedestrians to other, and the second-floor levels of buildings are put to a much wider and greater use.

In addition, the elevated sidewalks permitted incorporation of street lights, planters, railings, and power lines which unite the existing structures architecturally. Downtown sales by various retailers have increased from 20 to 60 per cent since the transformation.

"In Marshall, Mich., vacant stores in the downtown area made it an economic necessity that action be taken to remedy this situation. While the first floors had been modernized to some extent, the original beauty of the second and third stories was still apparent," said the report.

Restoration and rehabilitation are on target in Marshall, and there is a great possibility that it may be accomplished in considerably less time than the five years allocated because of the cooperation of the city government and the citizens of the community and property owners.

For copies of the pamphlet, or information concerning the Build America Better Program, write to the Build America Better Committee, National Association of Real Estate Boards, 1300 Connecticut Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

New Gas Supplies Needed

A proposed increase in the field price of natural gas to alleviate the current shortage of supply would result in only a modest increase in the average Chicago resident's monthly gas bill, a Peoples Gas Company official appearing before a Federal Power Commission rate hearing in Chicago testified today.

Ward C. McCallister, president of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Co., said that an increase to 32 cents per Mcf in gas field prices proposed in earlier testimony by Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, also a Peoples Gas affiliate, would do much to bring needed supplies into Chicago. The effect on the annual gas bill of an average six-room home, he said, would be on the order of 1 per cent — a total of about $2 a year, or less than 17 cents a month.

McCallister said during the last 18 years the price of gas in Chicago has decreased 2 per cent.

The Peoples Gas executive said his company now faces a serious gas shortage, due mainly to an unprecedented increase in demand caused by the adoption of a strict air pollution ordinance by the City of Chicago.

McCallister said the two interstate pipelines which serve Peoples Gas Light and Coke have advised the company that there are no present prospects for an increase in gas quantities for the 1971-72 heating season.

As a result of the imbalance between supply and demand, Peoples Gas Light and Coke has been forced to place restrictions on new attachments. The restrictions, embodied in a controlled attachment plan, went into effect June 26, subject to final approval by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The plan does not affect present customers, but it does provide for the classification and control of all new attachments for space heating, industrial processing and power generation for both year-round continuous service and off-peak service. The classifications give preference to present or prospective customers who may be in violation of air pollution ordinances, and to smaller customers who are less able to use alternative fuels.

McCallister testified that since the plan has gone into effect, his company has received 3,800 applications for gas, totaling about 120,000 space heating equivalents (an "equivalent" is the amount of gas required to heat an average 6-room home), but that it has not yet released any gas to these applicants. Compared with the number of new space heating equivalents which have actually been attached during fiscal year 1970, these applications constitute a waiting list of nearly two years' duration.

Railway Reports Illinois Taxes

The Chicago and North Western Railway Co., reported this week that its 1969 taxes paid this year on its railroad operating property in thirty Illinois counties totalled $2,298,257.93.

More than 62 per cent of this payment, or $1,437,844.27, was in the form of school taxes.

In the so-called five "commuter" counties in which the North Western's suburban service is concentrated, the railroad's property tax bill amounted to $1,636,643.36. These are Cook, DuPage, Lake, McHenry counties in which the North Western is the largest railroad taxpayer. The fifth of the "commuter" counties is Kane.

Ampex Adds To Recorder Line

Ampex Corp. has introduced a new generation of miniature videotape recorders and players featuring automatic cartridge loading and designed both for serious closed circuit television and home recording and playback markets.

Richard J. Elkus, Jr., general manager of the Ampex educational and industrial products division in Elk Grove Village said the new Ampex "Instavision" system is the smallest cartridge-loading video recorder and/or player to date and will include a choice of recorder/players and players operating on batteries or household current in either color or black and white.

The recorder line is designed for the educational, industrial, government and medical training and communications markets, Elkus said.

Instavision recorders and players will be available in mid-1971. Prices will be approximately $800 for a monochrome player, $900 for a monochrome recorder/player or color player and $1,000 for a color recorder/player. Any model may be modified for color or recording capability after purchase with the addition of plug-in modules.

Standard with each recorder or player is a separate power pak that houses an a/c power converter for plug-in operation, a battery recharger and optional electronic circuitry for color record or playback.

For recording a companion monochrome camera is offered. It weighs five pounds including a standard zoom lens and electronic viewfinder. The viewfinder, actually a miniature television receiver, permits precise scene framing, viewing of exactly what is being recorded, and pushbutton replay of recordings. A trigger control built into the pistol-grip handles enables one person to operate both camera and recorder.

The Instavision line has been designed by the Ampex Educational and Industrial Products Division, Elk Grove Village. It will be manufactured by TOAMCO, the company's joint venture company with Toshiba in Tokyo, Japan. Toshiba will market the line in Japan, Ampex elsewhere in the world.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXE
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Insurance Agent Gets Certificate

Louis L. Soyer was one of 548 persons awarded the Insurance Institute of America Certificate in general insurance as a result of the institute's May, 1970 examinations.

The Certificate in General Insurance is granted to persons who have completed a three-semester study program and three national examinations in property and liability insurance.

Soyer lives at 218 Greenbriar St., Elk Grove Village.

New Superintendent At Stressen-Rueter

Thomas C. Glenn, 411 N. Williams Dr., Palatine, has been appointed plant superintendent at Stressen-Rueter International, Bensenville.

Glenn was formerly with Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., as a research chemist and production supervisor. Previously he had been a chemist with E. I. du Pont for two years in Toledo, Ohio.

He graduated from Huntington (Ind.) College with a bachelor's degree in chemistry, and later studied for a master's degree at Wayne State University, Detroit.

They're Battling Sound Pollution

Sound pollution is the concern of the plant engineering department at Western Electric's Central Region headquarters, 3800 Golf Road, Rolling Meadows.

They are battling excessive noise because the building, four-state headquarters for the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System, primarily has white collar workers and office space.

Heading up the noise watchdog operation is Ron Markunas, a plant engineer, who lives at 685 Grove Drive, Buffalo Grove. Markunas said, "There are only two things you can do about noise. You can eliminate the cause, or you can protect yourself from it."

First Markunas must determine how loud the noise is. He uses a small General Radio sound-level meter. It contains an ultra-sensitive microphone and an audiometer.

The meter measures noise by decibel (db) count, a sound-unit measurement. The db ranges from one (the faintest whisper) to 130 db (the noise level reached at the press site during the Saturn 5 rocket launching).

Noise at regional headquarters has not neared the danger point, said Markunas. The only room that requires protective equipment, in fact, is one called the "bursting" room, where computer print-out is mechanically separated.

Stacked in a spot near the machines are sound-deadening wireless earmuffs, worn by the "bursting" machine operators.

In the office areas, telephone, typewriters and adding machines might lift the db level to about 60. But, if it is a modern office like Western Electric's building, acoustical ceilings, portable partitions, special flooring and other sound-deadeners have lessened the sound effects.

Quick Cooking: Secret Of Chinese Meal

by LOIS SEILER

Quick cooking is the secret to the success of Chinese cookery.

It is also the secret to being a cool, calm and collected hostess at the end of a hot summer season.

"Neither the kitchen nor the cook need get over-heated when preparing Chinese recipes, because everything is cooked so fast," said Mrs. Alfred W. Pedersen of 1236 E. Plate Drive, Winston Park, Palatine. Oriental food has become her specialty because her husband likes its flavor.

"He doesn't care for plain meat, prefers it dressed up with seasonings and other ingredients," Marilyn Pedersen explained.

He has given her cookbooks featuring Oriental food and she has picked up ideas here and there. From all these sources she has even devised a few recipes of her own.

In extolling the virtues of Chinese cookery, Marilyn lists its economy and different and delicious flavor, along with the previously mentioned quick method of cooking.

"YOU CAN DO so much with so little," she remarked, "and even inexpensive cuts of meat taste good." However, the preparation is often a little time-consuming, as most of the meats and vegetables must be cut in small pieces. She finds a meat cleaver handy for this task.

Marilyn does most of her Chinese cooking in a wok over high heat, although a frying pan may be used. She finds that chopsticks are useful for stirring the ingredients, and she often uses a pair of sterling silver chopsticks for serving some of her Chinese dishes. One of her favorites is Moo Goo Gai Pien, a combination of chicken, green pepper and mushrooms. The total cooking time is six minutes or less, and Marilyn emphasized that fresh chicken is used.

"Because it is cut in small pieces and cooked over high heat, it actually does get done in this amount of time," she said. The Chinese like their vegetables crisp, so the green pepper and mushrooms are added the last minute.

"Moo Goo Gai Pien has a unique flavor all its own," Marilyn said, adding that fried rice and a cucumber salad make excellent accompaniments. Unable to find a suitable recipe for fried rice, she devised her own. She prefers using leftover rice—some that has been saved for a day or two—because it works better. And Minute Rice is preferable because it is fluffier. Marilyn adds the rice and minced scallions to a scrambled egg, using soy sauce as seasoning. It is cooked for 15 minutes.

To make the salad, she first sprinkles thin slices of cucumber with salt to draw off the liquid. Then they are washed off and mixed with soy sauce, vinegar, sugar and oil. Served from a pretty crystal bowl, the cucumbers add zest to this appealing meal. As a beverage, Marilyn recommends Darjeeling tea, and for dessert she suggests something simple, such as a fruit cup.

All of these recipes are easy enough for the novice to prepare, but Marilyn has others more complicated that require special ingredients, such as ginger root. "This is available at supermarkets around the time of the Chinese New Year," Marilyn said. She preserves it in a bottle of sherry for use during the year.

Marilyn also devised a rack for cooking Chinese spareribs. Each rib hangs individually from a hook and is basted with honey. "This makes a mess of your oven," she exclaimed, "but the ribs taste divine."

In addition to experimenting with Oriental dishes, Marilyn's hobbies include refinishing and antiques furniture and decoupage. She is also treasurer of Jane Addams, PTA and a member of St. Thomas of Villanova Church.

The mother of four boys, Bobby, 11, Steve, 10, Bill, 7, and David, who is almost 4, Marilyn was a natural to serve several years as a Cub Scout den mother. The Pedersens also have an 8-year-old daughter, Karen.

MOO GOO GAI PIEN

(Chicken, Peppers and Mushrooms)
2 double chicken breasts
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons peanut or corn oil
1 green pepper
1 4-ounce can white button mushrooms, drained with liquid reserved
Remove skin and bones from chicken breasts. Cut in one-inch squares, ¼-inch thick. Mix chicken with salt, pepper and cornstarch. Cut green pepper into one-inch squares, ¼-inch thick.

Heat oil in frying pan or Chinese wok over high heat. When hot, add chicken and stir continuously from 2 to 5 minutes until it turns completely white. Add green pepper and mushrooms; mix and cook for one minute. If too dry, add mushroom liquid. Serve immediately. Serves 4 or 5.

FRIED RICE

2 tablespoons oil
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 cups cooked, cold rice
(preferably leftover rice)
2 scallions, minced
2 tablespoons soy sauce

Heat oil in frying pan. Add egg and scramble until tiny pieces are formed. Stir in cold rice, scallions and soy sauce. Mix and cook over low heat, about 15 minutes. Serve immediately. Serves 4 or 5.

Cooked shrimp or cooked, cubed pork, beef or chicken may be added, if desired.

CHINESE CUCUMBER SALAD

1 medium-size cucumber
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon cooking oil
¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
Peel cucumber; cut in very thin slices. Sprinkle with salt. Let stand 20 minutes. Rinse off salt and drain. Mix remaining ingredients together and pour over cucumber slices just before serving. Serves 4 or 5.

CHINESE COOKING in a wok over high heat is the secret to Marilyn Pedersen's success with Oriental foods. She finds chopsticks useful for stirring the ingredients, which cook very fast.

Breakfast Sandwiches For People In A Hurry

No time for breakfast? There's never enough time in the morning before Dad sprints off to work and the children bolt for school.

But remember, breakfast is the most important meal of the day. So important that September, the time when children go back to school and Dad goes back to the usual office routine, is scheduled as "Better Breakfast Month."

Send them all off with a hearty, nutritious breakfast. It supplies them with energy and vitality for a good day.

WHEN EVERYONE is in a hurry at breakfast time, surprise them with tasty breakfast sandwiches! They look, smell and taste great. Few can resist the temptation to eat these convenient, well-balanced breakfast sandwiches. Assemble them with coffee, milk and orange juice on a table in the path to the door. You'll find the whole family will stop to enjoy these breakfasts before leaving.

With all of the quick, easy-to-fix foods available, one can prepare scores of great breakfast sandwiches in a hurry. Here are three palate pleasers.

Hot toasted frozen waffles with a filling of fried apple slices and browned pork sausage links make a bang-up breakfast sandwich. Those who like a bit of sweetness for breakfast will appreciate grilled Canadian bacon slices and a ring of pineapple between halves of a caramel pecan-glazed English muffin. Rugged souls will find the toast, scrambled egg and bratwurst sandwich a great waker-upper. All three breakfast sandwiches are guaranteed to make the morning easy-going.

WAFFLE-FRIED APPLE-PORK SAUSAGE SANDWICH

8 to 12 fresh or brown-and-serve pork sausage links
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

8 thin (¼ inch) cored apple slices
8 (3 by 4 inch) frozen waffles, heated in toaster

Heat brown sausage links as directed on package label. Keep hot. Combine butter or margarine, sugar and cinnamon in skillet; mix. Add apple slices; saute over moderate heat just until apple is tender, turning slices once. For each sandwich, overlap 2 apple slices on a waffle, and top with 2 or 3 pork sausage links; cover with second waffle. Repeat. Yield: 4 breakfast sandwiches

CANADIAN BACON-CARAMEL PECAN SANDWICH

¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon maple flavor, optional
¼ cup finely chopped pecans
4 large English muffins, split
8 thin Canadian bacon or smoked shoulder roll slices
4 slices canned pineapple, well drained

Blend first 3 ingredients; stir in nuts. Toast muffin halves in broiler; spread with pecan butter. Broil until bubbly. Heat and brown Canadian bacon or smoked butt slices in lightly greased skillet. For each sandwich, top an English muffin half with 2 slices of meat and a pineapple slice. Cover, sandwich style, with second muffin half. Repeat. Yield: 4 breakfast sandwiches.

BRATWURST-SCRAMBLED EGG SANDWICHES

Prepare favorite scrambled eggs using 4 eggs. If desired, stir ¼ teaspoon chopped chives into eggs. Heat and brown 4 bratwurst links; split in half lengthwise. Keep warm. Top 4 hot buttered toast slices with an equal amount of scrambled eggs. Cover each with 2 bratwurst halves and top with a second toast slice. Yield: 4 breakfast sandwiches.

WHICH DO YOU like best? Toast, scrambled egg and bratwurst sandwich. Grilled Canadian bacon and ring of pineapple between halves of glazed English muffin. Or toasted waffles with filling of fried apple slices and pork sausage links.

Where Does Your Family Fit In?

Facts About American Breakfast

The most basic fact about American breakfasts today appears to be that a substantial weekday morning meal, with all the family members eating together, is not important to most families in comparison with other desires and demands that occur at the same time. This was the conclusion of nationwide, technically organized, market research completed in 1969.

It uncovered the following facts: THREE-FOURTHS of all American families do not eat breakfast together. One-third of all housewives and a quarter of all husbands eat alone. Ten per cent of the men do not eat breakfast at all. In one out of four households, one child eats alone without parental supervision. Six per cent of the children go to school without breakfast.

The average person spends less than 20 minutes at the breakfast table.

BREAKFAST IS a do-it-yourself project. In one out of six families the housewife is just getting up when the first person begins breakfast.

Less than 20 per cent of all family members eat a breakfast that the housewife considers nutritionally complete, for children the figure is 60 per cent.

DESPITE THESE facts, most housewives have an ideal view of breakfast as a leisurely, social, nutritional meal. When there is less pressure on weekends, 40 per cent serve the kind of breakfast they think their families should have.

So Mom, even if Dad won't bother with a nutritional breakfast, be sure the children start the day right. If it's variety that satisfies young appetites, try a peanut butter sandwich, a glass of milk and a dish of canned peaches or applesauce.

Here's a guide to the kinds and amounts of foods to fill the nutritional needs of school children.

A half-pint of milk, a good source of calcium, riboflavin and nutrients not available in sufficient amounts in other foods.

A half cup of fruit juice, vegetable juice or fruit, to assure some vitamin A and C.

Three-quarters of a cup of whole grain or enriched cereal or a cereal product like toast, muffins or rolls, needed for energy, vitamins and minerals.

A meat or meat alternate, such as eggs, sausage, peanut butter or cheese is recommended for protein, iron and vitamin B.

What's Thawing For Dinner?

Back To The Lunchbox Routine

by CHARLOTTE ERICKSON

Now that we are back into the lunchbox routine, let's try and keep our cool these hectic mornings with a little advance planning. One thing helps, and that is to have the sandwiches made in advance and in your freezer, clearly marked. The youngsters can then take the sandwich of their choice, get their own fruit, cookies, celery sticks, etc., and assemble their own lunches. This will leave you free to concentrate on important matters like watching the bacon, eggs, toast, pouring the juice and worrying about the dog, father's train, the rain, car pool, etc.

Simply make your sandwiches once a week (at your leisure—ha!) on an assembly-line basis. Make several different varieties, enough of each to last a week. Once this system is in operation, the children should have five or more varieties to choose from when packing their lunches. Put all of one kind (each wrapped in its own bag or foil) in a large freezer bag, seal, label and date. Actually, sandwiches made in this manner are more fresh at noontime than those made in the conventional manner.

All breads freeze well, and from a nutritional point of view, it is best to use or at least alternate whole grain, enriched white, rye, raisin, egg, oatmeal, Boston Brown and nut breads. Not only is it nutritious to serve these breads, but it gives more variety and interest to the lunches. Day-old bread is best for making sandwiches that are to be frozen. Bread can be thawed from the freezer, made into sandwiches and refrozen. It is one of the few things that may be refrozen.

DON'TS

Don't use mayonnaise or salad dressing as a spread.

Don't put carrots, celery, cucumbers or tomatoes in any spreads that are to be frozen.

Don't spread jelly directly onto bread.

Don't use egg whites, because they get rubbery when frozen. Egg yolks may be poached until firm and then sieved or chopped for egg salad.

DO'S

Do spread bread liberally with softened butter, margarine or cream cheese to keep filling from soaking into bread.

Do use softened cream cheese, dairy sour cream and sour half and half as a binder when mixing salad-type spreads, such as ham salad, chicken salad, etc.

Do substitute olives (black and stuffed), pickles and relishes for celery, cucumbers and radishes, when making spreads.

Do add lettuce, tomatoes, etc. just before eating sandwiches. (They may be wrapped separately and taken along, then added at lunch time.)

Do slice meat such as beef, chicken, ham and lunch meat thin. Use several slices per sandwich. Several thin slices are easier to eat and they seem to taste better.

Do try using nuts, especially chopped peanuts, in sandwiches with cream cheese and jelly. Not only are they nutritious, but add good texture and taste.

Do use substitutes for mayonnaise and salad dressings, such as mustard, ketchup, pickle relish, cranberry sauce, etc.

Vary your sandwich fillings so as to avoid monotony.

The following recipes might give you a few ideas.

PINEAPPLE HAM SANDWICH FILLING

1 9 ounce can crushed pineapple, drained
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 1/2 cups chopped ham

Make The Box Fun To Open

Surprise!

A special apple - remove core, stuff with raisins, nuts, dates, a rolled-up note, even a piece of good candy wrapped in waxed paper.

A small box of raisins.

A note from mother.

A pretty napkin.

A note written on colored icing of cupcake.

A hard-cooked egg made into different things: a doll face with crepe paper bonnet, a bunny, a clown.

A new pencil or eraser.

A greeting card to fit the occasion: birthday, Valentine's Day, Halloween.

Now, you think of some!

KEEP YOUR COOL on school mornings... prepare your family's favorite sandwiches in advance and just fill the lunchbox from the freezer. You can stock it with a variety of desserts, too.

Tips For The Chief Sandwich Maker

To keep the lunchbox contents looking tasty and tempting, the sandwiches should be made with care.

Vary the kind of bread used - wheat, rye, corn, oat, raisin, pumpernickel, or even use cornbread, muffins, sandwich buns or Ry-crisp.

Vary the form of the sandwich - plain slices made into double-deckers or cut in various shapes, rolled up, made of light and dark bread.

Spread the butter or margarine clear out to the edge; also the filling.

Have the sandwich filling plentiful. Make it a good serving.

Make sandwiches with neat edges.

Cut in sizes easy to handle and wrap securely in waxed paper or place in a sandwich bag.

Cream Cheese Combos . . .

Mix softened cream cheese with:
Chopped cooked dried apricots and prunes
Chopped dates or figs; peanuts
Chopped green pepper, olives and celery
Chopped walnuts and water cress; grated raw carrots
Peanut butter; grated orange and rind; orange juice
Thinly sliced radishes, chopped olives or fruit

Peanut Butter Blends . . .

Mix peanut butter with:
Grated raw carrot; chopped raisins or celery
Chopped dates and figs; lemon juice
Chopped nuts; honey
SPREAD PEANUT BUTTER on one bread slice, any of the following on the second slice:
Applesauce, sliced dates
Cream cheese, apple butter or chopped cooked prunes
Raisins, dates, honey, dill pickles, mashed banana, crushed pineapple or apple slices.

The Flavor Of Home Baking

The inviting aroma of homemade bread baking in the oven... the delicious flavor of that freshly-baked bread spread with butter and your favorite ham or jelly... that's a good lunchbox addition.

You can satisfy this taste sensation by making homemade bread or rolls with a different flavor - like these below.

PEANUT BUTTER BREAD: Sift 3 cups flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut in 3/4 cup peanut butter with a fork. Add 1 well-beaten egg and 1 cup milk; stir just enough to moisten all the dry ingredients. Bake in a greased loaf pan at 350 degrees about 1 hour or in seven 6-ounce frozen fruit juice cans at 375 degrees for 30 minutes.

LEMON BREAD: Blend well 1/3 cup melted butter and 1 cup sugar. Beat in 2 eggs one at a time. Add 1/4 teaspoon almond extract. Sift together 1-1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Add to egg mixture alternately with 1/2 cup milk. Blend just to mix. Fold in 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel and 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Turn into greased oven-proof glass bread pan. Bake in a low oven at 325 degrees about 70 minutes or until loaf tests done in center.

Mix 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice with 1/4 cup sugar, immediately spoon over hot loaf. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pan; cool on rack. Do not cut for 24 hours. (It will slice easily.) Note: Bread freezes well; it will keep in refrigerator several days.

SCOTCH SCONES: Sift together 2 cups flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon sugar. Cut in 5 tablespoons shortening. Beat 2 eggs and 1/2 cup light cream together. Stir into dry ingredients. Turn out on lightly floured pastry cloth or board. Roll into about 1/3 inch thick. Cut in diamond shaped pieces. Brush with 2 tablespoons shortening and sprinkle with additional sugar. Makes 16 scones.

Pile A Salad Into A Sandwich

Even sandwiches can be salads of sorts. Fruit and vegetable salads, with or without meat and cheese, make refreshingly different sandwich fillings. They can also be refreshingly low in calories and costs.

California produces all of the raisins in the nation so you might expect to find some in sandwich fillings. Also in the bread. In the past few years the varieties of packaged raisin bread have increased by popular demand. You can buy it with or without nuts, with great swirls of cinnamon and with orange and pineapple flavor. A raisin bread sandwich also makes a nifty dessert.

How about banana-nut or cream cheese and jelly? And how about the old-fashioned carrot and raisin salad in a sandwich? And how about the all-American peanut butter?

SPONTANEOUS SUPPER PARTY is based on a Jiffy Casserole made of meatballs, rice and stewed tomatoes. It's delicious and easy to make.

Quick'n Easy Supper For Unexpected Guests

Impromptu social occasions are often the most fun. The dinner party that's planned to a freethewell can be stiff and formal, with guests too much on their best behavior and the hostess exhausted from elaborate preparations. But the spur-of-the-moment supper, rustled up from the contents of refrigerator and cupboard, is little work and wonderfully informal.

But informality doesn't mean that the meal can't be great. Jiffy Casserole makes use of foods you have or ingredients that may be supplemented with a quick visit to the nearest store. Assemble the ingredients in a casserole dish, pop into the oven, and in little more than an hour you have a hearty, tasty buffet supper.

Ground beef is served so often in most families that it's virtually a staple. Combine with minced onion and seasoning and roll in rice. Add stewed tomatoes and bouillon, sprinkle with more rice and bake. That's all there is to making this flavorful quick company dish.

With the Jiffy Casserole, all you need is a relish tray of raw vegetables. And hot cornbread, made from a box mix and baked while you are baking the meat-balls and rice, is the perfect accompaniment.

Next time friends drop in for drinks and guests are in a festive mood, invite them to supper. Jiffy Casserole makes for the wonderful warmth and hospitality of an instant feast.

JIFFY CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef
¼ cup minced onion
1½ teaspoons salt, divided
½ teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce, divided
1 cup uncooked regular rice
1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
1 bouillon cube
1 cup hot water
Mix together beef, onion, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon Tabasco; shape into 8 meatballs. Roll in rice; place in greased 2-quart casserole. Stir remaining ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon Tabasco into stewed tomatoes; pour over meatballs. Dissolve bouillon cube in water and pour over casserole. Sprinkle with remaining rice. Cover; bake in 350-degree oven 1 hour and 10 minutes, or until rice is cooked.
Yield: 4 generous servings.

Pigs Are Slimmer, Trimmer

It's Illinois Pork Month

Governor Richard Ogilvie has proclaimed September as Illinois Pork Month in recognition of the outstanding nutritive contributions and fine eating quality of this popular meat. Today's pork is better than ever, and Mrs. Consumer should be aware of the transformation pork has undergone during the past decade or two.

That descriptive expression "fat as a pig" doesn't ring true nowadays. For today's pork has acquired a streamlined figure to meet the demands of calorie-conscious Americans. The plump pig of grandma's day was padded with dozens of pounds more fat than the average porker of today, according to John Lane,

Secretary of the Pork Industry Committee of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. This slimmer, trimmer animal, however, is almost two pounds heavier. The apparent mathematical discrepancy is accounted for by the fact that today's animal carries 14½ pounds more lean meat.

The result of this figure transformation is reflected in a substantial lowering of the calories provided by a serving of pork. Today's pork has 30 per cent fewer calories and provides 22 per cent more protein than was formerly believed. Now a single 3½-ounce serving fills 44 per cent of the daily recommended protein allowance for an average man; 52 per cent for an average woman.

IMPORTANT, TOO, is the fact that this animal protein contains all the essential amino acids necessary to build, maintain and repair body tissues and increase resistance to infection and disease.

Pork leads all foods in supplying the important vitamin thiamin, a serving filling about three-fourths of an average man's daily need. It also is an excellent source of the vitamins niacin and riboflavin and the mineral iron.

An asset to the diet from a nutritional standpoint, pork also is valued for its delectable flavor and juicy goodness. In these respects, too, pork is better than ever.

Cooking recommendations for pork have undergone change, too. As a result of research, the recommended internal temperature to which fresh pork should be roasted has been reduced from 185 to 170 degrees. The result is a juicier roast, less cooking loss and decreased roasting time.

A meat thermometer takes the guess work out of roasting and assures top eating quality. Those extra minutes often added to cooking time "to be sure it's done" rob a roast of its juicy perfection.

Today's roast pork is truly a dish to set before the king of a household. To serve that roast at its savory best follow the latest cooking recommendations.

PORK LOIN ROAST

4 to 6-pound pork loin roast
Salt and pepper

Have the meat retailer loosen the chine (back)bone by sawing across the rib bones. When roasting is finished, the back bone can be removed easily by running the carving knife along the edge of the roast before the meat is placed on the serving platter. Place roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Season with salt and pepper. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part. Make certain the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees) 2¼ to 3½ hours or until the meat thermometer registers 170 degrees. Allow 35 to 40 minutes per pound for roasting.

OTHER PORK CUTS, too, have made good-eating table news. Cooking recommendations for pork chops now include broiling, indoors or out, as well as braising.

BROILED PORK CHOPS

6 pork chops, cut 1 to 1½ inches thick
Salt and pepper

To broil in range: Place pork chops on rack in broiler pan. Insert pan so tops of chops are about 5 inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes, turn and broil 8 minutes longer. Continue broiling, turning occasionally, about 15 to 20 minutes longer or until done. Season. Makes 6 servings.

To broil on outdoor grill: Allow charcoal to burn until briquettes are covered with gray ash. Place pork chops on grill about 5 inches from heat. This distance allows the chops to become the desired well done inside by the time they are browned on the surface.

Broil at moderate temperature (350 degrees measured by grill thermometer) 10 minutes on each side. Continue broiling, turning occasionally, about 20 minutes longer or until well done. Season with salt and pepper. Makes 6 servings.

Sweet And Sour Pork Chops

SWEET AND SOUR PORK CHOPS

1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) fruit cocktail
4 loin or rib pork chops
½" thick
Salt to taste
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
3 tablespoons lemon juice
Drain fruit cocktail, reserving syrup.

Rub bottom of skillet with fat side of chop to grease lightly. Brown chops over medium heat. Salt to taste while browning. Combine ginger, lemon juice, and syrup from drained fruit cocktail. Pour over chops. Cover and simmer on very low heat for 45 minutes. Add fruit cocktail; heat through for 5 to 10 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

A colorful fruit sauce complements the delicious flavor of pork. Helps to balance the meal nutritionally, too. The five flavorful fruits in fruit cocktail are a wonderfully balanced combination and so refreshing! Try rounding out your dinner with fruit and see what a pleasant difference it makes.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

Salmon is the favorite for the fish course served third in a complete English dinner consisting of appetizer, soup, fish, entree and sweets. The rivers of the British Isles yield a flavorful product which rivals the best of the chinook salmon of our Northwest.

Usually salmon is poached, although some chefs prefer to wrap steaks in foil and bake them. Either way it's allowed to cool before serving.

Particularly appetizing, I found, was salmon mayonnaise as served at the fabulous hotel which overlooks a golfer's paradise — Glen Eagles, Scotland.

Select center cut salmon steaks weighing from 4 to 8 ounces. Bring salted water to boil, then reduce heat until just simmering. Drop the salmon steaks carefully into the water. Avoid stacking for even cooking. Simmer for 3 to 10 minutes, then let salmon cool in the water.

REMOVE THE SKIN and arrange each steak on a plate, season with salt and pepper and garnish with lemon wedges and parsley. With the salmon serve a mayonnaise, tartar sauce or Philadelphia savory sauce.

Flavor of the mayonnaise dressing is enhanced by British chefs who add a teaspoon of Colman's mustard per cup and the essence of anchovy as taste dictates.

To make the tartar sauce, add 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon chopped sweet gherkins and 1 teaspoon capers to 1 cup mayonnaise. Blend well. Amounts of these ingredients can be varied to suit your individual preference.

Philadelphia savory sauce draws its name from the cream cheese which is its principal ingredient. For 4 salmon steaks, cream 8 ounces of the cheese until smooth. Add 4 tablespoons of milk a little at a time, beating well. Heat gently and spread over the salmon steaks.

For those who prefer to bake salmon steaks, season lightly, then wrap each piece in buttered foil and bake about 20 minutes in a 400-degree oven. Serve with any of the suggested sauces. Personally, I think baked salmon steaks are better served hot.

DO YOU HAVE a favorite recipe for salmon or a question about food? Write Chuck Flynn, care of Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006. For personal reply, please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Pork Shoulder Makes A Great Party Dish

One great dish makes a great party — and it needn't be a purse-emptying nightmare.

For example, in place of costly ham, there's hefty pork shoulder (with the fat scored to give it a "ham look").

GLAZED PORK SHOULDER

1 cook-before-eating smoked pork picnic shoulder (about 5 pounds)
Water
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spices
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup apple juice
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup chopped parsley
Place picnic shoulder in a bottle; add cold water to cover; add pickling spices.

Heat slowly to boiling; reduce heat; cover. Simmer 2½ hours, or until meat is tender when pierced with a two-tined fork. Remove from heat; allow meat to cool in liquid at least 30 minutes. Place picnic shoulder in a shallow roasting pan. Cut skin from top of meat; score fat.

To make Parsley Sauce: Combine brown sugar, apple juice, and cloves in a small saucepan. Heat to boiling; reduce heat; simmer 5 minutes. Remove sauce from heat; stir in chopped parsley. Brush part of sauce over meat.

Roast in moderate oven (375 degrees), basting several times with part of sauce, for 30 minutes, or until well-glazed.

Pan remaining Parsley Sauce separately. Serve with baked sweet potatoes and spiced pear halves, if you wish.

Why Should You Let A Store Tell You When To Shop?

Why indeed? If you could actually save money to any worthwhile extent, it might be worth it to plan your shopping trips according to some supermarket's "effective dates." But the trouble is, those "effective dates" apply to comparatively few of the items an average shopper buys, and the "specials" they refer to don't add up to the kind of savings Eagle offers every day. To put it another way, you may be inconveniencing yourself to shop during the store's "effective dates," and end up saving only a few cents for your trouble. Whereas, by shopping Eagle you can take home considerable savings on your weekly food bill, and you'll get those savings no matter when you shop. Savings are an everyday thing at Eagle, which is what makes us more "special" than the stores that offer "specials" — Monday through Wednesday or weekends only."

Parents Are Urged: Support 'No-Knock'

by DON BRANNAN

Frank Gulich, an agent of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, urged parents to support "no knock" legislation permitting quick entry of homes by law enforcement officers at the Fairview School PTA meeting Tuesday evening in Hoffman Estates.

Gulich contended that more drug arrests would result if policemen could enter a location without prior warning. Evidence can be destroyed when a warning is given by knocking, said Gulich.

"Quick entry is a more positive description of the practice than no-knock, and the press should emphasize this," Gulich said.

Gulich also advocated a four-point attack in order to make a total impact on the drug abuse problem in this country. This program, he said, must include more arrests of dope sellers, drug abuse education, better rehabilitation of drug users, and more research.

GULICH WAS one of three speakers who participated in a panel discussion on drug abuse at the Fairview PTA meeting. Other speakers were: Russell Anslow, community worker for the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth; and Dr. David Busby, staff psychiatrist at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

Parents must start with their children at an early age and build self-confidence and self-respect in them so that they will reject drugs, said Anslow. It is too late to start once a youngster is 12 or 13, added the youth worker.

"Group acceptance means more than parent acceptance to a teen," Anslow declared. However, he said that teens will refuse to use drugs if proper attitudes are developed by parents from an early stage.

BUSBY CITED the "Six C's" as the main reasons why young people use drugs — curiosity, conformity (everybody's doing it), crusading, chemistry, copout (drugs are used as an escape from real problems), and conflict (rebellion against parents and elders).

"The age of those using drugs is shifting downward all the time," said Busby. If Booth Tarkington had written 'Seventeen' today, he would have to call it 'Twelve.'

"Many kids aren't scared by what drugs can do their bodies since they don't expect to live beyond 25 years of age," said the psychiatrist. The youth are pessimistic about world peace and the future, he observed.

Parents must be consistent in their moral behavior and set a good example in order to have any influence on their children, Busby stated.

"Total involvement begins with yourself," he told the Fairview parents. "Evil can prevail simply if good men do nothing."

SYMPTOMS THAT young people are using drugs, according to Busby, might include: a relative change in personality; change in their reliability, such as grades dropping; and a change in their dress and appearance.

"The tragedy of the drug user is that he thinks he's getting more out of life, but is actually getting less," Busby said.

On Saturday, the Schaumburg Jaycees will sponsor an all-day workshop on drug abuse at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates. The workshop will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Local residents are invited to participate in the workshop.

DRUG ABUSE pamphlets are distributed to Cub Scouts patented in a panel on drugs along with Russell Anslow, Tuesday at Fairview School by Frank Gulich of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. Gulich participated in a panel on drugs along with Russell Anslow, youth worker, for the township, right.

Girl's Memorial Fund Initiated

The Leslie Stansell Memorial Foundation, named for the Schaumburg girl killed in a Peruvian air plane crash last month has been initiated by Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Atcher kicked off the fund with a $100 check Tuesday night at the village board meeting. Money collected will be used to defray the costs put on parents whose children participate in student foreign exchange programs.

Trustee Jack Larsen will request the services of the Schaumburg Jaycees to take up fund raising for the foundation.

Legal services toward establishing the fund have been volunteered by Trustee James Guthrie.

Students participating in American Field Service (AFS) foreign exchange programs from Conant High School have their transportation costs and a small spending money allowance provided by the school, said Robert Lyons, last year's activities director.

MONEY THE SCHOOL provides is raised through student-sponsored activities through the year, he added.

Any additional expenses incurred by students have to be paid by the student's family, he added.

The Schaumburg Rotary Club this year sponsored a trip to New Zealand for Laurie Smith of Hoffman Estates.

The host Rotary club in Christ Church, New Zealand, will contribute $400 toward Laurie's expenses in the coming year. Her family must pay travel expenses and provide $100 for an expense account for her.

Leslie Stansell was a 16-year-old Conant High School student killed in the Peruvian plane crash. She had spent eight weeks in Lima as a participant in the International Youth Fellowship program.

Miss Stansell maintained b-plus grade average at Conant and was active in student affairs. She was selected for the program on basis of an essay, teacher recommendations and interview with a screening panel Conant.

Road Work To Begin

Road improvement work on Rodenburg Road from Crest Avenue to Irving Park Road in Schaumburg Township began Tuesday and is expected to be complete by Oct. 1.

Rodenburg Road will be completely rebuilt and widened from 16 feet to 22 feet, according to Ralph Wilkening, Schaumburg Township highway commissioner.

The $30,000 cost for the improvement of Rodenburg Road is being shared by Schaumburg Township and the village of Schaumburg. Reinke Construction has the contract.

Schaumburg village trustees have agreed to pay up to $14,500 for the road improvement and blacktopping. Half of Rodenburg Road is in Schaumburg, and half is in unincorporated Schaumburg Township.

The township's share of the cost is included in the township's road and bridge fund this year.

Wilkening said the township is accumulating motor fuel tax credits for a future road project. The township now has about $12,000 in funds accumulated.

Exchange Pastor Gives Impressions

by MARY HUTCHINGS

A Scotsman who has never been to Chicago develops an image of the city from movies, and wonders what it's really like.

After four months as exchange minister at United Presbyterian Church of the Cross, Hoffman Estates, the Rev. Ian Robertson of Glasgow still doesn't like to make generalizations about his impressions.

Even though Chicago has "quite a reputation" abroad, Robertson didn't see any real, live gangsters in the city, and he thought Old Town looked "pretty harmless."

He was pleased, moreover, to find the city cleaner and more friendly than New York.

And he thought the suburbs weren't as bad as some people believe. "The suburbs do present a problem, but that is true everywhere," he said.

ROBERTSON ASSUMED the full preaching and pastoral care responsibilities of the Rev. Thomas Truscott who took over his responsibility for Queen's Park High Parish, Glasgow.

The exchange was arranged through an advertisement by Truscott in a British religious magazine more than a year ago. The families exchanged salary, manse, and cars for the four months.

On his first exchange since 1969, Robertson said before his departure Sunday that he didn't feel he was in a foreign country.

Appreciative of the friendship shown to his family he was reluctant to offer any critical views of the United States.

The visiting minister was impressed, moreover, by the vitality and dynamism of the American people. "If there's a problem, you know someone is going to solve it. In the older countries, we have more a tendency to say 'this is the end, we can't conquer this.'"

SCOTLAND HAS A "slower pace of life" he says. "Americans might find it a bit quiet, but that's part of the attraction."

The father of three children thinks Americans do not appreciate their modern conveniences and high standard of living.

But the young are not as pampered as some people charge, he thinks. "The kids work pretty hard, everybody works pretty hard," he observed.

In Scotland, any student admitted to the universities is eligible for a grant to cover fees and basic living expenses.

When he looks at the protests of the young against Vietnam he sees a "very concerned" student group not so different from those in his home parish.

In 1969 he was an exchange minister in a suburb outside of Cleveland. In 11 years, he sees great differences in the country — "Nobody had heard of pollution then."

HE BELIEVES the deaths of John and Robert Kennedy had "a traumatic effect on the whole world. President Kennedy had something no one else has come near. He got through to people."

Since Robertson was a "guest" in this country, he thinks it "goes against the grain to tell you what can be improved."

"If I lived here, I would be worried about health — your hospitals are first class but the cost I hear can range up to $70 a day. I heard Sen. Edward Kennedy has proposed a health insurance bill, and I wish him God's speed."

Since Scotland is an older country, traditions are more important to the people, and change comes slowly, especially in religion. He believes ecumenism will come eventually, but it will be a long process.

"We're not such a mixed bag," he explains. "We tend to hold on to our old rivalries."

ROBERTSON DOESN'T like to say "good-bye." Though Americans use the expression for most occasions, he says it is too final.

Saying good bye to the 500 members of this Hoffman Estates congregation, he wanted to think he would see them again — perhaps when passing through Chicago on a future exchange in the west or south.

Thus his farewell last week to his friends "stateside" could only be a simple, lightly accented "Cheerio!" (Tomorrow Pastor Truscott tells of Scotland.)

Driving along Schaumburg Road in a merry old mobile, a youth enjoys the open air on a fall day.

Dist. 54 To Review Policies

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education will hold a special meeting 8 p.m. today in Helen Keller Junior High to review the district's transportation and lunch policies and to consider changes.

Residents of the Highpoint section of Hoffman Estates within Churchill School boundaries and families in the Pleasant Hills subdivision have requested busing for their children. Children in both areas live less than 1.5 miles from school, and the present policy in Dist. 54 is to bus only those students living 1.5 miles or more from their attendance center.

If no change in the transportation policy is approved, Highpoint parents have asked that all children living north of Hassell Road be allowed to eat lunch at school. Presently, only those students living a mile from school can stay for lunch. Pupils must bring their own lunch when they stay.

RESIDENTS OF both the Highpoint and Pleasant Hills areas contend that sidewalks are not available for children walking to school, and that routes to school are not safe.

According to Dist. 54 administrators, any change in the district's transportation and lunch policies must apply to all schools. In addition, busing more pupils to school would cost the district additional money.

The present cost of transporting a Dist. 54 pupil to school is about $60 a year.

Ronald Ruble, Dist. 54 transportation director, estimated the cost of transporting Dist. 54 pupils who live over a mile from school, rather than 1.5 miles, would be an additional $8,700 per month or about $67,000 more per year.

There are presently 90 children from Highpoint attending Churchill School who would need to be bused if transporting these pupils is approved by the board tonight.

HIGHPOINT CHILDREN living north of Hassell who attend Churchill must follow a walking route that goes south on Jones Road to Hillcrest, east to Ashley, south to Edgemoor, and west to Churchill School. Crossing guards are stationed at Jones and Hillcrest, and in front of the school on Jones Road.

The 1970-71 school budget has already been approved by the Dist. 54 board.

The Highpoint residents contend that it takes from 20 to 25 minutes for children to walk from school during the noon hour. About 30 homes north of Hassell Road are less than a mile from Churchill School.

Children in the Pleasant Hills subdivision are attending Hale School on Wise

Road, and they are walking along Pleasant Drive in the road at present. The subdivision has no sidewalks.

There are about 120 school-age children in Pleasant Hills.

Paving Bids Are Being Studied

Bids for paving Woodfield and Mall Drives in the Woodfield Shopping Center now under construction in Schaumburg were opened Tuesday.

The village board, meeting as the Board of Local Improvements, deferred action on the bids until the next board meeting.

The project, estimated to cost $721,000 will be paid for by the property owners within the shopping center. Though bonds will be issued for part of the improvements, taxpayers will not pick up any of the costs, Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

The apparent low bidder was the R. W. Dunteman Co. who submitted bids of $603,422 and $689,490. They gave a completion time of 360 days.

The second low bid came from Rock Road Construction with bids of $608,256 and $661,265. The completion time was 290 days.

The third low bidder was Arco Midwest with $627,003 and $659,393. Completion time was 340 days.

The Robert R. Anderson Co. submitted bids of $638,562 and $704,976; J. A. Johnson Paving submitted bids of $692,445 and $768,651.

The bids came in lower than the estimate because Sears, Roebuck and Co., one of the major tenants in the shopping center, and Woodfield Mall Associates will pay a total of $413,390 in cash instead of issuing bonds.

The project is called Special Assessment 2 of BOLL. Bids were turned over to village consultant engineers Suhr, Peterson, Peterson and Suhr for tabulation and recommendation.

THE LAST DAYS of summer for these two old men are passed by sitting on a park bench talking about "the good old days." "There's not much else to do," one of them explained.

Get Referendum Answers

Residents of Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will be provided with an opportunity to ask High School Dist. 211 officials as many questions as they want concerning the district's upcoming building referendum.

Monday night two meetings will be held in high schools to give residents a chance to question board members and administrators of issues of the Sept. 19 referendum for two more high schools, an addition to the administrative center and additions to two currently owned school sites.

One meeting will be held in room 127 of Conant High, the other in room 129 of Fremd High School. Both meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

A member of the board of education and a representative from the Dist. 211 administration will be present at both of the meetings.

RICHARD KOLZE, superintendent, said "every effort must be made to provide voters with correct information concerning this issue."

Robert Creek, president of the board of education, said, "Although the referendum will not involve a tax increase, the Board is concerned about a possible failure of the issue and the resulting impact on the future of district facilities and the present standard of education."

"Although our facilities are not overcrowded, the growth rate of 1,000 students per year foretells a serious turn-about for education in the very near future if this growth is not provided for," he said.

Aside from the special public meetings Monday night, the district is taking other steps to inform Dist. 211 residents on the nature of the need for this bond issue.

ONE OF THESE steps includes the "front-line speakers bureau," which consist of school officials who go out and speak to various civic groups on the referendum. At present, 20 speaking commitments have been made.

The district has also provided voters with a special fact sheet which may now be obtained at the district office by calling 354-4300.

And lastly, a Dist. 211 publication, "The Board Reporter," will replace the old "Quarterly Report," and be devoted almost exclusively to the referendum. These will be mailed to residents just prior to Sept. 19.

Courses Planned At Y

John Warder, 23, former star quarterback at Iowa State University and Palatine Township High School, will be calling signals this fall for a different team — the Campus Crusade for Christ.

Warder and his wife, Sherri, a former school teacher, will be assigned to a team of ten persons on the staff of Campus Crusade for Christ International at work on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles.

The former football athlete is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Warder, 205 Mohave Ln., Hoffman Estates.

Warder earned All-State recognition as a quarterback for Palatine Township High School before graduating in 1966. At Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa, Warder was the quarterback, captain, and most valuable player on the 1963 football team.

WARDER GRADUATED from Iowa State last February with a degree in zoology. Someday he may teach biology and coach football, but right now he has to plans to change what he's doing.

Campus Crusade is an evangelistic movement on American campuses presenting Jesus Christ to students and laymen. It was founded in 1951 by Dr. William R. Bright at UCLA.

Crusade staff members, who now number approximately 2,200 use what they call low-keyed techniques to persuade individuals to make a "personal commitment to Jesus Christ."

This summer Warder and his wife attended a training workshop for Crusade workers in San Bernardino, Calif. The workshop ran for eight weeks.

"I want my life to count for the greatest impact, especially because of what is happening on college campuses today," said Warder. "Campus Crusade hopes to have 10,000 staffers on campus by 1970, and my wife and I want to have a part in training these people."

CAMPUS CRUSADE staffers talk with students in small groups, meeting with them in fraternities, sororities, and dormitories, and making Christ a positive issue in discussion.

Emphasizing the role of the church, Campus Crusade seeks to work closely with churches of all denominations. Staff workers encourage students to attend a local church near campus.

Warder became interested in the Campus Crusade movement when he was a college freshman and talked with a Crusader over a Coke. He says the Crusader introduced him to a "personal commitment" concept of Christianity.

"For the first time religion makes sense to me. It really centers on a relationship with a person — and that person is Jesus Christ. He is alive and wants to live in our lives and produce that quality of life, that 'abundant life' that He promised," says Warder.

"THE CHANGE in my life was not dramatic or emotional," notes Warder. "There was just a realization of the fact that Christ did come into my life when I asked Him . . . I began to have a more positive attitude toward life, had more interest in other people and their concerns . . . and my sole purpose is to help bring students into a personal relationship with Jesus Christ."

Warder and his wife will be residing in Los Angeles while assigned to UCLA.

CATV Asks Presentation

A cable television firm has asked to make a presentation to the Schaumburg village board.

The request was turned over to the development committee headed by Trustees Sig Thorsen this week for a recommendation.

The request came from Vue Sonics, Inc., 104 Minnie St., Crystal Lake.

Cable television seeks franchises in municipalities and offers subscribers a special line inside their home to connect to their set.

It offers channels not normally available in the area and better reception, promoters say. Another benefit is the possibilities of broadcasting local programs such as high school football games, parades or board meetings.

Subscribers pay about $6 a month for cable service. For granting a franchise, a municipality receives a fee, usually based on the amount of business, the cable station does.

Several different cable firms are making franchise proposals in nearly all Northwest suburbs.

Cable television has been most successful in areas remote from television transmitters.

Art Teacher's Exhibition Set

An exhibit of art works by Mrs. LaVerne Plichta, Dist. 54 art teacher, will be displayed at the Schaumburg Township library during September.

The works being displayed depict the wide variety of media and styles in which the artist works. On exhibit are examples of sculpture, oil painting, watercolor, etching, hooked wall hangings, pottery, and decoupage.

Mrs. Plichta said she prefers working in crafts and three-dimensional media because she "enjoys using the hands and fingers directly in contact with the material."

A native of Park Ridge, Mrs. Plichta attended art schools in Chicago and St. Louis. She has also done commercial art work. The artist and her husband, who is an illustrator with a Des Plaines art studio, plan to exhibit in local art fairs.

Elgin Y Announces Girls' Judo Class

Girls interested in learning self defense, developing agility, poise, balance, grace, confidence and improving their physical fitness may enroll in a judo class at the YMCA, 111 N. Channing St., Elgin.

Open to girls eight through 15 years of age, the class will begin Sept. 17 and meet from 7:45 until 9 p.m. on Thursdays for 10 weeks, said James Klever, YMCA adult physical director.

Maximum enrollment will be 35 girls. Jack Turner, a native of England and holder of a first-degree black belt, will be starting his third year as a judo instructor at the Elgin YMCA.

YMCA membership is not required for enrollment, but members may enroll at a reduced fee, Klever said.

Plan Theater In Hanover Park

Plans are being made to locate a movie theater in Hanover Park.

The site is not yet selected except that it will be situated in the village, said Ken Struck, spokesman for J-H Builders.

Possibilities of a twin screen theater were mentioned recently, but Struck said the facility will have only one screen.

No further information was offered because negotiations are now taking place.

"It's all up in the air. We'll have more definite information in two weeks," Struck said.

The only movie house now located in Schaumburg Township is the Thunderbird in Hoffman Estates at the Golf-Rose Shopping Center.

There are also indefinite plans to locate a theater in the Woodfield Mall Shopping Center at Route 53 and Golf Road.

Greenhouse Sold To Highway Dept.

Mrs. Melanie Goerger, 84, of Elk Grove Township, has finally retired from the greenhouse business after more than 30 years.

Her daughter, Mrs. Alice Hacker, of 406 E. Hawthorn, Arlington Heights, Tuesday turned the keys to the old family greenhouse over to the State of Illinois, who bought the 2 1/2-acre site at 501 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, for widening of the highway there. The business sold for $125,700.

The keys were turned over to Scott Andrews, an agent of the state right-of-way department.

Sold were the land, the 4,300-acre-foot greenhouse and a four-bedroom frame home, where Mrs. Goerger lived and worked since 1914, when her husband, the late Martin Goerger, bought the business.

It is located next to the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Mrs. Hacker said her father died in 1950, but her mother carried on the business, with the help of her children, right up to the end.

"WE HAVE A LOT of memories here. I guess our feelings are mixed about the sale," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said she and her sister, Florence Vackel, 401 W. Algonquin Road, Des Plaines, ran the business with their husbands.

"We sold wholesale. Friday was our last day of work. We started with roses, then went to lilies and the last 15 years sold chrysanthemums," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said her mother had another greenhouse on Algonquin Road in Mount Prospect, but will lose that in three years through a condemnation suit filed by the Mount Prospect Park District and in 1973 it will be turned over as parkland. It is now run by one of Mrs. Goerger's sons.

Mrs. Goerger, who lived in the house across from the greenhouse, has moved to 22 Lonsdale Road, Elk Grove Village, and is reported happy in her new home.

The state is expected to destroy the buildings immediately in preparation for the road widening project.

Fire Service Triples In Schaumburg

Last year the Schaumburg Fire Department handled a total of 463 ambulance and fire calls. In 1971, the projected total is more than three times greater or 1,450, according to Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson.

The fire department, which began operating as full time in January, has handled a total of 463 calls for the first seven months of this year, Abrahamson told village trustees Tuesday.

Trustees authorized purchase of about $725 in additional saws and other equipment for the department.

In other action, Police Chief Martin Conroy was authorized to get bids on seven new squad cars for 1971. He will also get bids on three three-wheel motorcycles.

A grant is expected to pay for the motorcycles and one squad car.

Trustee Jack Larsen suggested that specifications for new squad cars include anti-pollution equipment. Mayor Robert O. Alcher said that would be a good idea for all village vehicles.

Conroy said Sgt. Al Herzfeld will attend a supervisory school at the University of Illinois for two weeks. The $335 cost will be reimbursed by the state.

Civil Defense Dir. Robert Ciner said the unit will be moved into the new public works building when it is completed. "For the first time, we'll have garage space for our vehicles," he said.

The unit will also have office space in the building. The Civil Defense office is currently in the police department. CD picked up 17 dozen blankets through a government surplus program last week, Ciner said. The blankets will be left in various public buildings for emergencies.

YMCA Group Plans Trip

The first fall Adventure Series trip sponsored by the Elgin YMCA will be to the House of the Rock, Spring Green, Wis., on Oct. 7.

According to Mrs. Steven Hamilton, YW adult program director, the House on the Rock is widely acclaimed as an architectural marvel. Designed and built by sculptor Alex Jordan over a period of twenty years, the house consists of twenty luxurious rooms built on top of a huge chimney-rock hundreds of feet above the valley.

The house uses the rock itself to determine the size and shape of rooms, and includes rock gardens, grottos, cascading waterfalls and seven lighted pools. Large trees which originally grew out of the rock have been incorporated into the house with branches reaching through the roof.

The House on the Rock complex includes the Gate House, Wild Life Pond area, and the Mill House as well as the main house. The sod-roofed Mill House contains the world's largest fireplace and many exhibits of antique dolls, clocks, and music boxes.

The Adventure Series group will have a ham luncheon at the Dutch Kitchen. The chartered bus will leave the YW at 8:30 a.m. and return between 5 and 5:30 p.m. Tickets are now available at the YW for $9.50 including luncheon. YWCA membership is required for participation in Adventure Series trips.

Mens' Swimming To Begin At Elgin Y

Men interested in learning to swim may enroll in a beginning swimming class at the Elgin YMCA.

Instruction begins Monday at 6:30 p.m. and will continue for seven weeks, reports James Klever, YMCA adult physical director. "Men will learn rotary breathing, arm stroke, kicking, treading water and increase their endurance," he added.

Enrollment is open to persons 15 years of age and older and YMCA membership is not required for enrollment. "However, YMCA members may enroll at a reduced rate," Klever said. Maximum enrollment is 25 persons.

For more information, contact the Elgin YMCA, 695-1100.

Fee Reduced For School Room Use

The Dist. 54 school board reduced the fee charged civic, community, and fraternal organizations for the use of school facilities other than gyms from $10 each time to $7.50 last Thursday.

The change was recommended by the board's policy committee so that these groups would be paying the same rate as church groups. Church groups had been charged the lower fee so that they could save money for their own building.

Civic and church groups will be charged $15 for the use of wooden floor gymnasiums in Dist. 54 junior high schools.

In other action, the board denied permission for the owner of the Bobbie Rivers Dance Studio to conduct dancing classes at Robert Frost Junior High School during the 1970-71 school year.

The dance studio had also requested that PTA groups at Dist. 54 junior highs mail literature to parents.

Agreement Refusal Is Blamed

Dundee Rd. Widening Delayed 1 Year

NOW A MAZE of steel and cement blocks, it will soon be a six-classroom addition to Field School in Wheeling. Approval to build the addition was granted by Dist. 21 voters in a referendum last February. Construction started last month and the addition should be completed in December or January. It is being built with funds from the Illinois School Building Commission.

Buffalo Grove's refusal to sign an agreement with the Illinois Division of Highways has delayed the widening of Dundee Road until next year, according to George March, Dist. 10 engineer for the division.

Buffalo Grove officials have refused to sign the agreement because they contend the present plans for widening would result in increased flooding problems in the south part of the village near Dundee Road.

March said yesterday he did not expect major work on the widening of Dundee from Route 83 in Wheeling west to Route 53 near Palatine to begin until next year.

Bids for the construction work on the road were to have been awarded on Sept. 4. Work on the project would have begun this fall.

NOW, HOWEVER, contracts will not be awarded on the construction until sometime in October or November and major work will not begin until spring, March said.

Other delays including a strike by construction trade workers were responsible for the delays which moved the bidding back from its original date in June.

Buffalo Grove officials have agreed to pay half of the cost of installing stoplights at Buffalo Grove Road and Dundee Road.

Village officials have not signed any part of the agreement as yet however, because of drainage problems they fear will be caused by the road widening in the area of the White Pines drainage ditch running north from near Dundee Road to Buffalo Creek.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the village's engineering firm, Raleigh Brandon, told Buffalo Grove officials the roadways storm sewer will be inadequate to handle drainage in the area.

According to Brandon, however, the highway division disclaims all responsibility for drainage problems outside of the road right-of-way.

March said yesterday that the project was still "being reviewed" by the state. He would not comment on what the state would do if the village continues to refuse to sign the agreement.

"We would like them to sign. We'd prefer to have an agreement, and we will keep trying to reach one up until the last moment when the bids are let," March said.

He said another meeting between Buffalo Grove officials and highway division personnel might be necessary.

Buffalo Grove Village Atty Richard Raysa has told village trustees that he expects the state to widen the road whether or not the village signs the agreement. "But they (the state) would be skating on thin ice. They could be held liable for any flooding," Raysa said.

March explained that the village consulting engineer had originally given informal approval to the state's plans for the road widening, but that a change in consulting engineers had resulted in the village refusing to sign the agreement as originally agreed.

Help Asked In Dundee Rd. Hassle

Buffalo Grove Village Pres Don Thompson said yesterday he has enlisted the help of a third party to try to resolve the village dispute with the Ill. Division of Highways over the widening of Dundee Road.

Thompson said he sent a letter Tuesday to Robert Lehnhausen of the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs asking him to set up a meeting with highway division officials to discuss the problem. Thompson said the government affairs agency was established by Gov. Richard Ogilvie to aid municipalities with problems such as the one the village is facing concerning Dundee Road.

THOMPSON SAID village engineering studies indicate that to handle the drainage from the improved road, the water would have to be diverted into the McDonald Creek watershed and not into the White Pines Drainage Ditch.

"We can't do this by ourselves. We don't have the money and we need state and federal approval because this is not the normal path the water would take."

"That is one of the reasons why I have asked Mr. Lehnhausen to intervene for us," he said.

He said that every effort will be made to reach agreement with highway division officials but if an acceptable solution is not found, "then our only course is to get an injunction."

Try Post Office ... When It Opens

Hey, wait a minute everybody! The new Wheeling Post Office building has not opened yet.

It was discovered that someone has already mailed a letter in the new building, and that someone has purchased stamps from a lobby machine. However, the post office will probably not open until next week, according to Postmaster Ed Swan.

Swan has hung signs at the new post office that say the building is closed "until further notice."

Renovation Begun On Apartments

Renovation has begun on 24 boarded-up units of the Colonial Hills apartment complex on McHenry Road in Wheeling, William Bieher, village building and zoning director, said yesterday.

Negotiations to have the buildings repaired or demolished were completed after a year of discussions recently and work to restore the apartments so they can be rented began Aug. 25.

Work on the complex is starting with restoration of the inside of the apartments, Bieher explained.

He said that the boards nailed over the building's windows were left in place until the buildings were occupied because vandals have already broken some of the new windows installed in the apartments.

OUTSIDE WORK ON sidewalks along McHenry and Elmhurst roads, and the straightening of a bend in Buffalo Creek will begin later this month, Bieher predicted.

The apartments, which are held in a receivership by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., (FSLIC) been vacant for more than eight years because they did not meet village codes for building requirements or necessary offsite improvements.

The restoration will include indoor and outdoor work on the buildings themselves as well as straightening the creek, fencing, landscaping, street repair and installation of manholes and sidewalks.

The apartments were taken over by the FSLIC after being financed by the Marshall Savings and Loan Assoc.

Bieher said yesterday he plans to move to area residents soon about talking fences along the southern edge of the creek to facilitate the straightening of the curve in the area.

Don Day Seeking Work

Don Day, former head of the Young Adult Education program and the TORCH Mental Health Clinic at Wheeling High School, has been unemployed for the past 2½ months.

Day's contract to direct these programs terminated on July 1, and his contract was not renewed by High School Dist. 214.

Last month, charges filed against Day of contributing to the delinquency of a minor were dropped by the state, although they could be reinstated within 180 days from his arrest on May 23. However, assistant state's attorney Barry Grossman said last month this will not be done.

Day was arrested by Wheeling police in connection with an unofficial home for boys he ran in his former residence in Wheeling.

Day told the Herald yesterday he believes these charges have contributed to his inability to find another job. He said another factor could be the fact that the supply of teachers in the area is plentiful.

"ALL THE JOBS IN education are filled up," Day said. "I call around and people say 'we're sorry, but we have nothing.'"

"They're friendly and polite, but they can't help."

Day, who is now living in Mount Prospect, said he has registered with several Chicago employment agencies in an effort to secure another job.

He said he would like to obtain a position in the administrative end of education. "Although I don't want to go back solely to teaching, I may, and spend some time writing too," he said.

Day said he has no plans now to sue Wheeling for false arrest, although he has not signed a waiver of civil liability which would prevent him from suing the village.

"I won't know for a few months, whether or not I'll sue. I don't know how much it (the arrest) will hurt me economically," Day said.

Day's attorney, James Hickman, said that his client "is not enthusiastic about filing a suit, as it goes against his personal beliefs and what he has taught his students."

Oktoberfest Set At Bavarian Lodge

An old-fashioned German Oktoberfest complete with an orchestra imported from Austria will be held for a week this month at Hans' Bavarian Lodge north of Wheeling.

The celebration, which will begin at 4 p.m. Sept. 20 will be held in a tent outside the restaurant at 931 N. Milwaukee Ave.

A show featuring Austrian dancers and the "Lunzer Buam" brass orchestra will be staged several times each day of the celebration.

The Oktoberfest, a celebration commemorating the brewing of a special kind of beer at this time of year in Germany, will feature German foods including bratwurst and other sausages as well as beer.

There will be a $3 admission charge which includes a free beer stein.

This year's celebration, the first sponsored by the Wheeling restaurant, will be held each evening from Sept. 20 to 27 beginning at 4 p.m. on Sundays and 6 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays.

RR Officials Agree To Culvert

Soo Line R.R. officials have agreed to design plans for a larger culvert to alleviate flooding at the point where McDonald Creek crosses the railroad tracks in Prospect Heights, south of Foundry Road.

However, construction will not begin until funds for the project are secured.

At a meeting yesterday morning, Soo Line and Illinois Division of Waterways (IDW) officials met with Jack Gilligan, chairman of the McDonald Creek Improvement Committee, to discuss flood conditions in Prospect Heights.

According to Gilligan the Soo Line culvert is too small to accommodate the creek water during heavy rains. In a letter to the railroad, John Gillou, IDW chief engineer, also described the 25-foot wide culvert as "inadequate."

All parties at the meeting agreed there was a need to improve the culvert, but no one was willing to assume the total cost, estimated between $40,000 and $60,000.

According to Bernard Prushak, a Soo Line official, the railroad wants to be reimbursed at least partially by the state, if not completely, for installing the culvert.

HOWEVER, GILLOU said, "The IDW is in no position to commit the state to share the cost of the project. Funds for improvement of the creek would have to be appropriated by the state General Assembly at its next session in January."

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, plans to introduce such a bill at that time, in cooperation with other legislators from the Third District. The specific cost of creek improvement will be determined once an engineer survey of the entire creek is completed by the state.

According to Rudy Behnke, a Soo Line official who attended the Wednesday meeting, the exact completion date of the survey has not been determined. It is expected to be completed before the end of this year, however.

Concerning the new bridge proposed for the railroad crossing, Gilligan said, "I don't think the Soo Line nor the state should be 100 per cent responsible. There has to be a compromise. Both parties might bargain together to share the cost."

"ONCE WE GET over the cost hurdle, we should be able to begin construction in a few months," said Prushak. As an initial step, he proposed designing plans for the bridge and estimating the cost.

The Soo Line officials are concerned about aggravating flood conditions downstream once they enlarge the culvert. In addition, they don't want their construction to conflict with any plans the IDW may make for the railroad crossing in its engineer survey.

Currently McDonald Creek turns east, south of Foundry Road, in a right angle to cross under the railroad tracks. It then bends south in another right angle. According to Gilligan these sharp turns further aggravate the flood conditions.

In addition to widening the culvert, the Soo Line officials said they also plan to straighten out the creek at the railroad crossing.

Behnke agreed to investigate whether realignment of the creek conflicts with IDW plans. He also plans to find out whether the three culverts downstream from the railroad crossing can accommodate whatever increase in water flow would be created by widening of the Soo Line culvert.

RATHER THAN WAIT until after the IDW survey is completed, Gilligan wants to begin improvements of the creek now, before conditions worsen. He pointed out at the meeting that the Prospect Heights area has been hit by three floods already this year.

Since a flood June 7, estimated to have totaled $200,000 in damages, Gilligan has been negotiating with different agencies to remove obstructions from the creek and widen culverts.

The IDW has spent $18,000 to bring in maintenance crews to improve the creek since the flood in June.

Gilligan particularly wants to improve the railroad structure because it is one of the most "critical" sites, he said.

THE HARD WAY to get to Buffalo Grove and Wheeling, Commonwealth Edison Co. construction work at the corner of Palatine and Arlington

Heights roads is resulting in massive backups for northbound traffic at peak rush hour periods. The normally crowded intersection traffic pattern is complicated even more by a closed right lane along Palatine Road.

Vandals Cause School Damage

Vandals caused approximately $6,000 worth of property damage at Prospect Heights Dist. 23 schools during national holidays this summer.

Last Monday evening, equipment valued at approximately $4,000 was stolen from the Eisenhower School at Schoenbeck and Camp McDonald roads. And earlier, on July 4, vandals left a trail of damage at Muir School, on Oak Avenue.

In order to prevent further vandalism, school board members agreed Tuesday to develop a district-wide security program to be considered at a meeting Sept. 14.

At Eisenhower School, vandals entered through a window and carted typewriters, projectors, tape recorders, vacuum cleaners and tools from the building.

"The Cook County Sheriff's Police

said the theft wasn't the work of a juvenile but of professionals," said Grodsky.

However, at Muir School, the technique used by the intruders was more "amateur," according to district officials. The vandals first attempted to enter the building by using explosives. They returned to the scene later and broke a window to gain entry.

Only a television set and a fire extinguisher were stolen from Muir School. However, the vandals also damaged gutters and outdoor lights.

All of the damage at both schools is covered by insurance except for $400 worth of glass at Muir School. Until the district receives funds from the insurance company, equipment will be borrowed from other district schools to be used at Eisenhower.

During the time of the break-ins, the district schools were not occupied from 11 p.m., at which time the janitors go off duty, until the morning school hours.

During the time of the break-ins, THE COOK COUNTY Sheriff's Police are now patrolling the schools more closely. As an additional security measure, school board members are considering the practicality of outdoor lights, an alarm system and a security watch after 11 p.m.

According to the school board members a professional security guard would cost approximately $6 an hour per man.

"We would be wasting money setting up an alarm system unless it is directly connected to a police station," said Grodsky. "Otherwise the alarm could be deactivated so nearby residents wouldn't hear it."

School Board Member Bruce Wallace said the board investigated the cost of alarm systems several years ago. "We decided the cost of an effective system is prohibitive."

If the district invests in more outdoor lighting it will probably not be attached to the building. "Lights will be torn down or smashed as they were at Muir if they are attached to the building," said Hendren.

Added Bus Route Is Sought

A group of Buffalo Grove residents are trying to establish a bus route to Cooper Junior High School for the children who live within 1½ miles of the school.

"These children live within 1½ miles of the school but some of us don't know how we'll manage to get the children to school when bad weather comes, and they can no longer ride their bikes," said Mrs. Nancy Gier, 443 Bernard Dr. Mrs. Gier has one child attending Cooper.

Under Dist. 21 regulations, children who live further than 1½ miles from a school are eligible for bus service.

However, Mrs. Gier said that district school officials had indicated they would be willing to establish a bus route for children within 1½ miles of Cooper, if at least 60 children would ride the bus each day. Cost for the service would be $60 per child per year.

"So far, about six mothers are interested, but there may be others who would want to take part if they knew about it," said Mrs. Gier.

Persons interested should contact Mrs. Gier at 537-4435.

Navy Officer Back After 2-Year Tour

Navy Petty Officer Second Class Robert J. Leck has returned to San Diego aboard the guided missile frigate USS Sterett after two years in the western Pacific. Leck is the son of Mrs. Karl R. Leck of 302 E. Norman Ln. in Wheeling.

Leck's ship served as an anti-war warfare picket protecting American aircraft on reconnaissance missions in international waters.

Pasta Postponed

A spaghetti dinner planned by the Cheer-Aides of Holy Family Hospital has been postponed.

The hospital aides planned a dinner for Friday, Sept. 11 at 5:30 p.m. at Holy Family Hospital, a hospital spokesman said, but plans have been changed and the dinner will not be held as scheduled.

Dist. 59 Teachers Plead

Several teachers had tears in their eyes as they pleaded with Dist. 59 board members Tuesday night to reduce class sizes.

The board announced that little relief would come until sixth-day enrollment figures were received. Next Tuesday is the sixth day.

Almost 100 teachers came to the meeting to present information to the board about their class sizes in hopes of convincing the board to hire additional teachers.

Although the teachers returned to the classrooms on the first day of school Tuesday and said they would continue to teach, they said they would not approve a teaching contract unless it included a lower class size.

The board has offered a salary acceptable to the teachers but the contract has included no provisions for class size.

"WE HAVE NO intentions of exceeding last year's class size," Richard Hess, board president, said.

When the teachers said their classes were larger than last year, Hess said the board would have to wait until the sixth-day enrollment figures were received before making more changes.

Enrollment figures are compiled on the sixth day because of state regulation. This day was chosen because the enrollment is more stable by then, Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent in charge of finance, said.

The teachers proceeded to present their class attendance figures, however, to prove their point, saying things would probably be worse by the sixth day.

One female junior high school teacher listed class sizes as 44, 43, 39, 35, and 31 students.

"I THINK IT'S time we stop talking about money and start talking about human beings. We talk and talk and do nothing and tomorrow I'll have to go back to 44 students. It's our fault. They can't do anything about it," she said, now in tears.

One art teacher exclaimed, "I have an average of 40 students in my class. I had to put in two extra tables to seat the students. There are no windows and no ventilation. God forbid if there's a fire because they won't be able to get out."

A special education teacher at Dempster Junior High School told how she worked for a year to place one boy back in a normal math class, only to find the smallest class had 28 students, which she said meant the boy would have trouble.

She said her students were not counted in the class ratio, yet she had 15 others which she was hoping to eventually return to normal classes.

Other teachers reported sizes of 33, and 36 in remedial reading classes.

"YOU THINK THOSE remedial classes are heavy now — keep this up and you'll have all remedial classes because we don't have the time to reach all these kids," another teacher said.

The questions and statements by the teachers came after a report of opening day presented by Supt. James Erviti.

Erviti said there were no figures available yet for class sizes in the junior high schools — whose teachers registered most of the complaints. However, several teachers disputed his elementary school figures, which set 38 students in a class as the high.

One teacher listed classes at Robert Frost School as 28, 34, 35, 35, and 36. "Yes we have one with 28," she said. "But this is a split class with second and third graders!"

THE TEACHERS were told that several large classes in the junior high schools would receive additional teachers immediately, however, Al Waltman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, said there are only slightly over 10 teachers to be hired for the quota.

Erviti commented, "We still have not heard one teacher say what a desirable size is, or how the community will face paying for additional teachers."

"The teachers problem is not a problem created by the board of education but by the community," he said.

Erviti was referring to a defeated tax increase proposed by the administration and board last November.

No further negotiation meetings have been scheduled as yet, Waltman, chairman of the district negotiation team, said.

Here's Board's Proposal

School Dist. 59 released details yesterday of its latest offer to teachers.

Details were developed by negotiating teams in a session last Thursday. They were rejected by the Teachers' Council negotiating team.

Here are the details: "The board of education has agreed to allocate $79,000 for extra-duty pay."

"This is money paid in addition to teachers' regular salary for additional duties like coaching sports, directing plays, or being a department head."

"The board agrees to add as net additions to the district staff, enough teachers for the 1970-71 school year to preserve district-wide class size averages prevailing during the previous school year."

"Historically and philosophically, the board is committed to make every effort to allocate extra revenue to decrease class size. It pledges to continue to support this program."

"IN AN EFFORT to retain career teachers, the superintendent will select 10 per cent of the full-time equivalent teaching staff as of Oct. 1, or 53 staff members, whichever number is greater, to be career service teachers."

"Sixty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by Dec. 1 to teach in the following year's summer school program."

"These teachers will receive an additional five per cent of their yearly salary as of Dec. 1 of the current year. They will be committed for 20 half-days of teaching in the summer school program."

"Forty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by the superintendent to carry out specific assignments during the year. He will appoint them as the need arises."

"THESE ASSIGNMENTS could include such things as developing special programs; evaluating curriculum, pupil records and recording systems, or resource accounting systems; projecting resource needs; teacher training; or professional internships.

"The board had previously approved an agreement which included a $7,600 starting salary for beginning teachers a salary scale up to a maximum of $15,950 for experienced teachers. It also promised to add half the payment cost of medical insurance for dependents."

"We are ready at any time to continue to meet with the teachers' negotiating team in an attempt to reach agreement," said Albeon Waltman, Dist. 59 assistant superintendent in charge of personnel and head of the district's negotiating team.

The elementary district has nearly 12,000 students in 20 northwest suburban schools — 10 buildings in Elk Grove Village, five in Mount Prospect, four in Des Plaines, and one in Arlington Heights.

Wheeling Independent Issues Last Paper

The Wheeling Independent, a weekly newspaper published each Thursday in Wheeling, has closed its offices in the village.

The last issue of the newspaper was published Aug. 27 before the newspaper's offices were closed, a former employee said yesterday.

Carl Krueger, who established the newspaper in 1957, was both editor and publisher of the Independent. Krueger, who also publishes the Union Grove Sun, a weekly paper in Union Grove, Wis., refused to comment on the closing of the Independent's offices in Wheeling.

"At this time there is nothing to say. I'd just rather not comment," Krueger said yesterday. The newspaper had reported its weekly circulation figures as 1,785 in a national listing of newspapers published this year.

School-Park Site Hearing Tonight

A hearing on new joint school-park sites being earmarked for public use in Wheeling will reconvene for the third time at 7:30 tonight at the regular Wheeling Plan Commission meeting.

The new sites proposed at the hearings will be considered for addition to the village's official map by the village board following plan commission hearings on the sites.

Agreement Refusal Is Blamed

Dundee Rd. Widening Delayed 1 Year

NOW A MAZE of steel and cement blocks, it will soon be a six-classroom addition to Field School in Wheeling. Approval to build the addition was granted by Dist. 21 voters in a referendum last February. Construction started last month and the addition should be completed in December or

January. It is being built with funds from the Illinois School Building Commission.

Buffalo Grove's refusal to sign an agreement with the Illinois Division of Highways has delayed the widening of Dundee Road until next year, according to George March, Dist. 10 engineer for the division.

Buffalo Grove officials have refused to sign the agreement because they contend the present plans for widening would result in increased flooding problems in the south part of the village near Dundee Road.

March said yesterday he did not expect major work on the widening of Dundee from Route 83 in Wheeling west to Route 53 near Palatine to begin until next year.

Bids for the construction work on the road were to have been awarded on Sept. 4. Work on the project would have begun this fall.

NOW, HOWEVER, contracts will not be awarded on the construction until sometime in October or November and major work will not begin until spring, March said.

Other delays including a strike by construction trade workers were responsible for the delays which moved the bidding back from its original date in June.

Buffalo Grove officials have agreed to pay half of the cost of installing stoplights at Buffalo Grove Road and Dundee Road.

Village officials have not signed any part of the agreement as yet however, because of drainage problems they fear will be caused by the road widening in the area of the White Pines drainage ditch running north from near Dundee Road to Buffalo Creek.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the village's engineering firm, Raleigh Brandon, told Buffalo Grove officials the roadways storm sewer will be inadequate to handle drainage in the area.

According to Brandon, however, the highway division disclaims all responsibility for drainage problems outside of the road right-of-way.

March said yesterday that the project was still "being reviewed" by the state. He would not comment on what the state would do if the village continues to refuse to sign the agreement.

"We would like them to sign. We'd prefer to have an agreement, and we will keep trying to reach one up until the last moment when the bids are let," March said.

He said another meeting between Buffalo Grove officials and highway division personnel might be necessary.

Buffalo Grove Village Atty Richard Raysa has told village trustees that he expects the state to widen the road whether or not the village signs the agreement. "But they (the state) would be skating on thin ice. They could be held liable for any flooding," Raysa said.

March explained that the village consulting engineer had originally given informal approval to the state's plans for the road widening, but that a change in consulting engineers had resulted in the village refusing to sign the agreement as originally agreed.

Help Asked In Dundee Rd. Hassle

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Don Thompson said yesterday he has enlisted the help of a third party to try to resolve the village dispute with the Ill. Division of Highways over the widening of Dundee Road.

Thompson said he sent a letter Tuesday to Robert Lehnhausen of the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs asking him to set up a meeting with highway division officials to discuss the problem. Thompson said the government affairs agency was established by Gov. Richard Ogilvie to aid municipalities with problems such as the one the village is facing concerning Dundee Road.

THOMPSON SAID village engineering studies indicate that to handle the drainage from the improved road, the water would have to be diverted into the McDonald Creek watershed and not into the White Pines Drainage Ditch.

"We can't do this by ourselves. We don't have the money and we need state and federal approval because this is not the normal path the water would take."

"That is one of the reasons why I have asked Mr. Lehnhausen to intervene for us," he said.

He said that every effort will be made to reach agreement with highway division officials but if an acceptable solution is not found, "then our only course is to get an injunction."

Try Post Office ... When It Opens

Hey, wait a minute everybody! The new Wheeling Post Office building has not opened yet.

It was discovered that someone has already mailed a letter in the new building, and that someone has purchased stamps from a lobby machine. However, the post office will probably not open until next week, according to Postmaster Ed Swan.

Swan has hung signs at the new post office that say the building is closed "until further notice."

Thompson Opposes Transit District

The solution to the transportation woes facing the Northwest suburbs lies in the hands of state and federal officials, Don Thompson, Buffalo Grove village president, believes.

He did not elaborate on what specific programs he would like to see put into operation.

Thompson sees state or federal help as the solution, rather than the formation of a mass transportation district by area communities to bail out the financially troubled United Motor Coach Bus Co. A meeting dealing with the formation of transit district was held last week, but Buffalo Grove officials were not invited, he said.

"We are growing, and losing what public transportation we had. Everything is being eliminated, but the problem is getting worse. Something has got to be done," Thompson said.

"HIGHWAYS CAN'T be built fast enough. By the time they are finished, construction starts at the other end to add additional lanes," he said.

"A bus feeder system between towns like Buffalo Grove and train stations in towns along the railroad tracks should be considered," Thompson said.

"It would be hard to give a concrete opinion at this time, because I haven't gone into it yet. This is one of the things we are going to discuss at the next meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference. We want to conduct some kind of mass transit study," he said.

The next meeting of the conference will be held at the Buffalo Grove Municipal Building Sept. 14.

Elmer Schuman, a representative from United Motor Coach said the company cannot exist on "box fares alone."

Currently the company is losing about $12,000 a month in its daily operations.

BUFFALO GROVE is not served by United Motor Coach currently, but the company's buses run in Wheeling. The implication is if the village were to join in a mass transit district, bus service would be extended to Buffalo Grove.

Don Day Seeking Work

Don Day, former head of the Young Adult Education program and the TORCH Mental Health Clinic at Wheeling High School, has been unemployed for the past 2½ months.

Day's contract to direct these programs terminated on July 1, and his contract was not renewed by High School Dist. 214.

Last month, charges filed against Day of contributing to the delinquency of a minor were dropped by the state, although they could be reinstated within 100 days from his arrest on May 22. However, assistant state's attorney Barry Grossman said last month this will not be done.

Day was arrested by Wheeling police in connection with an unofficial home for boys he ran in his former residence in Wheeling.

Day told the Herald yesterday he believes these charges have contributed to his inability to find another job. He said another factor could be the fact that the supply of teachers in the area is plentiful.

"ALL THE JOBS IN education are filled up," Day said. "I call around and people say 'we're sorry, but we have nothing.'"

"They're friendly and polite, but they can't help."

Day, who is now living in Mount Prospect, said he has registered with several Chicago employment agencies in an effort to secure another job.

He said he would like to obtain a position in the administrative end of education. "Although I don't want to go back solely to teaching, I may, and spend some time writing too," he said.

Day said he has no plans now to sue

Wheeling for false arrest, although he has not signed a waiver of civil liability which would prevent him from suing the village.

"I won't know for a few months, whether or not I'll sue. I don't know how much it (the arrest) will hurt me economically," Day said.

Day's attorney, James Hickman, said that his client "is not enthusiastic about filing a suit, as it goes against his personal beliefs and what he has taught his students."

Oktoberfest Set At Bavarian Lodge

An old-fashioned German Oktoberfest complete with an orchestra imported from Austria will be held for a week this month at Hans' Bavarian Lodge north of Wheeling.

The celebration, which will begin at 4 p.m. Sept. 20 will be held in a tent outside the restaurant at 931 N. Milwaukee Ave.

A show featuring Austrian dancers and the "Limer Buam" brass orchestra will be staged several times each day of the celebration.

The Oktoberfest, a celebration commemorating the brewing of a special kind of beer at this time of year in Germany, will feature German foods including bratwurst and other sausages as well as beer.

There will be a $3 admission charge which includes a free beer stein.

This year's celebration, the first sponsored by the Wheeling restaurant, will be held each evening from Sept. 20 to 27 beginning at 4 p.m. on Sundays and 6 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays.

RR Officials Agree To Culvert

Soo Line R.R. officials have agreed to design plans for a larger culvert to alleviate flooding at the point where McDonald Creek crosses the railroad tracks in Prospect Heights, south of Foundry Road.

However, construction will not begin until funds for the project are secured.

At a meeting yesterday morning, Soo Line and Illinois Division of Waterways (IDW) officials met with Jack Gilligan, chairman of the McDonald Creek Improvement Committee, to discuss flood conditions in Prospect Heights.

According to Gilligan the Soo Line culvert is too small to accommodate the creek water during heavy rains. In a letter to the railroad, John Gillou, IDW chief engineer, also described the 25-foot culvert as "inadequate."

All parties at the meeting agreed there was a need to improve the culvert, but no one was willing to assume the total cost, estimated between $40,000 and $60,000.

According to Bernard Prushak, a Soo Line official, the railroad wants to be reimbursed at least partially by the state, if not completely, for installing the culvert.

HOWEVER, GILLOU said, "The IDW is in no position to commit the state to share the cost of the project. Funds for improvement of the creek would have to be appropriated by the state General Assembly at its next session in January."

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, plans to introduce such a bill at that time, in cooperation with other legislators from the Third District. The specific cost of creek improvement will be determined once an engineer survey of the entire creek is completed by the state.

According to Rudy Behnke, a Soo Line official who attended the Wednesday meeting, the exact completion date of the survey has not been determined. It is expected to be completed before the end of this year, however.

Concerning the new bridge proposed for the railroad crossing, Gilligan said, "I don't think the Soo Line nor the state should be 100 per cent responsible. There has to be a compromise. Both parties might bargain together to share the cost."

"ONCE WE GET over the cost hurdle, we should be able to begin construction in a few months," said Prushak. As an initial step, he proposed designing plans for the bridge and estimating the cost.

The Soo Line officials are concerned about aggravating flood conditions downstream once they enlarge the culvert. In addition, they don't want their construction to conflict with any plans the IDW may make for the railroad crossing in its engineer survey.

Currently McDonald Creek turns east, south of Foundry Road, in a right angle to cross under the railroad tracks. It then bends south in another right angle. According to Gilligan these sharp turns further aggravate the flood conditions.

In addition to widening the culvert, the Soo Line officials said they also plan to straighten out the creek at the railroad crossing.

Behnke agreed to investigate whether realignment of the creek conflicts with IDW plans. He also plans to find out whether the three culverts downstream from the railroad crossing can accommodate whatever increase in water flow would be created by widening of the Soo Line culvert.

RATHER THAN WAIT until after the IDW survey is completed, Gilligan wants to begin improvements of the creek now, before conditions worsen. He pointed out at the meeting that the Prospect Heights area has been hit by three floods already this year.

Since a flood June 7, estimated to have totaled $200,000 in damages, Gilligan has been negotiating with different agencies to remove obstructions from the creek and widen culverts.

The IDW has spent $18,000 to bring in maintenance crews to improve the creek since the flood in June.

Gilligan particularly wants to improve the railroad structure because it is one of the most "critical" sites, he said.

Added Bus Route Is Sought

A group of Buffalo Grove residents are trying to establish a bus route to Cooper Junior High School for the children who live within 1 1/2 miles of the school.

"These children live within 1 1/2 miles of the school but some of us don't know how we'll manage to get the children to school when bad weather comes, and they can no longer ride their bikes," said Mrs. Nancy Gier, 443 Bernard Dr. Mrs. Gier has one child attending Cooper.

Under Dist. 21 regulations, children who live further than 1 1/2 miles from a school are eligible for bus service.

However, Mrs. Gier said district school officials had indicated they would be willing to establish a bus route for children within 1 1/2 miles of Cooper, if at least 60 children would ride the bus each day. Cost for the service would be $60 per child per year.

"So far, about six mothers are interested, but there may be others who would want to take part if they knew about it," said Mrs. Gier.

Persons interested should contact Mrs. Gier at 537-4435.

Seek Custodians For Post Office

Two new custodians are needed for Wheeling's new post office building, Postmaster Ed Swan said yesterday.

Both positions which pay approximately $3 per hour and are controlled by civil service will be available for applicants when the new post office opens next week, Swan said. Interested persons may contact Swan at the post office or by phoning 537-0700.

Vandals Cause School Damage

Vandals caused approximately $6,000 worth of property damage at Prospect Heights Dist. 23 schools during national holidays this summer.

Last Monday evening, equipment valued at approximately $4,000 was stolen from the Eisenhower School at Schoenbeck and Camp McDonald roads. And earlier, on July 4, vandals left a trail of damage at Muir School, on Oak Avenue.

In order to prevent further vandalism, school board members agreed Tuesday to develop a district-wide security program to be considered at a meeting Sept. 14.

At Eisenhower School, vandals entered through a window and carted typewriters, projectors, tape recorders, vacuum cleaners and tools from the building.

"The Cook County Sheriff's Police

said the theft wasn't the work of a juvenile but of professionals," said Grodsky.

However, at Muir School, the technique used by the intruders was more "amateur," according to district officials. The vandals first attempted to enter the building by using explosives. They returned to the scene later and broke a window to gain entry.

Only a television set and a fire extinguisher were stolen from Muir School. However, the vandals also damaged gutters and outdoor lights.

All of the damage at both schools is covered by insurance except for $400 worth of glass at Muir School. Until the district receives funds from the insurance company, equipment will be borrowed from other district schools to be used at Eisenhower.

During the time of the break-ins, the district schools were not occupied from 11 p.m., at which time the janitors go off duty, until the morning hours.

During the time of the break-ins, THE COOK COUNTY Sheriff's Police are now patrolling the schools more closely. As an additional security measure, school board members are considering the practicality of outdoor lights, an alarm system and a security watch after 11 p.m.

According to the school board members a professional security guard would cost approximately $6 an hour per man.

"We would be wasting money setting up an alarm system unless it is directly connected to a police station," said Grodsky. "Otherwise the alarm could be deadened so nearby residents wouldn't hear it."

School Board Member Bruce Wallace said the board investigated the cost of alarm systems several years ago. "We decided the cost of an effective system is prohibitive."

If the district invests in more outdoor lighting it will probably not be attached to the building. "Lights will be torn down or smashed as they were at Muir if they are attached to the building," said Hendren.

Church Sets Dedication

Cornerstone laying ceremonies for the new sanctuary being constructed by Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights will be held Sept. 20.

The ceremony will begin at 10:45 a.m. and will last about 15 minutes, according to The Rev. Dennis Anderson, pastor of Good Shepherd.

Copies of the Sept. 18 "Wheeling Herald," "Buffalo Grove Herald" and "Prospect Heights Herald" will be placed in the cornerstone, Anderson said. A copy of the Sept. 20 "Chicago Daily News," an issue of a Lutheran Church Magazine, recent issues of the Good Shepherd newsletter, the 1969 annual report of Good Shepherd and a copy of the 1970 Good Shepherd church directory will also be placed in the cornerstone, Anderson said.

Richard Dokmo of Arlington Heights, the vice chairman of the church congregation, will speak at the ceremonies.

The new sanctuary is scheduled for completion in December.

FIRING AWAY, on the Palatine police firing range, Patrolman David Zack zeroes in on his target. Most of the police think of their weapons as something to be used as a last resort, when all else fails.

They're Straight Shooters

by AL GREENE

The gun smoke hung heavily in the air, the fluorescent lights giving it a ghost-like quality. The pungent smell wafted through the long, narrow gallery as the five men re-loaded their 38 caliber pistols.

They were in the basement of the Palatine police quarters to qualify with their weapons. They were shooting at circular targets this time. But the thoughts about shooting at another person did not escape them.

Peter Niaves, a four-year veteran of the force, sat behind the range control board, pushing the buttons, controlling the targets and giving instructions to the men on the firing line.

"It's a matter of respect," he said talking about his pistol. "You feel safe with it. You're always thinking about self preservation."

Niaves turned to the board, pushed a button, and the targets scurried down a metal rail to their resting places, 75 feet away.

HE TOLD THE men on the firing line, separated from him by a glass wall that they would be firing slow phase. Ten shots in five minutes.

"Ready on the right, ready on the left. All ready on the firing line."

He pushed another button and the targets, which had been showing only their edges to the men, turned to show their faces.

Niaves turned off some of the lights in the control booth and the speaker. Outside the glass wall, the sounds of shooting bounced off the cement walls. The men were wearing sound proofed earmuffs to preserve their hearing. Inside the control booth, the practice shots were muffled.

The firing procedure would be repeated for timed fire, five shots in 20 seconds, re-load, and another five shots and then in the third phase firing five shots in 10 seconds, re-loading, and another five shots in 10 seconds.

Out of 300 points, the police need 165 to qualify.

In an officer does not qualify, he gets special instructions.

"It's PRETTY embarrassing," one officer said.

After each phase is completed, Niaves asked if there were "any alibis." This means if there was a misfire or a bad shell an officer will get a chance to shoot again.

Robert Vallas, who is a two-year veteran of the force, was now sitting next to Niaves. "I never had to use it," he said about his gun.

"But you never know. You always have to be ready. Especially when you stop a car at 2 a.m. and don't know who's in it."

Vallas said when he stops a car, late at night he loosens the strap across the top of his holster. "You have to be ready," he repeated. "You can't afford not to be."

"There's always the possibility that some guy may be lying on the rear floor with a shot gun," he said. "You gotta do something besides duck," he added.

ROOKIE COP Robert Fiester called his weapon a deterrent. "To deter people from getting violent," he said.

Then he added, "It's better to have it and not use it, than to need it and not have it."

David Zack, who joined the force last year said, "most of the guys feel that the gun is the last thing you want to use."

The attitude he said is characterized by the statement, "If it's between me and him, it's going to be him."

The men on the firing line had finished their firing and were waiting for the targets to be brought back.

"Any alibis?" asked the man behind the control board.

"Yea," came an answer, "the target's too small."

Plan Referendum In Park District

After five years since their last referendum, the Palatine Park District's board of commissioners are now beginning to make plans for another one.

Although the possibility of calling another referendum has been mentioned with increasing frequency among park officials during the past few months, Norman Gaare, board president, said Tuesday night that a referendum for more park facilities is definitely needed in the near future.

Paul Jensen, vice president, said a referendum will probably be called in about one year for another swimming pool, more skating facilities and primarily for more park sites in the south and southeast end of Palatine, and in relatively new and densely populated subdivisions such as Reseda and Hunting Ridge.

He said no estimates of how much money would be needed have been made as yet. He also said commissioners are not sure whether or not the referendum would be for site acquisition plus site development, or just park development.

IN 1965 THE park district held a similar referendum for the acquisition and development of several new parks. Jensen said the upcoming bond issue would be "Mm much the same."

The need for a referendum was brought up in a discussion Tuesday night between George Bishop, president of the Reseda Homeowner's Association, and the park board.

Bishop, for the second time, made an appeal to the board to "do something" to get a recreational area developed for children in the Reseda area.

Gaare told Bishop that he and other members of the board were well aware of this need but the funds for such a project simply were not available.

"The only way we'd be able to get it done is by calling a referendum," he said.

Gaare then said that other subdivisions such as Hunting Ridge have voiced similar request and that the need for more neighborhood parks was "definitely there."

Thus, park commissioners and administrators will spend an increasing portion of their time discussing plans for another referendum during the next few months, Jensen said.

Right now, however, these plans are only in their "infancy," he added.

Get Referendum Answers

Residents of Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will be provided with an opportunity to ask High School Dist. 211 officials as many questions as they want concerning the district's upcoming building referendum.

Monday night two meetings will be held in high schools to give residents a chance to question board members and administrators of issues of the Sept. 19 referendum for two more high schools, an addition to the administrative center and additions to two currently owned school sites.

One meeting will be held in room 127 of Conant High, the other in room 129 of Fremd High School. Both meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

A member of the board of education and a representative from the Dist. 211 administration will be present at both of the meetings.

RICHARD KOLZE, superintendent, said "every effort must be made to provide voters with correct information concerning this issue."

Robert Creek, president of the board of education, said, "Although the referendum will not involve a tax increase, the Board is concerned about a possible failure of the issue and the resulting impact on the future of district facilities and the present standard of education."

"Although our facilities are not overcrowded, the growth rate of 1,000 students per year foretells a serious turn-about for education in the very near future if this growth is not provided for," he said.

Aside from the special public meetings Monday night, the district is taking other steps to inform Dist. 211 residents on the nature of the need for this bond issue.

ONE OF THESE steps includes the "front-line speakers bureau," which consist of school officials who go out and speak to various civic groups on the referendum. At present, 20 speaking commitments have been made.

The district has also provided voters with a special fact sheet which may now be obtained at the district office by calling 358-3300.

And lastly, a Dist. 211 publication, "The Board Reporter," will replace the old "Quarterly Report," and be devoted almost exclusively to the referendum. These will be mailed to residents just prior to Sept. 19.

Cracker Barrel

Palatine health officer Richard Dawson went over to Village Pres. John Moodie's house yesterday to inspect a new well. "If anything is wrong with it," he told Mrs. Moodie, "I'll let you know."

By The Seat of Your Pants at 57 N. Bothwell will hold a "grand happening" instead of a grand opening Sept. 12. Starting at 12:30 p.m. the downtown area will be serenaded by a rock group.

The question to ask Ken Eriksen, the executive director of the Chamber of Commerce is, "Do you really meet the nicest people on a Honda?"

Palatine police were summoned to the Palatine National Bank over the labor day weekend. Seems an employee of the computer services firm in the building locked herself out of her office and since the front door to the bank was locked she was trapped in the foyer.

Proposed Diamonds Will Be Shared

Proposed baseball fields behind St. Theresa's School, west of the Palatine Plaza, will be used not only by the Palatine Central League, a boys baseball program, but also by St. Theresa's Church.

Eldon Naffziger, president of the league, said yesterday that the church has both an adult and youth softball program which could make use of the fields along with the league. He also said that neighborhood children could also use the diamonds.

In yesterday's Herald it was not reported that groups other than the league would use the field.

The league has requested that it be allowed to use village fire hydrants to water the new sod it plans to plant on the field.

Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said it is against village policy to allow fire hydrants to be used for purposes other than fighting fires.

The village board is expected to discuss the matter at its Monday night meeting.

Appeal Drive To Begin Oct. 5

The executive board of the Palatine Combined Community Appeal Tuesday night scheduled this year's fund raising drive to begin Oct. 5.

On that day the board will begin mailing out letters to local businesses to ask for contributions.

Businesses will be contacted personally from Oct. 10 through 17. The mailings to residences will begin Oct. 19.

There will be no door to door canvassing of homes, Mrs. Barbara Gibbs, a board member said.

Instead, residents will be asked to return envelopes with a contribution to the 10 participating agencies. On Oct. 26, Mrs. Gibbs said, the Campfire Girls, along with the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts and other young people will pass out reminders about the drive.

IN THE LETTER to businesses, the PCCA says it is "desperately" in need of help.

"Last year we fell far short of raising the local money needed to operate these agencies which served over 3,700 township residents. Although we will receive $28,000 this year for running the agencies, only $7,400 was raised in the Fund Drive."

"This year we are appealing for your support of the Combined Appeal agencies because they mainly serve the youth of our township. The needs are growing as the population grows in Palatine."

The board has set a goal of $15,000 this year, the same as the 1969 goal. Last year the PCCA drive collected about $7,500 or 50 per cent of its goal.

The purpose of the combined appeal is to consolidate nonprofit charitable contribution drives and campaigns in Palatine.

LAST YEAR THE agencies received funds amounting to $28,500. The local drive is part of the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy which determines how much money local agencies receive.

In March the executive board approved a 10 per cent increase in last year's allocations which go to 10 participating agencies. The total was $31,314.

The funds will be distributed to the following agencies: Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Clearbrook Center, Countryside Center, Camp Reliance, Northwest Mental Health, Northwest Suburban YMCA, Salvation Army, Salvation Army Family Services and the USO.

This year the campaign is being run by William Jenkins of 718 S. Middleton.

Recreation Plans Listed

Aside from the regularly listed fall-winter-spring activities for children and adults, the Palatine Park District will offer a variety of general recreation, winter sports and special events for the entire Village during the next few months.

General recreation classes include dog obedience training, guitar, holiday crafts and knitting, said Bruce Beiner, director of recreation.

Dog Obedience classes will be held on Monday evenings at 530 S. Williams Dr., Palatine for two sessions. The first session runs from Oct. 12 through Nov. 30, and the second from March 1 through April 19. A class for more advanced dogs also will be held on Mondays.

Guitar lessons for persons 10 years and older will be held for beginning, intermediate and advanced students on Tuesday nights.

The class will meet in three sessions and will be held at the Maple Park Shelter Building. Session I begins Oct. 20 and ends Dec. 8. Session II runs from Jan. 19 to March 9. And session III extends from March 23 to May 11.

WITH THANKSGIVING and Christmas coming up, the park district is also offering a course in holiday crafts, which will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday from Nov. 11 to Dec. 16. Registrants must be at least 18 years old.

Knitting is also in the fall-winter program lineup. This class will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. from Oct. 21 to Dec. 9, and again from Jan. 20 to March 10.

This winter will also feature ice skating. Starting around the middle of December, skating will be held at Community, Maple Willow, and Birchwood Parks, as well as the Palatine Hills Golf Course Lake.

The ice rinks will be open between 3:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. of weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekends and holidays.

Tobogganing, sledding and skiing will also be featured this winter. In addition, an extensive hockey program for area youngsters will be held.

And throughout the seasons, a series of special events for Palatine residents will be launched on Oct. 31 with a Halloween Party at Community Park.

During the Thanksgiving holidays, a turkey trot will be held at 9 a.m. at the Palatine Hills Golf Course for all ages.

Easter will bring the annually sponsored Easter Egg Hunt in Community Park, which will begin at 9:30 a.m. on April 10 for children 12 years and under.

And as spring winds begin to pick up, all boys and girls will be invited to the park district's Kite Day, which starts at 10 a.m. on May 8 and will be held in Community Park.

Registrations for these and other programs can be made between Oct. 5 and Oct. 17 from 1 to 5 p.m. on weekdays and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays at the park office, 202 E. Palatine Road.

Greenhouse Sold To Highway Dept.

Mrs. Melanie Goerger, 84, of Elk Grove Township, has finally retired from the greenhouse business after more than 56 years.

Her daughter, Mrs. Alice Hacker, of 306 E. Hawthorn, Arlington Heights, Tuesday turned the keys to the old family greenhouse over to the State of Illinois, who bought the 2½-acre site at 501 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, for widening of the highway there. The business sold for $126,700.

The keys were turned over to Scott Andrews, an agent of the state right-of-way department.

Sold were the land, the 4,500-acre-foot greenhouse and a four-bedroom frame home, where Mrs. Goerger lived and worked since 1914, when her husband, the late Martin Goerger, bought the business.

It is located next to the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Mrs. Hacker said her father died in 1950, but her mother carried on the business, with the help of her children, right up to the end.

"WE HAVE A LOT of memories here. I guess our feelings are mixed about the sale," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said she and her sister, Florence Vaelek, 401 W. Algonquin

From the Library

New Shipment

by THE PALATINE LIBRARY STAFF

This week many new and interesting non-fiction and fiction books have arrived at the Palatine Public Library.

Among the new non-fiction works, many books are currently available to patrons with interest ranging from world events and biographies to politics and history to science and nature.

Now that most summer travelers have returned home, they might be interested in comparing their travels with the off-beat and overlooked spots in Europe which Herbert Lotman cites in his book, "Detours from the Grand Tour."

Other books dealing with international subjects are "The Spaniards," by Michael Percival; "Israel: An Uncommon Guide," by Joan Comay; and "Portrait of India," by Ved Mehta.

In the area of biographies and personal memoirs, books on hand include "The Life of Mozart," by Hans Conrad Fischer; "The Legacy of Tom Dooley," by Lawrence Elliott; and "I Chose Prison," an autobiography of a man who ran the federal prison system for 27 years, by James V. Bennett.

FOR PATRONS interested in history, politics or dissent, the library can now offer "Divine Disobedience: Profiles in Catholic Radicalism," by Francine du Plessix Gray; "Kim: A Gift from Viet Nam," by Frank Chinnoek; and "Arcadia," a story of a migrant worker now on death row for murdering his seven children, by Mark Lane, who feels evidence points to his innocence.

The science and nature books which recently arrived are "Darwin's Century," by Loren Eiseley; "The World of The Bison," by Ed Park; and "Mysteries of Our World," by Peter Briggs.

New additions to the library in the area of arts and literature include "American Painting of the nineteenth Century," by Barbara Novak; "Song That Changed the World," by McCa Wilson Whitman; and "Good Times," poems by Lucille Clifton.

NON-FICTION books dealing with sociology are "Two Worlds of Childhood," by Vrie Bronfenbrenner; "Your Personal Guide to Successful Retirement," by Sidney Margolis; and "The Man and The Woman Thing and Other Provocations," by George B. Leonard.

And on the lighter side of things, two new books now in stock are "McCall's Annual of Creative Handicrafts" and "Tennis to Win," by Billie Jean King.

One of the major new arrivals in the fiction category is "Good Luck Miss Wyckoff," by playwright William Inge ("Bus Stop").

Other works include "God is an Englishman," by R. F. Delderfield; "Dona Flor and Her Tow Friends," by Amado Jorge; "The Hat Rock," by Donald Westlake.

Attends ROTC Summer Camp

Cadet Robert C. Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman, Palatine, recently attended the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps' advanced summer camp.

The cadet is one of more than 17,000 young men expected to attend ROTC camps at various military installations throughout the nation.

At summer camp he was a small unit leader and instructor in realistic exercises.

Hoffman is a student at the University of Illinois, Champaign.

Driving along Schaumburg Road in a merry old mobile, a youth enjoys the open air on a fall day.

Seek Help In Dundee Road Hassle

Buffalo Grove's refusal to sign an agreement with the Illinois Division of Highways has delayed the widening of Dundee Road until next year, according to George March, Dist. 10 engineer for the division.

Buffalo Grove officials have refused to sign the agreement because they contend the present plans for widening would result in increased flooding problems in the south part of the village near Dundee Road.

March said yesterday he did not expect major work on the widening of Dundee from Route 83 in Wheeling west to Route 53 near Palatine to begin until next year.

Bids for the construction work on the road were to have been awarded on Sept. 4. Work on the project would have begun this fall.

NOW, HOWEVER, contracts will not be awarded on the construction until sometime in October or November and major work will not begin until spring, March said.

Other delays including a strike by construction trade workers were responsible for the delays which moved the bidding back from its original date in June.

Buffalo Grove officials have agreed to pay half of the cost of installing stoplights at Buffalo Grove Road and Dundee Road.

Village officials have not signed any part of the agreement as yet however, because of drainage problems they fear will be caused by the road widening in the area of the White Pines drainage ditch running north from near Dundee Road to Buffalo Creek.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the village's engineering firm, Raleigh Brandon, told Buffalo Grove officials the roadways storm sewer will be inadequate to handle drainage in the area.

According to Brandon, however, the highway division disclaims all responsibility for drainage problems outside of the road right-of-way.

March said yesterday that the project was still "being reviewed" by the state. He would not comment on what the state would do if the village continues to refuse to sign the agreement.

"We would like them to sign. We'd prefer to have an agreement, and we will keep trying to reach one up until the last moment when the bids are let," March said.

He said another meeting between Buffalo Grove officials and highway division personnel might be necessary.

Buffalo Grove Village Atty. Richard Raysa has told village trustees that he expects the state to widen the road whether or not the village signs the agreement. "But they (the state) would be skating on thin ice. They could be held liable for any flooding," Raysa said.

March explained that the village consulting engineer had originally given informal approval to the state's plans for the road widening, but that a change in consulting engineers had resulted in the village refusing to sign the agreement as originally agreed.

Area Woman Gets Nursing Grant

The St. Alexius Hospital Auxiliary financial assistant grant to a second-year DuPage or Harper College nursing student has been awarded to Mrs. Robert Frisen, 2103 Hawk Lane, Rolling Meadows, a nurse technician presently employed in the emergency room at St. Alexius.

The auxiliary grant funds will apply to Mrs. Frisen's tuition, books and uniform costs at Harper and were awarded on the basis of financial need and scholastic performance.

Mrs. Marie Cogburn, nursing supervisor of the emergency room said, "Linda has a keen interest in patient care, and the ability to adapt to the needs of the hospital in various roles. She has demonstrated great perseverance in her studies and, at the same time, has continued her excellent work at St. Alexius. It hasn't always been easy Linda is the working mother of four young children and a housewife as well as student. We're very proud of her."

Mrs. Frisen has been on the staff of St. Alexius since the hospital opened in 1966. She was originally employed as a nursing assistant in the emergency room. In 1968, she began her nursing education at Harper College and in February, 1970, was promoted to nurse technician, signifying that she had completed half her training.

Mayor Asks Transit Help

The solution to the transportation woes facing the Northwest suburbs lies in the hands of state and federal officials, Don Thompson, Buffalo Grove village president, believes.

He did not elaborate on what specific programs he would like to see put into operation.

Thompson sees state or federal help as the solution, rather than the formation of a mass transportation district by area communities to bail out the financially troubled United Motor Coach Bus Co. A meeting dealing with the formation of transit district was held last week, but Buffalo Grove officials were not invited, he said.

"We are growing, and losing what public transportation we had. Everything is being eliminated, but the problem is getting worse. Something has got to be done," Thompson said.

"HIGHWAYS CAN'T be built fast enough. By the time they are finished, construction starts at the other end to add additional lanes," he said.

"A bus feeder system between towns like Buffalo Grove and train stations in towns along the railroad tracks should be considered," Thompson said.

"It would be hard to give a concrete opinion at this time, because I haven't gone into it yet. This is one of the things we are going to discuss at the next meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference. We want to conduct some kind of mass transit study," he said.

The next meeting of the conference will be held at the Buffalo Grove Municipal Building Sept. 14.

Elmer Schuman, a representative from United Motor Coach said the company cannot exist on "box fares alone."

Currently the company is losing about $12,000 a month in its daily operations.

BUFFALO GROVE is not served by United Motor Coach currently, but the company's buses run in Wheeling. The implication is if the village were to join in a mass transit district, bus service would be extended to Buffalo Grove.

Dist. 59 Teachers Plead With Board

Several teachers had tears in their eyes as they pleaded with Dist. 59 board members Tuesday night to reduce class sizes.

The board announced that little relief would come until sixth-day enrollment figures were received. Next Tuesday is the sixth day.

Almost 100 teachers came to the meeting to present information to the board about their class sizes in hopes of convincing the board to hire additional teachers.

Although the teachers returned to the classrooms on the first day of school Tuesday and said they would continue to teach, they said they would not approve a teaching contract unless it included a lower class size.

The board has offered a salary acceptable to the teachers but the contract has included no provisions for class size.

"WE HAVE NO intentions of exceeding last year's class size," Richard Hess, board president, said.

When the teachers said their classes were larger than last year, Hess said the board would have to wait until the sixth-day enrollment figures were received before making more changes.

Enrollment figures are compiled on the sixth day because of state regulation. This day was chosen because the enrollment is more stable by then, Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent in charge of finance, said.

The teachers proceeded to present their class attendance figures, however, to prove their point, saying things would probably be worse by the sixth day.

One female junior high school teacher listed class sizes as 44, 43, 39, 35, and 31 students.

"I THINK IT'S time we stop talking about money and start talking about human beings. We talk and talk and do nothing and tomorrow I'll have to go back to 44 students. It's our fault. They can't do anything about it," she said, now in tears.

One art teacher exclaimed, "I have an average of 40 students in my class. I had to put in two extra tables to seat the students. There are no windows and no ventilation. God forbid if there's a fire because they won't be able to get out."

A special education teacher at Dempter Junior High School told how she worked for a year to place one boy back in a normal math class, only to find the smallest class had 28 students, which she said meant the boy would have trouble.

She said her students were not counted in the class ratio, yet she had 15 others which she was hoping to eventually return to normal classes.

Other teachers reported sizes of 38, and 36 in remedial reading classes.

"YOU THINK THOSE remedial classes are heavy now — keep this up and you'll have all remedial classes because we don't have the time to reach all these kids," another teacher said.

The questions and statements by the teachers came after a report of opening day presented by Supt. James Erviti.

Erviti said there were no figures available yet for class sizes in the junior high schools — whose teachers registered most of the complaints. However, several teachers disputed his elementary school figures, which set 38 students in a class as the high.

Set Hearing, Vision Tests

Vision and hearing testing for pre-schoolers will be offered Sept. 14 through 18 at the Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlfing Road, Palatine.

Sponsored by the Suburban Low Incidence Development of Exemplary Services and the Palatine PTA groups of Elementary School Dist. 15, the program will be open to area children three to five years old from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m.

The purpose of the screening program will be to locate the pre-school age children with possible visual or hearing problems and to identify those children needing special educational services because of any limitations they may have.

Registration for the screening will be held from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p. m. Tuesday at Christ Lutheran Church.

All children taking the vision and hearing test must be pre-registered.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health will provide trained and certified technicians to do the screening. A follow-up test will be provided to those children who show a hearing or vision difficulty from the first test.

The screening program will be offered free to area residents.

Don Day Continues To Seek Employment

Don Day, former head of the Young Adult Education program and the TORCH Mental Health Clinic at Wheeling High School, has been unemployed for the past 2½ months.

Day's contract to direct these programs terminated on July 1, and his contract was not renewed by High School Dist. 214.

Last month, charges filed against Day of contributing to the delinquency of a minor were dropped by the state, although they could be reinstated within 160 days from his arrest on May 22. However, assistant state's attorney Barry Grossman said last month this will not be done.

Day was arrested by Wheeling police in connection with an unofficial home for boys he ran in his former residence in Wheeling.

Day told the Herald yesterday he believes these charges have contributed to his inability to find another job. He said another factor could be the fact that the supply of teachers in the area is plentiful.

"ALL THE JOBS IN education are filled up," Day said. "I call around and people say 'we're sorry, but we have nothing.'"

"They're friendly and polite, but they can't help."

Day, who is now living in Mount Prospect, said he has registered with several Chicago employment agencies in an effort to secure another job.

He said he would like to obtain a position in the administrative end of education. "Although I don't want to go back solely to teaching, I may, and spend some time writing too," he said.

Day said he has no plans now to sue Wheeling for false arrest, although he has not signed a waiver of civil liability which would prevent him from suing the village.

"I won't know for a few months, whether or not I'll sue. I don't know how much it (the arrest) will hurt me economically," Day said.

Day's attorney, James Hickman, said that his client "is not enthusiastic about filing a suit, as it goes against his personal beliefs and what he has taught his students."

St. Colette Church Plans Parish Picnic

Games, sports, music and lots of food will be part of the St. Colette Parish Picnic planned from noon till dusk Sunday at Grove No. 1 in Deer Grove.

The "Just Plain Stones," a local rock group, will perform during the day at a charge of $3 per family, which will include five tickets per child redeemable for soda or ice cream plus a door prize chance.

Beer, pop, ice cream, hot dogs, bratwurst and candy will be sold throughout the day and prizes will be awarded to game winners.

Police Seeking Crossing Guard

The Palatine Police Department is currently seeking an additional crossing guard so that a man can be placed at the intersection of Plum Grove Road and Washington Street to help elementary school children on their way to school.

Once a fifth crossing guard is hired, the guard presently at Winston Street and Palatine Road will be transferred to the Plum Grove-Washington corner. The new guard will take over the duties at Winston and Palatine.

According to Robert Centner, Palatine

police chief, it is difficult to find crossing guards who are willing to work just a few hours necessary when children walk to and from school. Duties at the Plum Grove-Washington corner will begin as soon as a new guard is hired, although Centner could not give a date as to when this may occur.

Rotary Gets Flag

The Palatine Rotary Club has a new flag thanks to Claudia Budny of 940 Timothy Lane, Des Plaines.

The club recently presented her with a $100 check for winning a contest to redesign the flag.

Edward J. Kunze of the Rotary Club, said the new flag represents new ideas for the club and a rejuvenation.

The flag incorporates the Rotary Wheel, the village seal and an outline of Illinois, he said.

Miss Budny, an art education major, attended Harper Junior College and plans to enroll at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Ill., this fall.

C'mon, It's Not That Kind Of A Key Club

Between 200 and 300 locker keys have not been returned to the Rolling Meadows Park District office after use of the locker rooms at the swimming pool this summer.

The park district uses lockers in which, for a penny, the key can be purchased for use each day. However, a large number of these keys have not been returned.

Charles P. Conley, new maintenance foreman for the park district, has requested that all persons holding the keys return them to the park district office so that the lockers can be used by other people.

Complete Air Force Plumbing Course

Airman Robert J. Martinez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martinez of Palatine has graduated from the training course of U. S. Air Force plumbing specialists at Sheppard Air Force Base.

Martinez, who learned to repair specialized heating, compressed air, and petroleum systems, is being reassigned to the 381st Strategic Missile Wing which is part of the Strategic Air Command.

Fall Preschool Classes Slated

Preschool classes for fall will begin at the Palatine Park District this week, says Bruce Belmer, director of recreation.

Preschool classes will be held for three and four year olds this fall. All children must have a completed physical form with them on the first day of class. They must also be either three years old by June 1, or four years old by Dec. 1 of this year.

All Tuesday and Thursday classes began yesterday. The Monday, Wednesday and Friday classes begin today.

Held at Maple and Community Parks, morning sessions run from 9 to 11 a.m., while afternoon classes begin at 1 p.m. and end at 3 p.m.

Preschool registrations may be made at the Palatine Park District office, 162 E. Palatine Road, or by calling 338-0333.

Preschool is designed to develop young children mentally, physically and socially, Belmer said.

Council To OK Penney Co. Plan

Rolling Meadows City Council will allow the J.C. Penney Co. to construct a gasoline sales area beside their proposed Treasury discount store on Algonquin Road if the company will buy a 5.5-acre corner zoned for a gas station on Algonquin and Golf roads.

At The Herald's press time Tuesday night, the council had taken no definite action as reported yesterday, but later the council unanimously passed a resolution tentatively approving the proposed Penney Co. plan. However, four conditions must be met before final approval can be given.

The first condition is that the Penney Company exercise its option to buy the corner property as well as the 29-acre site it is now planning to develop. The 5.5 acres will cost Penney Co. $380,000, if they decide to build on the Rolling Meadows site.

A SECOND CONDITION, which the Penney Company has already said it will agree to, is that the corner property will not have an automobile service area. Penney's plans call for the gasoline sales area to be near the main discount store.

Penney's has also agreed to the last two conditions: not to move the location of the gasoline sales area from the location on the plot plan and not to allow anyone else to operate the station. If gasoline sales are discontinued, the above-ground structure must be removed within three months.

"I have no comment on the decision," Wesley Tanner, regional real estate manager for the Penney Co., said after the council meeting.

"I have made my recommendations to the Penney real estate board in New York and it is up to them to decide whether or not to buy the corner."

WESLEY SAID HE recommended the company buy the 5.5-acre parcel of land for esthetic reasons as well as for the automobile service center zoning on the property.

Penney's option to buy the 29-acre tract was up Tuesday, but Tanner said he has been able to extend the option. "I don't know exactly when the real estate committee will meet, but the decision of whether or not we build in Rolling Meadows will be up to them."

During discussion on the proposed Treasury Store this summer, Tanner and the Penney Company have been firm about their request for a gasoline sales area near the main store. The company feels the gasoline sales are a necessary part of their "one-stop shop" concept for the discount chain store they call the Treasury. The main store will contain a grocery, beauty parlor, drugstore, dry-cleaning center, and clothing sales areas in addition to the automobile accessories and gasoline sales areas.

IN ORDER TO put the gasoline sales area on the 29-acre tract, Arlington Heights Village will have to agree to change an agreement with the City of Rolling Meadows prohibiting gas stations on the tract. The city signed the agreement last year to get Arlington Heights to withdraw a lawsuit against the city contesting the annexation of the Isenstein-Parker property, which includes the Penney Co. property.

A group of Arlington Heights residents attended the city council meeting, though they did not have an opportunity to speak. "We thought we could speak to each issue when it came up," Alice Harms, an Arlington Heights plan commission member, said. Rolling Meadows City Council meetings allow the audience to speak at only one point in the meeting, before resolutions and ordinances are presented.

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer said Tuesday he didn't think Arlington Heights would object to having Penney's build a gas station on Golf Road near their main department store if one is not built on the northwest corner of Golf and Algonquin roads.

Home Declared Health Hazard

Rolling Meadows' city council has declared the residence of Paul Rutherford, 4202 Linden Lane, a fire and health hazard and is applying to the Circuit Court of Cook County for an order to demolish the residence if the owners do not bring it up to the minimum health and safety standards of the city.

Tuesday night the council unanimously approved a resolution calling for the city attorney to begin court proceedings to get the owners to improve the property or have the circuit court condemn it.

The city has been trying for three years to get the owners to improve the property. Sunday, Aug. 23, the building and zoning officer, health inspector and fire marshal inspected the inside of the house for building, health and fire code violations.

A search warrant issued by Judge Paul A. O'Malley on Aug. 20 enabled the three officials to enter the house to look for "an open and unguarded fire place, uncurved carcasses of dead animals and filth and excrement."

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty said his representative on the search found exposed electrical wiring, a fuse box carrying 30 amp's rather than the 15 required by code, a back exit blocked, piles of rubbish inside and outside the house, the cover missing on the furnace controls, and oil tanks in the shed in the back yard which were not being moved. In his recommendation for improvements, which will be submitted to the court, Fogarty listed 12 items which should be considered in any improvements on the property.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS and code violations found by the building and zoning officer and the health officer are not yet available.

According to the resolution passed Tuesday night, Building and Zoning Officer Svetre Haug said the cost of bringing the residence into conformity with minimum health and safety standards would exceed 50 per cent of the market value of the house.

The building and zoning officer also recommended condemnation of the house on the property at 4202 Linden Lane.

City Attorney Donald Rose will file the resolution and recommendations by the three officials with the circuit court this week. Rutherford will have 30 days to reply to the allegations before a court date is set.

"Perhaps this is the first step in eliminating this problem which has been in the area for a number of years," Ald. Daniel Weber said. Weber is an alderman in Ward 4 where the Rutherford home is located.

St. Colettes Boys Win Church League

The Countryside YMCA-sponsored Church Softball League Championship was captured recently by 17 teenage boys comprising the St. Colette's softball team.

The new champions competed against six other churches representing Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Throughout the season St. Colette's lost only one game.

Fall Parks Programs To Begin Oct. 5

Fall and winter programming for the Rolling Meadows Park District has been scheduled to begin Oct. 5 in the new Sports Complex now nearing completion as well as at the five separate neighborhood playgrounds.

Units one and two of the Sports Complex will be ready for functioning by the Oct. 5 opening date, although Unit three, the largest area comprising the planned ice rink, will not be available for programming until December.

Although much new programming is planned for this year with the use of the complex, the park district will retain its present system of neighborhood competition and play at the individual playgrounds.

An increased staff of almost 20 leaders will handle the sessions for both programs. Many college students and professional recreation leaders are being sought to work in the new program, Steve Person, recreation director of the park district, said.

Several session leaders, such as instructors for the drama and baton programs, have not yet been found for fall and winter. However, Person said he is hopeful all positions can be filled when recruitment on the campuses of area colleges can be done once the schools reopen.

EACH OF THE two sessions will last eight weeks. The first session will run from Oct. 5 to Nov. 30 and the second from Jan. 11 to March 8.

Registration will begin Sept. 21 at the park district office, 1 Park Meadow Place, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week.

Library Hopes For Fund Settlement

Financial needs of the Rolling Meadows Library and how much money it needs to meet the standards recommended by the American Library Association (ALA) were discussed last night at a meeting of the City Council Finance Committee.

Since spring, when the library board first made a formal request for surplus funds from the city for the purchase of more books and the expansion of the library program, there has been much discussion done by both sides with no definite settlement reached.

The library board originally requested $107,000 from the city, the figure viewed by the board as being necessary to build up the library in order to meet the Library Association standards. Most of the money would be used for the purchase of new books. The rest is planned to be used for shelving costs, construction and the carrying out of some of the long range plans for library expansion.

HOWEVER, IN informal discussion the city has offered the library $30,000 for the purchase of books only. Many of the city council members feel costs for expansion of the library and for construction should come from the library's annual budget and not from the city.

The final amount to be presented to the library is still being debated and should be announced soon.

The $107,000 figure suggested by the library board was based on the cost for meeting the recommended ALA standards. For a library servicing a town of less than 200,000 population, the ALA suggests it offer two and one-half books per cardholder.

The Rolling Meadows Library currently is able to offer less than one and one-half books per cardholder.

The ALA also recommends that $6.12 per cardholder be spent in providing library services. The library is now supplying $3.70 and six-tenths per cardholder.

Miss Virginia Connell, Rolling Meadows librarian, drew up a comparative study of area libraries, their operational budgets and book volumes for the city to consider.

THE ROLLING MEADOWS Library currently holds 23,071 volumes, while the Arlington Heights Library has 120,000, Elk Grove 33,500, Mount Prospect 58,000, Palatine 43,500 and Schaumburg 38,215.

Although Miss Connell said the Arlington and Palatine libraries have been in existence much longer than the Rolling Meadows Library and have had time to build up a much healthier book supply, she feels her current supply is much too small in comparison with those of similar communities.

If money is received from the city, Miss Connell said the first priority for the use of it would be for the purchase of books. The next priority would be for more shelving space and for the cost of paying for the shelving to be done.

"We wouldn't have to restrict our non-fiction collection as much as it is now," Miss Connell said, explaining that the library has spent most of its money in the past for building up its educational and technical books and resource material for school-age cardholders.

BECAUSE OF THE limited non-fiction collection at the library, high school students are only allowed to take out two non-fiction books on the same topic at one time, and elementary school children only one.

Miss Connell said there is also the possibility to begin a reserve system for adult current bestsellers once money is received, although this has yet to be considered by the library board.

Reserve systems are "not the most practical way" of circulating books, Miss Connell said, but it is followed by most other libraries. With this system, names would be placed on waiting lists for particular popular books and would be called when each book is returned to the library.

Such a system would also require the installation of a new telephone line in order to make the increased number of calls, Miss Connell said.

Don't Sigh, Read

When you receive your paycheck each week do you give a big sigh, wondering just how far it will stretch? Then you may want to run over to the Rolling Meadows Library and pick up a copy of "Getting The Most For Your Money."

Don't shrug your shoulders and say "I've read what this crackpot says before." There's a surprise in store for you this time. This book can really save you money. It tells you how to buy, where to buy, yes, and even when to buy insurance, food, clothing, transportation, health care, home furnishings and appliances.

The author, Anthony Scaduto, is a feature writer for the New York Post. Scaduto has written major investigative series on food prices, credit problems and such. His motto is "Buy Smart — Get the most for your shopping dollar."

Thirty-two mind-expanding master works that make any trip other than to the library completely unnecessary are in store for the reader in S. J. Perelman's latest book, "Baby It's Cold Inside." It has been stated that Perelman is the funniest man writing today and, in all likelihood, tomorrow as well.

In "Baby It's Cold Inside" you will meet Shamless McGonigle (the Irish poet), Lascivio, the Filippino houseboy, and Charlotte Russo, a shapely young woman. Only Perelman can make us see ourselves, our blunders, our sadness and outrages and laugh at ourselves as we turn page after page in this book.

Of interest to the student of English literature is the biography of a young girl of whom it was said was "plain and clever." Born the same year as Queen Victoria, Mary Ann Evans was the despair of her mother. Her fine eyes, richness of hair, neatness of figure made her conquests of love, while her intellect gave her entry to the exciting literary world of London.

Mary Ann chatted with Thomas Carlyle on equal terms. She met Charles Dickens and Ralph Waldo Emerson, the finest American writer of his time. Even royalty designed to visit her.

Whether you are a student, a biography fan or one of few readers bored with the modern best seller, you'll enjoy reading "The Consuming Flame" by F. W. Kenyon, and in case you haven't guessed, Mary Ann was George Eliot and she did get married to a man 20 years her junior.

"Say, didn't you used to be George Murphy?" Yes, replies one of our U.S. senators. A graduate of Yale University, where he played football, his career is very colorful. It included coal mining in Pennsylvania, tool making in Detroit and public relations director of MGM.

TO MOST OF US, Murphy is probably best remembered as a "show biz booger," singing and dancing his way into our hearts along with Judy Garland. In his first attempt at public office in 1964, Murphy emerged as one of the most popular figures in California, polling 3.6 million votes in his defeat over Pierre Salinger. Murphy was assisted by Victor Lasky in writing this delightful account of an American dream come true.

Seek Help In Dundee Road Hassle

Buffalo Grove's refusal to sign an agreement with the Illinois Division of Highways has delayed the widening of Dundee Road until next year, according to George March, Dist. 10 engineer for the division.

Buffalo Grove officials have refused to sign the agreement because they contend the present plans for widening would result in increased flooding problems in the south part of the village near Dundee Road.

March said yesterday he did not expect major work on the widening of Dundee from Route 83 in Wheeling west to Route 53 near Palatine to begin until next year.

Bids for the construction work on the road were to have been awarded on Sept. 4. Work on the project would have begun this fall.

NOW, HOWEVER, contracts will not be awarded on the construction until sometime in October or November and major work will not begin until spring, March said.

Other delays including a strike by construction trade workers were responsible for the delays which moved the bidding back from its original date in June.

Buffalo Grove officials have agreed to pay half of the cost of installing stoplights at Buffalo Grove Road and Dundee Road.

Village officials have not signed any part of the agreement as yet however, because of drainage problems they fear will be caused by the road widening in the area of the White Pines drainage ditch running north from near Dundee Road to Buffalo Creek.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the village's engineering firm, Raleigh Brandon, told Buffalo Grove officials the roadways storm sewer will be inadequate to handle drainage in the area.

According to Brandon, however, the highway division disclaims all responsibility for drainage problems outside of the road right-of-way.

March said yesterday that the project was still "being reviewed" by the state. He would not comment on what the state would do if the village continues to refuse to sign the agreement.

"We would like them to sign. We'd prefer to have an agreement, and we will keep trying to reach one up until the last moment when the bids are let," March said.

He said another meeting between Buffalo Grove officials and highway division personnel might be necessary.

Buffalo Grove Village Atty. Richard Raysa has told village trustees that he expects the state to widen the road whether or not the village signs the agreement. "But they (the state) would be skating on thin ice. They could be held liable for any flooding," Raysa said. March explained that the village consulting engineer had originally given informal approval to the state's plans for the road widening, but that a change in consulting engineers had resulted in the village refusing to sign the agreement as originally agreed.

Area Woman Gets Nursing Grant

The St. Alexius Hospital Auxiliary financial assistant grant to a second-year DuPage or Harper College nursing student has been awarded to Mrs. Robert Frisen, 2103 Hawk Lane, Rolling Meadows, a nurse technician presently employed in the emergency room at St. Alexius.

The auxiliary grant funds will apply to Mrs. Frisen's tuition, books and uniform costs at Harper and were awarded on the basis of financial need and scholastic performance.

Mrs. Marie Cogburn, nursing supervisor of the emergency room said, "Linda has a keen interest in patient care, and the ability to adapt to the needs of the hospital in various roles. She has demonstrated great perseverance in her studies and, at the same time, has continued her excellent work at St. Alexius. It hasn't always been easy. Linda is the working mother of four young children and a housewife as well as student. We're very proud of her."

Mrs. Frisen has been on the staff of St. Alexius since the hospital opened in 1966. She was originally employed as a nursing assistant in the emergency room. In 1968, she began her nursing education at Harper College and in February, 1970, was promoted to nurse technician, signifying that she had completed half her training.

Greenhouse Sold To Highway Dept.

Mrs. Melanie Goerger, 84, of Elk Grove Township, has finally retired from the greenhouse business after more than 56 years.

Her daughter, Mrs. Alice Hacker, of 806 E. Hawthorn, Arlington Heights, Tuesday turned the keys to the old family greenhouse over to the State of Illinois, who bought the 2½-acre site at 581 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, for widening of the highway there. The business sold for $126,700.

The keys were turned over to Scott Andrews, an agent of the state right-of-way department.

Sold were the land, the 4,500-acre-foot greenhouse and a four-bedroom frame home, where Mrs. Goerger lived and worked since 1914, when her husband, the late Martin Goerger, bought the business.

It is located next to the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Mrs. Hacker said her father died in 1950, but her mother carried on the business, with the help of her children, right up to the end.

"WE HAVE A LOT of memories here. I guess my feelings are mixed about the sale," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said she and her sister, Florence Vacilek, 401 W. Algonquin Road, Des Plaines, ran the business with their husbands.

"We sold wholesale. Friday was our last day of work. We started with roses, then went to lilies and the last 15 years sold chrysanthemums," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said her mother had another greenhouse on Algonquin Road in Mount Prospect, but will lose that in three years through a condemnation suit filed by the Mount Prospect Park District and in 1973 it will be turned over as parkland. It is now run by one of Mrs. Goerger's sons.

Mrs. Goerger, who lived in the house across from the greenhouse, has moved to 52 Lonsdale Road, Elk Grove Village, and is reported happy in her new home.

The state is expected to destroy the buildings immediately in preparation for the road widening project.

Dist. 59 Teachers Plead With Board

Several teachers had tears in their eyes as they pleaded with Dist. 59 board members Tuesday night to reduce class sizes.

The board announced that little relief would come until sixth-day enrollment figures were received. Next Tuesday is the sixth day.

Almost 100 teachers came to the meeting to present information to the board about their class sizes in hopes of convincing the board to hire additional teachers.

Although the teachers returned to the classrooms on the first day of school Tuesday and said they would continue to teach, they said they would not approve a teaching contract unless it included a lower class size.

The board has offered a salary acceptable to the teachers but the contract has included no provisions for class size.

"WE HAVE NO intentions of exceeding last year's class size," Richard Hess, board president, said.

When the teachers said their classes were larger than last year, Hess said the board would have to wait until the sixth-day enrollment figures were received before making more changes.

Enrollment figures are compiled on the sixth day because of state regulation. This day was chosen because the enrollment is more stable by then, Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent in charge of finance, said.

The teachers proceeded to present their class attendance figures, however, to prove their point, saying things would probably be worse by the sixth day.

One female junior high school teacher listed class sizes as 44, 45, 30, 35, and 31 students.

"I THINK IT'S time we stop talking about money and start talking about human beings. We talk and talk and do nothing and tomorrow I'll have to go back to 44 students. It's our fault. They can't do anything about it," she said, now in tears.

One art teacher exclaimed, "I have an average of 40 students in my class. I had to put in two extra tables to seat the students. There are no windows and no ventilation. God forbid if there's a fire because they won't be able to get out."

A special education teacher at Damp-

ter Junior High School told how she worked for a year to place one boy back in a normal math class, only to find the smallest class had 28 students, which she said meant the boy would have trouble.

She said her students were not counted in the class ratio, yet she had 15 others which she was hoping to eventually return to normal classes.

Other teachers reported sizes of 33, and 36 in remedial reading classes.

"YOU THINK THOSE remedial classes are heavy now — keep this up and you'll have all remedial classes because we don't have the time to reach all these kids," another teacher said.

The questions and statements by the teachers came after a report of opening day presented by Supt. James Erviti.

Erviti said there were no figures available yet for class sizes in the junior high schools — whose teachers registered most of the complaints. However, several teachers disputed his elementary school figures, which set 38 students in a class as the high.

Set Hearing, Vision Tests

Vision and hearing testing for pre-schoolers will be offered Sept. 14 through 18 at the Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlfing Road, Palatine.

Sponsored by the Suburban Low Incidence Development of Exemplary Services and the Palatine PTA groups of Elementary School Dist. 15, the program will be open to area children three to five years old from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m.

The purpose of the screening program will be to locate the pre-school age children with possible visual or hearing problems and to identify those children

One teacher listed classes at Robert Frost School as 28, 34, 35, 35, and 36. "Yes we have one with 28," she said. "But this is a split class with second and third graders!"

THE TEACHERS were told that several large classes in the junior high schools would receive additional teachers immediately, however, Al Waltman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, said there are only slightly over 10 teachers to be hired for the quota.

Erviti commented, "We still have not heard one teacher say what a desirable size is, or how the community will face paying for additional teachers."

"The teachers problem is not a problem created by the board of education but by the community," he said.

Erviti was referring to a defeated tax increase proposed by the administration and board last November.

No further negotiation meetings have been scheduled as yet, Waltman, chairman of the district negotiation team, said.

needing special educational services because of any limitations they may have.

Registration for the screening will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. Tuesday at Christ Lutheran Church. All children taking the vision and hearing test must be pre-registered.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health will provide trained and certified technicians to do the screening. A follow-up test will be provided to those children who show a hearing or vision difficulty from the first test.

The screening program will be offered free to area residents.

RR Officials Agree To Plan

Soo Line R.R. officials have agreed to design plans for a larger culvert to alleviate flooding at the point where McDonald Creek crosses the railroad tracks in Prospect Heights, south of Foundry Road.

However, construction will not begin until funds for the project are secured.

At a meeting yesterday morning, Soo Line and Illinois Division of Waterways (IDW) officials met with Jack Gilligan, chairman of the McDonald Creek Improvement Committee, to discuss flood conditions in Prospect Heights.

According to Gilligan the Soo Line culvert is too small to accommodate the creek water during heavy rains. In a letter to the railroad, John Gillou, IDW chief engineer, also described the 25-foot-wide culvert as "inadequate."

All parties at the meeting agreed there was a need to improve the culvert, but no one was willing to assume the total cost, estimated between $40,000 and $60,000.

According to Bernard Prushak, a Soo Line official, the railroad wants to be reimbursed at least partially by the state, if not completely, for installing the culvert.

HOWEVER, GILLOU said, "The IDW is in no position to commit the state to share the cost of the project. Funds for improvement of the creek would have to be appropriated by the state General Assembly at its next session in January."

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, plans to introduce such a bill at that time, in cooperation with other legislators from the Third District. The specific cost of creek improvement will be determined once an engineer survey of the entire creek is completed by the state.

According to Rudy Behnke, a Soo Line official who attended the Wednesday meeting, the exact completion date of the survey has not been determined. It is expected to be completed before the end of this year, however.

Concerning the new bridge proposed for the railroad crossing, Gilligan said, "I don't think the Soo Line nor the state should be 100 per cent responsible. There has to be a compromise. Both parties might bargain together to share the cost."

"ONCE WE GET over the cost hurdle, we should be able to begin construction in a few months," said Prushak. As an initial step, he proposed designing plans for the bridge and estimating the cost.

The Soo Line officials are concerned about aggravating flood conditions downstream once they enlarge the culvert. In addition, they don't want their construction to conflict with any plans the IDW may make for the railroad crossing in its engineer survey.

Currently McDonald Creek turns east, south of Foundry Road, in a right angle to cross under the railroad tracks. It then bends south in another right angle. According to Gilligan these sharp turns further aggravate the flood conditions.

In addition to widening the culvert, the Soo Line officials said they also plan to straighten out the creek at the railroad crossing.

Behnke agreed to investigate whether realignment of the creek conflicts with IDW plans. He also plans to find out whether the three culverts downstream from the railroad crossing can accommodate whatever increase in water flow would be created by widening of the Soo Line culvert.

RATHER THAN WAIT until after the IDW survey is completed, Gilligan wants to begin improvements of the creek now, before conditions worsen. He pointed out at the meeting that the Prospect Heights area has been hit by three floods already this year.

Rob Roy Hearing Set For Tonight

Another public hearing will be held tonight on the proposed annexation and development of the Rob Roy Driving Range located in unincorporated Prospect Heights.

A third public hearing before the Village of Mount Prospect will be held at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy. The Rob Roy case will be heard this time by the judiciary committee, a subcommittee of the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Members of the judiciary committee are Trustees Daniel Ahern, chairman; Robert Soderman and George Reiter.

The Rob Roy case was referred to the judiciary committee by Trustees Reiter and Soderman Tuesday, postponing the scheduled public hearing before the village board on the annexation and rezoning petition for the Rob Roy property, north of Euclid Avenue and west of Wolf Road.

THE JUDICIARY committee will review a request from Kenroy Builders, Inc. to build a $25 million planned unit development which will include 624 apartment units, 130 townhouses and a racquet club with indoor tennis courts.

Kenroy has submitted a petition for annexation and rezoning of the 37-acre parcel of property for apartment buildings. Kenroy is asking the village to annex the 37-acre tract as well as a 2,600-ft. long and 200-ft. wide strip of land, north of Euclid Avenue between Wheeling Road and the driving range.

The strip of land is owned by Patrick McDonald, who also owns the Rob Roy Golf Course. The driving range is owned by Kenroy Inc., who purchased the site about four years ago. McDonald has agreed to annex the strip to the village, so that Kenroy's property's will be contiguous to Mount Prospect and thus open to annexation by the village.

KENROY IS ALSO seeking rezoning of the unincorporated land. About half of the site, which fronts on Euclid Avenue, is presently zoned B-5 (business use) in the county. The remaining portion of the property is zoned for single-family residences.

A covenant, restricting any development of the driving range until 1977, was removed by a decision of the Cook County Circuit Court June 12.

Paul Marcy, secretary of the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals, said yesterday, "If Kenroy were to build apartments on the site (in the county), he would have to apply for a special use permit under the B-5 zoning class." Although a public hearing would have to be held on the case, no rezoning would be necessary in the county, Marcy explained.

Ahern said yesterday he hopes the judiciary committee will render its decision on the case following the public hearing tonight, so that the Kenroy project can be referred back to the village board in time for the regularly scheduled meeting Sept. 22.

"HOPEFULLY, enough questions will be answered tonight so that we can proceed with a decision on the development without too much delay. I expect we'll have the same kind of hearing before the judiciary committee that we would have had Tuesday before the village board," Ahern said.

"However it was the prerogative of Reiter and Soderman to refer the case for further discussion and review. We had hoped to avoid any unnecessary delays in procedure by bringing the case directly from the plan commission to the village board and by-passing a review by the judiciary committee."

"In the past, the case would have gone from the plan commission to the judiciary committee and then to the village board, but we had hoped to change the procedure in order to avoid delay. But two trustees voted to send it to committee," Ahern explained.

The plan commission, by a vote of 5 to 3 last month, has recommended the board turn down the Kenroy proposal. The plan commission held public hearings on the case in May and June.

Vandals Cause School Damage

Vandals caused approximately $6,000 worth of property damage at Prospect Heights Dist. 23 schools during national holidays this summer.

Last Monday evening, equipment valued at approximately $4,000 was stolen from the Eisenhower School at Schoenbeck and Camp McDonald roads. And earlier, on July 4, vandals left a trail of damage at Muir School, on Oak Avenue.

In order to prevent further vandalism, school board members agreed Tuesday to develop a district-wide security program to be considered at a meeting Sept. 14.

At Eisenhower School, vandals entered through a window and carried typewriters, projectors, tape recorders, vacuum cleaners and tools from the building.

THEY ONLY TOOK items that were resalable," said Supt. Ed Grodsky. "And they were very neat about it," added Business Manager Jim Hendren. "They wiped their feet after entering the building so they wouldn't leave tracks."

"The Cook County Sheriff's Police said the theft wasn't the work of a juvenile but of professionals," said Grodsky.

However, at Muir School, the technique used by the intruders was more "amateur," according to district officials. The vandals first attempted to enter the building by using explosives. They returned to the scene later and broke a window to gain entry.

Only a television set and a fire extinguisher were stolen from Muir School. However, the vandals also damaged gutters and outdoor lights.

All of the damage at both schools is covered by insurance except for $408 worth of glass at Muir School. Until the district receives funds from the insurance company, equipment will be borrowed from other district schools to be used at Eisenhower.

During the time of the break-ins, the district schools were not occupied from 11 p.m., at which time the janitors go off duty, until the morning school hours.

During the time of the break-ins, THE COOK COUNTY Sheriff's Police are now patrolling the schools more closely. As an additional security measure, school board members are considering the practicality of outdoor lights, an alarm system and a security watch after 11 p.m.

According to the school board members a professional security guard would cost approximately $6 an hour per man.

"We would be wasting money setting up an alarm system unless it is directly connected to a police station," said Grodsky. "Otherwise the alarm could be sounded so nearby residents wouldn't hear it."

School Board Member Bruce Wallace said the board investigated the cost of alarm systems several years ago. "We decided the cost of an effective system is prohibitive."

If the district invests in more outdoor lighting it will probably not be attached to the building. "Lights will be torn down or smashed as they were at Muir if they are attached to the building," said Hendren.

attorney and a state representative, the proposed development will aggravate flooding and traffic conditions and endanger students attending the nearby Dist. 214 Hersey High School.

Representing the McDonald Creek Improvement committee of Prospect Heights, Jack Gilligan asked that the proposed development not be approved unless some provision is made for flood control. He suggested some form of storm water retention. "If the storm waters from the development are not retained, they will flow downstream to Prospect Heights and aggravate flood conditions."

SCHOOL DIST. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, in a letter to the board, and Hersey Principal Richard Goins, also objected to the development. They pointed out that traffic generated by the store may endanger the safety of students and proposed a stop light on Thomas Avenue near the school and store site. They also said the development might lure the students across the street and present a nuisance for school officials.

According to Dennis Schachner, CBZ president, there is no need in the community for the development. "Within the radius of three miles there are already 10 gas stations, the Randhurst Shopping Center and the Northpoint Shopping Center.

Residents Protest Annexation

Approximately 75 residents from Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights appeared before the Arlington Heights Village Board Tuesday to protest annexation and rezoning of 11 acres at Rand and Thomas roads for a GEMCO department store.

However, the board referred the issue to a special committee after hearing testimony from a number of residents. Residents can make further testimony at the committee hearing by contacting Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson. The village board will make a ruling on the annexation and rezoning request after the committee reports back to the board.

Currently, the 11-acre site is zoned for single-family residences with Cook County. Lucky Stores' request for annexation and subsequent rezoning to B-2 (business use) with a special use permit for an automobile service station was recommended for denial on Aug. 19 by the village plan commission.

THE MEMBERSHIP department store would be oriented to family shopping and would include a supermarket and self-service store, according to a representative of Lucky Stores.

George Crampton, representing the department store company, said at the hearing, "Rand Road is of the character for commercial development in that area." He said the store is planned to provide "one-stop shopping to meet the demands of the public."

Prospect Heights residents, under the auspices of Citizens for Better Zoning (CBZ), objected to the validity of the benefits of the proposed development cited by Crampton.

According to Eugene Schlickman, CBZ

'Inflammatory Adjectives, Commentary'

Some Aren't Happy With Teacher Pact

Dissatisfaction with parts of the Dist. 57 teachers' settlement came from certain Dist. 57 school board members Tuesday. The Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), the teachers' bargaining unit, also drew criticism from some board members.

The remarks came as the board considered the teachers' salary and fringe benefit package that had been negotiated Monday by representatives from the two sides. Despite the criticisms, the board approved the settlement by a 5 to 2 vote. Earlier Tuesday, the teachers approved the package.

In a written statement, Jack Ron-chetto, the board member who headed the district's negotiation team during most of the sessions, said, "The defeat of the district's extensive salary and benefit package . . . last week was accompanied by some inflammatory adjectives and misleading commentary."

Ronchetto then listed some of the fringe benefits included in that rejected package, benefits he considered "liberal and expensive." Among them were district payment of employees' hospital insurance, increased free life insurance, more liberal sick and personal leave policies and higher summer school salaries.

RONCHETTO said the offer rejected last week "had the reluctant support of the entire board and included large raises across the board which we believed were fair." Of the offer agreed to over the weekend, Ronchetto said it was "arrived at with a gun at the board's head."

According to Ronchetto, the board has dropped programs this year "which would have benefited children . . . Despite these efforts at economy we find ourselves in a significant deficit position because of teachers' . . . benefits."

Ronchetto charged the MPEA broke an agreement made eight months ago not to release any information during the negotiations unless both sides agreed to it.

"The leadership of the MPEA violated this agreement last week when it served their ends and were thereby able to give a misleading impression to the general public and set up their power play."

"As further evidence of their tactics last week the MPEA violated state law by what they call 'withholding professional services.' Where I come from they call that 'going on strike.'" Ronchetto was referring to a teacher workshop that was called off after teachers rejected a salary offer last Friday.

Most other board members said they agreed with most of what Ronchetto said. Leo Floros said "I will no longer agree not to keep people informed on the negotiations. I will see to it that the public is informed on these negotiations."

Mrs. Pat Kimball challenged two of the provisions in the settlement, saying they would make the district subject to a taxpayers' suit. One provision stated that teachers would not be docked for being absent from the workshop last Friday. The second provision to which she objected dealt with granting personal leave for teachers.

Mayor Criticizes Decision Delays

"I think it's unfair to the petitioners in this case as well as to local residents and the board of trustees that a decision on the Rob Roy development has been delayed again," Mayor Robert Teichert said yesterday.

Teichert criticized Trustees George Relter and Robert Soderman for postponing a decision on the annexation and development of the Rob Roy Driving Range and "forcing the case into committee."

The judiciary committee, a subcommittee of the village board, will now study the request from Kenroy Inc., to build a $25 million planned unit development on the 37-acre parcel of property.

A third public hearing on the case will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

"THE BOARD WAS given ample notice of the special meeting on the Rob Roy proposal and ample time to study the case. They know, as well as I do, the village board has a record of delaying decisions which would be unconscionable in any business and intolerable in government," Teichert said.

"Repeated committee review has been a constant source of delay in expediting village business and a standard ploy to wear down the citizens on controversial issues, so there's not much fight left in them. I think this is unfair as well as an abusive practice which has led to the inefficiency of local government," Teichert said.

Teichert said it was a common practice for the board to delay decisions on controversial issues by "sending it back to committee for additional discussion or sending it somewhere else other than to the board."

"Despite all the rhetoric about delaying decisions for the benefit of careful consideration, I think there are some people who find it difficult to make a decision," he said.

"I CAN'T SEE WHY the board couldn't render a final decision on the Kenroy proposal Tuesday. This is a straightforward request for annexation and rezoning. The question is how we would like to see the land developed in this area."

"If Mount Prospect doesn't want the Kenroy development, then let's tell them and let the county worry about how the vacant land will be developed," he explained.

"The board must consider the equal rights of all property owners, which are the same equal rights unless he's a contractor. Then all of a sudden he doesn't have any right to develop his property. Discussion on the Kenroy development has become very emotional, but this doesn't mean we run roughshod over the contractor's rights because 500 residents want their property rights upheld," he said.

"A contractor is also entitled to have his property rights upheld, just like other property owner. We have an obligation to consider those rights at his request, and he in turn is entitled to a speedy trial and a decision from us. He's asking us to consider his request and not demanding we comply with it."

Push End To Kenroy Case

"It's to everyone's advantage to have a complete hearing on the (Kenroy annexation) case, and I don't think there would have been one Tuesday," said Patrick Link yesterday. Link is representing the Woodview Homeowners Association, one of several local homeowners groups opposing the Kenroy proposal.

"If the village trustees are already committed in their own minds to approve this proposal, then there's no advantage in the postponement of the case. But, if we can possibly convince them otherwise, not from an emotional standpoint, but from a factual one, then the postponement will be advantageous," said Link.

Concerning the proposal itself, he said, "I think the annexation would be illegal under the statutes. The property is covered by a covenant which must be respected." Link was referring to a covenant which was apparently removed in a June court ruling.

Concerning the Rob Roy Driving Range, Link said, "I don't want to see that land developed at all... I think the best use for that property would be to maintain it as open space." Mrs. Paul Selinger, who along with her husband is chairman of the Camelot Homeowners Association zoning committee, said yesterday, "We're definitely glad that the matter went to the judiciary committee. There is a lot of legal 'gray area' connected with this. It should go to the judiciary committee."

Church Sets Dedication

Cornerstone laying ceremonies for the new sanctuary being constructed by Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights will be held Sept. 20.

The ceremony will begin at 10:45 a.m. and will last about 15 minutes, according to The Rev. Dennis Anderson, pastor of Good Shepherd.

Copies of the Sept. 18 "Wheeling Herald," "Buffalo Grove Herald" and "Prospect Heights Herald" will be placed in the cornerstone, Anderson said. A copy of the Sept. 20 "Chicago Daily News," an issue of a Lutheran Church Magazine, recent issues of the Good Shepherd newsletter, the 1969 annual report of Good Shepherd and a copy of the 1970 Good Shepherd church directory will also be placed in the cornerstone, Anderson said.

Richard Dokmo of Arlington Heights, the vice chairman of the church congregation, will speak at the ceremonies.

The new sanctuary is scheduled for completion in December.

Boy Injured In Bike Accident

Kevin Wright, 10, of Mount Prospect, suffered minor injuries last weekend following a bicycle accident at the Jaycees Second Annual Oktoberfest held in the Mount Prospect Shopping Plaza, Rand and Central roads.

Police said Wright, who was riding his bicycle, was hitching a ride on the kiddie hay rack when the accident happened. Police said the handle bars of Wright's bicycle apparently became lodged under the wagon, which was drawn by two ponies, and the boy and his bicycle fell underneath the hay rack.

Don Day Seeking Work

Don Day, former head of the Young Adult Education program and the TORCH Mental Health Clinic at Wheeling High School, has been unemployed for the past 2½ months.

Day's contract to direct these programs terminated on July 1, and his contract was not renewed by High School Dist. 214.

Last month, charges filed against Day of contributing to the delinquency of a minor were dropped by the state, although they could be reinstated within 180 days from his arrest on May 22. However, assistant state's attorney Barry Grossman said last month this will not be done.

Day was arrested by Wheeling police in connection with an unofficial home for boys he ran in his former residence in Wheeling.

Day told the Herald yesterday he believes these charges have contributed to his inability to find another job. He said another factor could be the fact that the supply of teachers in the area is plentiful.

"ALL THE JOBS IN education are

"They're friendly and polite, but they can't help."

Day, who is now living in Mount Prospect, said he has registered with several Chicago employment agencies in an effort to secure another job.

He said he would like to obtain a position in the administrative end of education. "Although I don't want to go back solely to teaching, I may, and spend some time writing too," he said.

Day said he has no plans now to sue Wheeling for false arrest, although he has not signed a waiver of civil liability which would prevent him from suing the village.

"I won't know for a few months, whether or not I'll sue. I don't know how much it (the arrest) will hurt me economically," Day said.

Day's attorney, James Hickman, said that his client "is not enthusiastic about filing a suit, as it goes against his personal beliefs and what he has taught his students."

Carol Knechtel At Easter Seal Camp

Carol Knechtel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Knechtel, of 218 S. We-GO Ave., Mount Prospect, is one of several Illinois State University students completing a second week as counselors at the annual Easter Seal camp for crippled children at Camp Heffernan, Lake Bloomington.

Directed by Harry Jackson, Illinois State assistant professor of biology, the camp is serving 85 children with the assistance of the McLean County chapter of the Illinois Association of the Crippled.

Greenhouse Business Closes

Mrs. Melanie Goerger, 84, of Elk Grove Township, has finally retired from the greenhouse business after more than 56 years.

Her daughter, Mrs. Alice Hacker, of 308 E. Hawthorn, Arlington Heights, Tuesday turned the keys to the old family greenhouse over to the State of Illinois, who bought the 2½-acre site at 501 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, for widening of the highway there. The business sold for $128,700.

The keys were turned over to Scott Andrews, an agent of the state right-of-way department.

Sold were the land, the 4,500-acre-foot greenhouse and a four-bedroom frame home, where Mrs. Goerger lived and worked since 1914, when her husband, the late Martin Goerger, bought the business.

It is located next to the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Mrs. Hacker said her father died in 1950, but her mother carried on the business, with the help of her children, right up to the end.

"WE HAVE A LOT of memories here. I guess our feelings are mixed about the sale," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said she and her sister, Florence Vacilek, 401 W. Algonquin Road, Des Plaines, ran the business with their husbands.

"We sold wholesale. Friday was our last day of work. We started with roses, then went to lilies and the last 15 years sold chrysanthemums," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said her mother had another greenhouse on Algonquin Road in Mount Prospect, but will lose that in three years through a condemnation suit filed by the Mount Prospect Park District and in 1973 it will be turned over as parkland. It is now run by one of Mrs. Goerger's sons.

Mrs. Goerger, who lived in the house across from the greenhouse, has moved to 52 Lonsdale Road, Elk Grove Village, and is reported happy in her new home.

The state is expected to destroy the buildings immediately in preparation for the road widening project.

Carnival Set For Friday

Twenty high-flying rides, 30 game booths, hot dogs and cold drinks will all be a part of the Des Plaines Jaycee carnival to be held Friday through Sunday, Sept. 20.

The carnival, which will be held at Oakton and Lee Streets on weekdays, from 6:30 to 11 p.m., and on weekends 1:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m., is a fund-raising event for the Jaycees. The last carnival, in June, earned more than $2,000 for Jaycee community activities.

Rides will include a ferris wheel, a merry-go-round, and more modern, and faster rides — "the paratrooper," a whirling twirling machine ride, and seventeen others. There will be game booths — ring toss, baseball throws, and skill games.

Food will include hot dogs, hamburgers, and softdrinks and coffee. A committee of Jaycee wives may provide some food, according to Richard Bush, one of the committee members who planned the event.

Other members of the committee are Dan Brennan, chairman, and Tom Brennan.

This carnival coincides with the Jaycee Oktoberfest to be held this weekend at the Red Gavel, 575 Lee St.

Bush said the carnival will be one of the biggest in the area, and that the twice yearly carnival provides about 90 per cent of the funds for Jaycee projects.

About 50 Jaycees will be involved in ticket-taking, setting up, and cleaning-up, Bush said.

Attendance should be high, he said. At the last carnival, more than 5,000 people attended in a single weekend day, he said.

Youth Committee To Meet Today

Local teenagers in Elk Grove Township have been invited to meet with the township youth committee today to discuss future programs. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the township hall at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Road.

Rob Roy Annexation Hearing Is Tonight

Another public hearing will be held tonight on the proposed annexation and development of the Rob Roy Driving Range located in unincorporated Prospect Heights.

A third public hearing before the Village of Mount Prospect will be held at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy. The Rob Roy case will be heard this time by the judiciary committee, a subcommittee of the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Members of the judiciary committee are Trustees Daniel Ahern, chairman; Robert Soderman and George Reiter.

The Rob Roy case was referred to the judiciary committee by Trustees Reiter and Soderman Tuesday, postponing the scheduled public hearing before the village board on the annexation and rezoning petition for the Rob Roy property, north of Euclid Avenue and west of Wolf Road.

THE JUDICIARY committee will review a request from Kenroy Builders, Inc. to build a $25 million planned unit development which will include 624

apartment units, 130 townhouses and a racquet club with indoor tennis courts.

Kenroy has submitted a petition for annexation and rezoning of the 37-acre parcel of property for apartment buildings. Kenroy is asking the village to annex the 37-acre tract as well as a 2,600-ft. long and 200-ft. wide strip of land, north of Euclid Avenue between Wheeling Road and the driving range.

The strip of land is owned by Patrick McDonald, who also owns the Rob Roy Golf Course. The driving range is owned by Kenroy Inc., who purchased the site about four years ago. McDonald has agreed to annex the strip to the village, so that Kenroy's property will be contiguous to Mount Prospect and thus open to annexation by the village.

KENROY IS ALSO seeking rezoning of the unincorporated land. About half of the site, which fronts on Euclid Avenue, is presently zoned B-5 (business use) in the county. The remaining portion of the property is zoned for single-family residences.

A covenant, restricting any development of the driving range until 1977, was removed by a decision of the Cook County Circuit Court June 12.

Paul Marcy, secretary of the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals, said yesterday, "If Kenroy were to build apartments on the site (in the county), he would have to apply for a special use permit under the B-5 zoning class." Although a public hearing would have to be held on the case, no rezoning would be necessary in the county, Marcy explained.

Ahern said yesterday he hopes the judiciary committee will render its decision on the case following the public hearing tonight, so that the Kenroy project can be referred back to the village board in time for the regularly scheduled meeting Sept. 22.

"HOPEFULLY, enough questions will be answered tonight so that we can proceed with a decision on the development without too much delay. I expect we'll have the same kind of hearing before the judiciary committee that we would have had Tuesday before the village board," Ahern said.

"However it was the prerogative of Reiter and Soderman to refer the case for further discussion and review. We had hoped to avoid any unnecessary delays in procedure by bringing the case directly from the plan commission to the village board and by-passing a review by the judiciary committee.

"In the past, the case would have gone from the plan commission to the judiciary committee and then to the village board, but we had hoped to change the procedure in order to avoid delay. But two trustees voted to send it to committee," Ahern explained.

The plan commission, by a vote of 5 to 3 last month, has recommended the board turn down the Kenroy proposal. The plan commission held public hearings on the case in May and June.

Dist. 57 Pact Disputed

Dissatisfaction with parts of the Dist. 57 teachers' settlement came from certain Dist. 57 school board members Tuesday. The Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), the teachers' bargaining unit, also drew criticism from some board members.

The remarks came as the board considered the teachers' salary and fringe benefit package that had been negotiated Monday by representatives from the two sides. Despite the criticisms, the board approved the settlement by a 5 to 2 vote. Earlier Tuesday, the teachers approved the package.

In a written statement, Jack Ronchetto, the board member who headed the district's negotiation team during most of the sessions, said, "The defeat of the district's extensive salary and benefit package . . . last week was accompanied by some inflammatory adjectives and misleading commentary."

Ronchetto then listed some of the fringe benefits included in that rejected package, benefits he considered "liberal and expensive." Among them were district payment of employees' hospital insurance, increased free life insurance, more liberal sick and personal leave policies and higher summer school salaries.

RONCHETTO said the offer rejected last week "had the reluctant support of the entire board and included large raises across the board which we believed were fair." Of the offer agreed to over the weekend, Ronchetto said it was "arrived at with a gun at the board's head."

According to Ronchetto, the board has dropped programs this year "which would have benefited children . . . Despite these efforts at economy we find ourselves in a significant deficit position because of teachers' . . . benefits."

Ronchetto charged the MPEA broke an agreement made eight months ago not to release any information during the negotiations unless both sides agreed to it. "The leadership of the MPEA violated this agreement last week when it served their ends and were thereby able to give a misleading impression to the general public and set up their power play."

"As further evidence of their tactics last week the MPEA violated state law by what they call 'withholding professional services.' Where I come from they call that 'going on strike.'" Ronchetto was referring to a teacher workshop that was called off after teachers rejected a salary offer last Friday.

Most other board members said they agreed with most of what Ronchetto said. Leo Floros said "I will no longer agree not to keep people informed on the negotiations. I will see to it that the public is informed on these negotiations."

Mrs. Pat Kimball challenged two of the provisions in the settlement, saying they would make the district subject to a taxpayers' suit. One provision stated that teachers would not be docked for being absent from the workshop last Friday. The second provision to which she objected dealt with granting personal leave for teachers.

Dist. 59 Teachers Plead With Board

Several teachers had tears in their eyes as they pleaded with Dist. 59 board members Tuesday night to reduce class sizes.

The board announced that little relief would come until sixth-day enrollment figures were received. Next Tuesday is the sixth day.

Almost 100 teachers came to the meeting to present information to the board about their class sizes in hopes of convincing the board to hire additional teachers.

Although the teachers returned to the classrooms on the first day of school Tuesday and said they would continue to teach, they said they would not approve a teaching contract unless it included a lower class size.

The board has offered a salary acceptable to the teachers but the contract has included no provisions for class size.

"WE HAVE NO intentions of exceeding last year's class size," Richard Hess, board president, said.

When the teachers said their classes were larger than last year, Hess said the board would have to wait until the sixth-day enrollment figures were received before making more changes.

Enrollment figures are compiled on the sixth day because of state regulation. This day was chosen because the enrollment is more stable by then, Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent in charge of finance, said.

The teachers proceeded to present their class attendance figures, however, to prove their point, saying things would probably be worse by the sixth day.

One female junior high school teacher listed class sizes as 44, 43, 39, 35, and 31 students.

"I THINK IT'S time we stop talking about money and start talking about human beings. We talk and talk and do nothing and tomorrow I'll have to go back to 44 students. It's our fault. They can't do anything about it," she said, now in tears.

One art teacher exclaimed, "I have an average of 40 students in my class. I had to put in two extra tables to seat the students. There are no windows and no ventilation. God forbid if there's a fire because they won't be able to get out."

A special education teacher at Dempster Junior High School told how she worked for a year to place one boy back in a normal math class, only to find the smallest class had 28 students, which she said meant the boy would have trouble. She said her students were not counted in the class ratio, yet she had 15 others which she was hoping to eventually return to normal classes.

Other teachers reported sizes of 33, and 36 in remedial reading classes.

"YOU THINK THOSE remedial classes are heavy now — keep this up

Here's Board's Proposal

School Dist. 59 released details yesterday of its latest offer to teachers.

Details were developed by negotiating teams in a session last Thursday. They were rejected by the Teachers' Council negotiating team.

Here are the details: "The board of education has agreed to allocate $79,600 for extra-duty pay."

"This is money paid in addition to teachers' regular salary for additional duties like coaching sports, directing plays, or being a department head."

"The board agrees to add as net additions to the district staff, enough teachers for the 1970-71 school year to preserve district-wide class size averages prevailing during the previous school year."

"Historically and philosophically, the board is committed to make every effort to allocate extra revenue to decrease class size. It pledges to continue to support this program."

"IN AN EFFORT to retain career teachers, the superintendent will select 10 per cent of the full-time equivalent teaching staff as of Oct. 1, or 33 staff members, whichever number is greater, to be career service teachers."

"Sixty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by Dec. 1 to teach in the following year's summer school program."

"These teachers will receive an additional five per cent of their yearly salary as of Dec. 1 of the current year. They will be committed for 20 half-days of teaching in the summer school program."

"Forty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by the superintendent to carry out specific assignments during the year. He will appoint them as the need arises."

"THESE ASSIGNMENTS could include such things as developing special programs; evaluating curriculum, pupil records and recording systems, or resource accounting systems; projecting resource needs; teacher training; or professional internships."

"The board had previously approved an agreement which included a $7,900 starting salary for beginning teachers a salary scale up to a maximum of $15,900 for experienced teachers. It also promised to add half the payment cost of medical insurance for dependents."

"We are ready at any time to continue to meet with the teachers' negotiating team in an attempt to reach agreement," said Albeon Waltman, Dist. 59 assistant superintendent in charge of personnel and head of the district's negotiating team.

The elementary district has nearly 12,000 students in 20 northwest suburban schools — 10 buildings in Elk Grove Village, five in Mount Prospect, four in Des Plaines, and one in Arlington Heights.

and you'll have all remedial classes because we don't have the time to reach all these kids," another teacher said.

The questions and statements by the teachers came after a report of opening day presented by Supt. James Erviti.

Erviti said there were no figures available yet for class sizes in the junior high schools — whose teachers registered most of the complaints. However, several teachers disputed his elementary school figures, which set 38 students in a class as the high.

One teacher listed classes at Robert Frost School as 28, 34, 35, 35, and 36. "Yes we have one with 28," she said. "But this is a split class with second and third graders!"

THE TEACHERS were told that several large classes in the junior high schools would receive additional teachers immediately, however, Al Waltman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, said there are only slightly over 10 teachers to be hired for the quota.

Erviti commented, "We still have not heard one teacher say what a desirable size is, or how the community will face paying for additional teachers."

"The teachers problem is not a problem created by the board of education but by the community," he said.

Erviti was referring to a defeated tax

Man Injured In Dispute With Tree

Robert Handley, of 311 S. Can-Dota, suffered minor injuries Saturday when his auto struck a tree on South Elm Street in Mount Prospect.

Mount Prospect police said Handley was charged with damaging village property and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He is scheduled to appear in Mount Prospect court Oct. 7 on the charges.

Police said Handley, whose auto struck a tree near 802 S. Elm St., suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Firemen To Attend Meet

Three members of the Mount Prospect Fire Department will attend the fifth annual fire safety seminar today at the Teletype Corp. 5555 W. Touhy Ave., Skokie.

Chief Larry Pairitz and Fire Inspectors Stu McKillop and Harold Barra will attend the all-day seminar, sponsored by the State of Illinois, Division of Fire Prevention.

McKillop said the seminar will include sessions on town fire insurance ratings, problems and improvements; high-rise construction and fire protection; automatic sprinkler systems, and high-rise planning and firefighting tactics.

McKillop said the Division of Fire Prevention sponsored a seminar yesterday for management personnel of industrial firms, hospitals, convalescent homes and businesses in conjunction with its annual fire safety program for firemen.

Paul Dasso, assistant general manager of the Randhurst Corp. and president of the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce; and A. B. Magnus, of Magnus Farm Convalescent and Geriatric Center in Arlington Heights, attended the session yesterday.

THE BUSINESSMEN'S seminar included sessions on common radiation hazards and decontamination procedures; sprinkler systems; disaster planning, evacuation and civil disorders; wires and fires; and fire extinguishers and operation.

McKillop said the Division of Fire Prevention sponsored both sessions in cooperation with the Suburban Fire Inspectors Association, the State Fire Marshal's Office, Teletype Corp. and the Skokie Chamber of Commerce.

Curtis Volkamer, chief fire marshal of Chicago; Frank McGurn, president of National Automatic Sprinkler Co.; and representatives from Commonwealth Edison Co. and Fredrickson Fire Extinguishers Co. addressed both sessions of the seminar.

2 Win Honors

Two Mount Prospect residents recently received academic honors for the spring quarter at Eastern Illinois University. Carol J. Heck and Greg S. Metz were among the 755 EIU students to receive honors, which requires a grade point average of 3.4 to 3.74 on a 4.0 system.

Mayor Criticizes Decision Delays

"I think it's unfair to the petitioners in this case as well as to local residents and the board of trustees that a decision on the Rob Roy development has been delayed again," Mayor Robert Teichert said yesterday.

Teichert criticized Trustees George Reiter and Robert Soderman for postponing a decision on the annexation and development of the Rob Roy Driving Range and "forcing the case into committee."

The judiciary committee, a subcommittee of the village board, will now study the request from Kenroy Inc., to build a $25 million planned unit development on the 37-acre parcel of property.

A third public hearing on the case will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

"THE BOARD WAS given ample notice of the special meeting on the Rob Roy proposal and ample time to study the case. They know, as well as I do, the village board has a record of delaying decisions which would be unconscionable in any business and intolerable in government," Teichert said.

"Repeated committee review has been a constant source of delay in expediting village business and a standard ploy to wear down the citizens on controversial issues, so there's not much fight left in

Teichert said it was a common practice for the board to delay decisions on controversial issues by "sending it back to committee for additional discussion or sending it somewhere else other than to the board."

"Despite all the rhetoric about delaying decisions for the benefit of careful consideration, I think there are some people who find it difficult to make a decision," he said.

"I CAN'T SEE WHY the board couldn't render a final decision on the Kenroy proposal Tuesday. This is a straightforward request for annexation and rezoning. The question is how we would like to see the land developed in this area."

"If Mount Prospect doesn't want the Kenroy development, then let's tell them and let the county worry about how the vacant land will be developed," he explained.

"The board must consider the equal rights of all property owners, which are the same equal rights unless he's a contractor. Then all of a sudden he doesn't have any right to develop his property. Discussion on the Kenroy development has become very emotional, but this doesn't mean we run roughshod over the contractor's rights because 500 residents want their property rights upheld," he said.

"A contractor is also entitled to have his property rights upheld, just like any other property owner. We have an obligation to consider those rights at his request, and he in turn is entitled to a speedy trial and a decision from us. He's asking us to consider his request and not demanding we comply with it."

Push End To Kenroy Case

"It's to everyone's advantage to have a complete hearing on the (Kenroy annexation) case, and I don't think there would have been one Tuesday," said Patrick Link yesterday. Link is representing the Woodview Homeowners Association, one of several local homeowners groups opposing the Kenroy proposal.

"If the village trustees are already committed in their own minds to approve this proposal, then there's no advantage in the postponement of the case. But, if we can possibly convince them otherwise, not from an emotional standpoint, but from a factual one, then the postponement will be advantageous," said Link.

Concerning the proposal itself, he said, "I think the annexation would be illegal under the statutes. The property is covered by a covenant which must be respected." Link was referring to a covenant which was apparently removed in a June court ruling.

Concerning the Rob Roy Driving Range, Link said, "I don't want to see that land developed at all. I think the best use for that property would be to maintain it as open space." Mrs. Paul Selinger, who along with her husband is chairman of the Camelot Homeowners Association zoning committee, said yesterday, "We're definitely glad that the matter went to the judiciary committee. There is a lot of legal 'gray area' connected with this. It should go to the judiciary committee."

Church Sets Dedication

Cornerstone laying ceremonies for the new sanctuary being constructed by Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights will be held Sept. 20.

The ceremony will begin at 10:45 a.m. and will last about 15 minutes, according to The Rev. Dennis Anderson, pastor of Good Shepherd.

Copies of the Sept. 18 "Wheeling Herald," "Buffalo Grove Herald" and "Prospect Heights Herald" will be placed in the cornerstone, Anderson said. A copy of the Sept. 20 "Chicago Daily News," an issue of a Lutheran Church Magazine, recent issues of the Good Shepherd newsletter, the 1969 annual report of Good Shepherd and a copy of the 1970 Good Shepherd church directory will also be placed in the cornerstone, Anderson said.

Richard Dokmo of Arlington Heights, the vice chairman of the church congregation, will speak at the ceremonies.

The new sanctuary is scheduled for completion in December.

Boy Injured In Bike Accident

Kevin Wright, 10, of Mount Prospect, suffered minor injuries last weekend following a bicycle accident at the Jaycees Second Annual Oktoberfest held in the Mount Prospect Shopping Plaza, Rand and Central roads.

Police said Wright, who was riding his bicycle, was hitching a ride on the kiddie hay rack when the accident happened. Police said the handle bars of Wright's bicycle apparently became lodged under the wagon, which was drawn by two ponies, and the boy and his bicycle fell underneath the hay rack.

Sledding Hill To Be Built In Park

Youngsters can start waxing the runners of their sleds and hoping for snow — there's going to be a sledding hill in Arlington Heights this winter.

During a meeting Tuesday night, the Arlington Heights Park Board approved a proposal for a sledding hill to be built in Heritage Park in the southwestern portion of the village.

Representatives of Milburn Brothers, site developers for the park district's construction program, presented the proposal to the board. The Mount Prospect-based firm is doing some construction work in the area and has extra dirt available.

The 30-to 50-foot high hill will be built with almost no cost, to the park district. Milburn Brothers will provide the fill necessary to construct the hill and will provide the grading of the hill according to the park district's specifications at no cost.

Park Board members reacted enthusiastically to the proposal which would provide sledding facilities in a town which is almost hill-less.

Some residents in past winters have resorted to sledding and tobogganing on the hills and cloverleafs created during the construction of the tollway and Rte. 53. The practice of using these hills is dangerous and illegal, according to state highway police officials.

MILBURN BROTHERS, representatives were given the okay to begin work immediately. However, the board's motion to approve the construction included the qualification that if residents of the area object to the hill, then the board will reconsider the proposal.

Yesterday, park district employees contacted residents who live directly across the street from the proposed mound.

Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation, said that some of the residents were concerned about how high the hill might be, but were otherwise enthusiastically in favor of it.

The proposed site for the hill is just north of the park's tennis courts at Victoria Lane and Highland Avenue. The location provides a dual-usage of the lighting of the tennis courts. The lights can be turned around to help provide lighting for the sledding hill during the winter.

The hill would be shaped to slope into the interior of the park, providing a run way of about 500 feet. The exact shape and size of the hill will be determined by the amount of fill that Milburn Brothers has available and the type of fill the park district specified.

THE DECISION HAD to be made quickly because Milburn had the fill available immediately. "The sooner we can go in, the better we can build the hill," Robert Salzman of Milburn Brothers told the board.

The hauling of extra dirt into the site was scheduled to begin this week. The hill would be roughly finished in time to provide sledding for this winter.

Angelo Capuli, director of parks, said it would be about a year before the hill could be seeded and plantings made. He suggested that a stairway could be built and the hill could be operated to produce income for the park district by the winter of 1971.

After being assured that the water run off from the hill would be no greater than the run-off from the existing land, board members asked a citizen attending the meeting what he thought about the sledding hill.

Arlington Woman Hurt In Accident

A 35-year-old Arlington Heights woman was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital Sunday night after she was involved in a two-car collision at Ridge Avenue and Oakton Street, Arlington Heights.

The woman, Karin Ahrens, of 1239 N. Mitchell Ave., was injured when the car she was driving was struck in the left side by an auto driven by Harold Moeller, 49, of 1524 N. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights.

Police indicated the Ahrens car was struck while westbound on Oakton Street.

Moeller was charged by police with failure to yield after a stop. He is scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Oct. 12 at 9 a.m.

Siewert is survived by his wife Eleanor; a daughter Diane Guengerich of Des Plaines; and a son, Kent, of Arlington Heights.

AN ARCH OF KNOWLEDGE is the only structure in the classroom area of the new Berkley School in Dist. 25. Movable walls that can divide the school into separate classrooms were damaged in shipment and have not yet arrived. Teachers quickly removed make-shift walls and are holding classes in a wide open area.

Arlington Teacher Dead

An Arlington High School teacher who was in charge of the school's independent study program died yesterday morning after a brief illness.

Norbert Siewert, 55, of 910 N. Stratford Rd., Arlington Heights, died in St. Alexius Hospital after he was taken there in the early morning.

Siewert was teaching three sections of Latin and a class in language and communication at the school this year.

He joined the district in 1957 and was an active teacher in the adult education classes from 1966 until this year.

IN THE ADULT education program Siewert taught courses in communications and report writing.

Siewert had been absent from his classes Monday and Tuesday and had been replaced by a substitute teacher, assistant principal John Rowe said.

Visitation will be today and tomorrow after 7 p.m. at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. James Church.

Library To IRS: No Deal

The Arlington Heights Library Board Tuesday night voted against a motion which would have made an official statement opposing release of circulation information to outside investigators.

However, board members who voted against the motion said the library does not make any information about its borrowers available and would not in the future.

The motion made by Richard Frieble was in response to investigations launched in three cities by the Internal Revenue Service. In those investigations the IRS asked libraries for information on who had been checking out books on explosives and revolutionary activity.

IN DISCUSSION OF the motion several board members said the motion was not necessary because supplying information about readers is not one of the ordinary functions of a library.

Board member Robert Melroy said he wanted any statement of library policy to "include an all inclusive definition of the services of the library."

The only time the problem of releasing information has arisen in Arlington Heights, executive librarian Harold Ard said, has been when people have called the library and asked for unlisted phone numbers.

"I have always told them it is not my policy to release the information," he said.

After Frieble's motion was defeated 4-2, Melroy asked Ard to draw up a description of the library's function that could be used to make policy decisions.

New System To Decentralize Decision-Making

by WANDALYN RICE

Planning Programming and Budgeting Systems (PPBS).

The phrase brings pictures of computers and technicians to mind.

PPB systems were developed at the Rand Corporation and were used by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara.

Now School Dist. 25 has adopted the system and is using it to accomplish different goals.

At the defense department PPBS was used to make decision-making highly centralized, but Dist. 25 is using it to decentralize decisions, said Robert Boos, director of administration and planning.

"We have decided PPBS can be anything we want to make it," he said, "and we are going to use it to involve teachers and principals in decision making."

THE DISTRICT has just completed the first step in PPBS. A new "program budget" has been prepared for the coming year, Boos said.

The program budget is different from the usual budget because it breaks expenditures down by grade level in each elementary school in the district and by subject area in junior high schools.

"Nothing makes it harder to find costs of programs than the regular budget," Boos said. "The program budget makes it possible to tell what a particular program is costing the district."

The program budget was compiled using computer time rented from High School Dist. 214, but Boos quickly added that the computer "only provides the data, warm human beings make the decisions."

The budget makes decisions on cutting expenditures much easier, because programs can be cut by priority instead of across the board, Boos said.

"IT GIVES US a handle for making decisions because we can reduce item by item," he said.

This year Boos and other Dist. 25 administrators had three meetings with principals on budget priorities and cut the budget requests to fit the estimated revenue.

"In our last meeting we cut $103,000 out of the budget on a priority basis. It took some hard discussion, but for the first time the principals were actually involved," he said.

Now that the program budget has been drawn up the district will begin the second part of PPBS, he said.

During this phase principals and staffs at the Arlington Heights schools will be asked to plan programs for next year and to set goals for the next three years, he said.

After the principals set their goals Boos and other staff members will meet with them to discuss priorities on programs and decide how to allocate resources to them.

"IT USED TO be principals sent in their requests and sat back and prayed, but now, hopefully, the decisions on programs will be made with the principal there," Boos explained.

A major advantage of the whole PPBS program is the fact that long range planning is possible.

"Since Sputnik and throughout the sixties there have been so many rapid changes in education that we have found ourselves constantly reacting," Boos said.

"We haven't developed planning techniques that would allow us to take changes and adapt them to our program. We hope PPBS will let us do that."

Dist. 59 Teachers Plead

Several teachers had tears in their eyes as they pleaded with Dist. 59 board members Tuesday night to reduce class sizes.

"YOU THINK THOSE remedial classes are heavy now — keep this up and you'll have all remedial classes because we don't have the time to reach all these kids," another teacher said.

The questions and statements by the teachers came after a report of opening day presented by Supt. James Erviti.

Erviti said there were no figures available yet for class sizes in the junior high schools — whose teachers registered most of the complaints. However, several teachers disputed his elementary school figures, which set 38 students in a class as the high.

One teacher listed classes at Robert Frost School as 28, 34, 35, 35, 35, and 36. "Yes we have one with 28," she said. "But this is a split class with second and third graders!"

THE TEACHERS were told that several large classes in the junior high schools would receive additional teachers immediately, however, Al Waltman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, said there are only slightly over 10 teachers to be hired for the quota.

Erviti commented, "We still have not heard one teacher say what a desirable size is, or how the community will face paying for additional teachers."

"The teachers problem is not a problem created by the board of education but by the community," he said.

Erviti was referring to a defeated tax increase proposed by the administration and board last November.

No further negotiation meetings have been scheduled as yet, Waltman, chairman of the district negotiation team, said.

Here's Board's Proposal

School Dist. 59 released details yesterday of its latest offer to teachers.

Details were developed by negotiating teams in a session last Thursday. They were rejected by the Teachers' Council negotiating team.

Here are the details:
—The board of education has agreed to allocate $79,600 for extra-duty pay.

"This is money paid in addition to teachers' regular salary for additional duties like coaching sports, directing plays, or being a department head."

"The board agrees to add as net additions to the district staff, enough teachers for the 1970-71 school year to preserve district-wide class size averages prevailing during the previous school year."

"Historically and philosophically, the board is committed to make every effort to allocate extra revenue to decrease class size. It pledges to continue to support this program."

"IN AN EFFORT to retain career teachers, the superintendent will select 10 per cent of the full-time equivalent teaching staff as of Oct. 1, or 53 staff members, whichever number is greater, to be career service teachers."

"Sixty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by Dec. 1 to teach in the following year's summer school program."

"These teachers will receive an additional five per cent of their yearly salary as of Dec. 1 of the current year. They will be committed for 20 half-days of teaching in the summer school program."

"Forty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by the superintendent to carry out specific assignments during the year. He will appoint them as the need arises."

"THESE ASSIGNMENTS could include such things as developing special programs; evaluating curriculum, pupil records and recording systems, or resource accounting systems; projecting resource needs; teacher training; or professional internships."

"The board had previously approved an agreement which included a $7,600 starting salary for beginning teachers a salary scale up to a maximum of $15,986 for experienced teachers. It also promised to add half the payment cost of medical insurance for dependents."

"We are ready at any time to continue to meet with the teachers' negotiating team in an attempt to reach agreement," said Albeon Waltman, Dist. 59 assistant superintendent in charge of personnel and head of the district's negotiating team.

The elementary district has nearly 12,000 students in 20 northwest suburban schools — 10 buildings in Elk Grove Village, five in Mount Prospect, four in Des Plaines, and one in Arlington Heights.

Agreement Is Refused, Road Work Postponed

Buffalo Grove's refusal to sign an agreement with the Illinois Division of Highways has delayed the widening of Dundee Road until next year, according to George March, Dist. 10 engineer for the division.

Buffalo Grove officials have refused to sign the agreement because they contend the present plans for widening would result in increased flooding problems in the south part of the village near Dundee Road.

March said yesterday he did not expect major work on the widening of Dundee from Route 83 in Wheeling west to Route 53 near Palatine to begin until next year.

Bids for the construction work on the road were to have been awarded on Sept. 4. Work on the project would have begun this fall.

NOW, HOWEVER, contracts will not be awarded on the construction until sometime in October or November and major work will not begin until spring, March said.

Other delays including a strike by construction trade workers were responsible for the delays which moved the bidding back from its original date in June.

Buffalo Grove officials have agreed to pay half of the cost of installing stoplights at Buffalo Grove Road and Dundee Road.

Village officials have not signed any part of the agreement as yet however, because of drainage problems they fear will be caused by the road widening in the area of the White Pines drainage ditch running north from near Dundee Road to Buffalo Creek.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the village's engineering firm, Raleigh Brandon, told Buffalo Grove officials the roadways storm sewer will be inadequate to handle drainage in the area.

According to Brandon, however, the highway division disclaims all responsibility for drainage problems outside of the road right-of-way.

March said yesterday that the project was still "being reviewed" by the state. He would not comment on what the state would do if the village continues to refuse to sign the agreement.

"We would like them to sign. We'd prefer to have an agreement, and we will keep trying to reach one up until the last moment when the bids are let," March said.

He said another meeting between Buffalo Grove officials and highway division personnel might be necessary.

Buffalo Grove Village Atty. Richard Rayns has told village trustees that he expects the state to widen the road whether or not the village signs the agreement. "But they (the state) would be skating on thin ice. They could be held liable for any flooding," Rayns said.

March explained that the village consulting engineer had originally given informal approval to the state's plans for the road widening, but that a change in consulting engineers had resulted in the village refusing to sign the agreement as originally agreed.

Legion Sets Boys' Banquet

The Annual Boys' State Banquet sponsored by the Merle Guild Post of the American Legion will be held Sept. 25.

The doors to the post's building at 121 N. Douglas Ave., Arlington Heights, will open at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

The Legion Post sponsors the dinner to allow post members and any interested citizens to hear reports from the delegates sent to Boys' State. This year, the post sent the largest number in its history to Boys State, one student from each of the Dist 214 high schools and one from St. Viator.

Boys' State is a week-long program held in June in Springfield and delegates spend a week learning about politics by forming their own local and state governments.

Reservations may be made by calling the post's service Officer, Mike Dorosh, at 258-1674.

IN A FEW days it will be different and the playground at Berkley School will be more inviting. Grading of the playground at the new building has been stalled by rain, but the kids have gotten out anyway, using space from the neighboring Rand Jr. High School for their P.E. classes.

Greenhouse Yields To Highway Dept.

Mrs. Melanie Goerger, 84, of Elk Grove Township, has finally retired from the greenhouse business after more than 56 years.

Her daughter, Mrs. Alice Hacker, of 306 E. Hawthorn, Arlington Heights, Tuesday turned the keys to the old family greenhouse over to the State of Illinois, who bought the 2½-acre site at 801 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, for widening of the highway there. The business sold for $128,700.

The keys were turned over to Scott Andrews, an agent of the state right-of-way department.

Sold were the land, the 4,500-acre-foot greenhouse and a four-bedroom frame home, where Mrs. Goerger lived and worked since 1914, when her husband, the late Martin Goerger, bought the business.

other greenhouse on Algonquin Road in Mount Prospect, but will lose that in three years through a condemnation suit filed by the Mount Prospect Park District and in 1973 it will be turned over as parkland. It is now run by one of Mrs. Goerger's sons.

Mrs. Goerger, who lived in the house across from the greenhouse, has moved to 52 Lonsdale Road, Elk Grove Village, and is reported happy in her new home.

The state is expected to destroy the buildings immediately in preparation for the road widening project.

Dry Cleaning Store Reports Recent Theft

An Arlington Heights dry cleaning store was burglarized over the weekend and the burglar apparently injured himself in the process, according to Arlington Heights police.

Thomas Cappelletti, owner of the Wala Wala Washerette, 822 W. Northwest Highway, told police someone entered the store between 6 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Tuesday. Cappelletti said a 12-gauge shotgun, valued at $280; three large rugs; about $23 in change; and some dry cleaning were stolen.

Police reports indicate the burglar gained entry by breaking a window in the store. They said there were blood stains on the broken glass, indicating the burglar may have injured himself.

It is located next to the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Mrs. Hacker said her father died in 1950, but her mother carried on the business, with the help of her children, right up to the end.

"WE HAVE A LOT of memories here. I guess our feelings are mixed about the sale," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said she and her sister, Florence Vacilek, 401 W. Algonquin Road, Des Plaines, ran the business with their husbands.

"We sold wholesale. Friday was our last day of work. We started with roses, then went to lilies and the last 15 years sold chrysanthemums," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said her mother had an

Library Gets Microfilms

Microfilm readers at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library will still have to turn a crank to turn pages, but they will soon have more machines to use.

The board of directors of the library authorized purchase of two new microfilm readers at a cost of no more than $750 each during the board's meeting Tuesday night.

Automatic machines, which allow readers to turn pages faster, are available, but libraries don't generally use them, board member Charles Edward said.

Currently the library has two microfilm readers and these are getting more and more use as the library acquires more microfilm.

"We have already faced the problem of asking people to leave when they have been working with a machine for some time," Edward said.

Besides the increased use of microfilm readers, executive librarian Harold Ard reported that circulation this August has increased by 20,000 over last August.

"This is more than a healthy increase in circulation," Ard said.

Ford Motors' Signs Vetoed

The Ford Motor Co. had big plans for sign variations Tuesday night, but this time it was the village board of trustees who had a better idea.

Jim Dombroski, Ford representative, appeared before the board requesting variations from the village ordinance on the height of signs at a new dealership facility being constructed on Dundee Road, just east of Rte. 53, in Arlington Heights. Dombroski requested variations to allow a Ford brand sign, measuring a total of 42 feet, and an A-1 Used Car sign, measuring more than 21 feet.

After hearing Dombroski's statements that the high signs would be needed because the site of the dealership is lower than the road, the board voted to deny the requests.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh said that because the new dealership is virtually the first development in that area, he feared the board might set a regrettable precedent if they allowed the variation.

Noting that a precedent for 36-foot signs had been set on auto dealerships, the board voted to allow the Ford brand sign to be constructed not to exceed 36 feet, and that the A-1 Used Car sign be held to the 18½ feet allowed under the ordinance.

Schutz Gets 35-100 Years

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

A 23-year-old man who lived in the unincorporated area of Des Plaines has been sentenced to 35 to 100 years in prison for the 1967 murder of 17-year-old Carol Lyn Littlejohn.

Richard Schutz was sentenced Tuesday by Criminal Court Judge Louis Garippo after a two-week trial. Garippo passed the sentence after turning down a request by assistant state's attorneys for a 75 to 150 year prison term.

According to police, Schutz was arrested by Cook County Sheriff's Police one day short of two years after the Nov. 24, 1967 slaying. He gave sheriff's police oral and written statements admitting the murder.

Miss Littlejohn, of St. Charles, had had Thanksgiving dinner at the home of her cousin, Steven Oberst, and his family in unincorporated Des Plaines. Miss Littlejohn apparently had an argument with her mother and left the apartment at 3702 Gregory Lane about 7:50 p.m. to take a walk, sheriff's police said.

When Miss Littlejohn failed to return to the Oberst home by 10:30 p.m. her family searched the area for her until midnight. When they couldn't find her they called the police who also searched the area but couldn't find the girl.

Her body was found the next morning by children playing in a wooded area behind the Gregory Lane apartment complex.

According to Det. Gene Gargano, Schutz was linked to the murder after his estranged wife told police she had received threatening phone calls from him.

"We picked Schutz up last November," Gargano said. "And we questioned him about the murder. At first he denied knowing anything about it, then he changed his story the second time around but still didn't admit anything. The third time he told us what he had been doing on the day of the murder he confessed."

Schutz told police he and his wife, who lived at 8904 Church St., unincorporated Des Plaines, had dinner at his grandmother's house in Maywood. The couple came home at 9:15 p.m. and had an argument about moving from their apartment, police said. Schutz told police he left his apartment at 9:30 p.m. to take a ride and look for a new apartment.

Schutz said he drove into the Gregory Lane apartment complex where he saw Miss Littlejohn and asked her if she wanted a ride.

According to Gargano, Miss Littlejohn stared at Schutz until he asked her again if she wanted a ride then she walked up to his car, swore at him and started to walk away.

"Schutz told us he got very angry and got out of his car to chase her," Gargano said. "He chased her into the woods behind the apartments," Gargano said. Schutz then knocked her unconscious and molested her. She came to and tried to escape, but Schutz hit her again. "That was probably the fatal blow," Gargano added.

Schutz told police he then went to a nearby motel parking lot where he sat in his car for about 15 minutes. He then returned to the field and assaulted the girl again.

"From there," Gargano continued, "he went to the service station on Golf and Greenwood roads where he worked and washed the blood off his hands. Then he went to the Foster Avenue beach and came home at 3 a.m. the next day and threw away his blood-stained clothes. His wife didn't think anything about her husband's disappearance."

THERE WERE BASS and bluegills last weekend in Lake Opeka, in Lake Park, Howard near Lee. There also was warm Labor Day weather, and available bait. The two Des Plaines youths pictured here, know all about the nice weather, the availability of bait and the sharpness of hooks. But they haven't been able to find any bass or bluegills. Other fishermen were luckier.

Pollution Station Open

An air pollution monitoring station will be installed today on the roof of the Maine West High School gymnasium in Des Plaines, as part of a cooperative program between the city and the Cook County Air Pollution Control Bureau.

The station, which will be the sixteenth of its kind operated by the county, will provide city and county officials with information three times a week on air pollution levels in Des Plaines.

According to Albert J. Mullins, county pollution bureau administrator, the station uses a high volume suspended particulate monitoring system that traps dust, smoke and other air-borne particles in a disposable filter.

Mullins said the filters are weighed and then installed in the monitoring device for a 24-hour period. The used filters are weighed again in a laboratory and from their weight gain a pollution figure, measured in micrograms of particles per cubic meter of air, is derived.

Mullins said the monitoring station, which is owned by the City of Des Plaines, will provide information for county-wide and for federal air pollution measuring systems.

Other nearby monitoring stations are located in Niles and Palatine, Mullins said.

According to Raymond Schuepfer, city building commissioner, Des Plaines will take over operation of the measuring device after workers in his department have been trained by the county air pollution technicians.

Burglary Reported

Burglars took more than $200 in money and jewelry from a room at the O'Hare American Motel, Touhy and River Roads, sometime Tuesday night.

According to Des Plaines police, burglars entered the room of a motel guest, Harold Stafford, 41, of Ohio, while Stafford was away from his room.

Stafford told police he did not notice the money and jewelry were missing until early Wednesday morning. He said the stolen items had been on a dresser top near the door.

Among the items stolen were a watch, cigarette lighter, several credit cards, an airline ticket to Detroit and $80 in cash.

THE ANCIENT ART of being a clown was demonstrated Wednesday to kindergarten students at Terrace school, 735 S. Westgate, Des Plaines, by Victor Mensching, head custodian at the school. He explained how to put on make-up. He has worked part-time as a clown.

'I'd Do It All Again'

Actor Plays 75th Role

by LEON SHURE

The beautiful heroine will tell her tale of woe. A tall man, dressed as an 80-year-old Indian, will listen and fall asleep.

Underneath the make-up, is a Des Plaines resident, Ed Sauer, who will be helping the Des Plaines Theatre Guild Friday to celebrate its 25th anniversary. And he will be celebrating a few of his own.

Sauer is the only charter member of the Guild still performing, and he figures that this production of the musical "Little Mary Sunshine" will be his 75th play.

Sauer, 51, of 9700 N. Dee, Des Plaines, has many memories of the 25 years since the Guild's founding in 1946 — like the time the Guild performed by flashlight, and three members of the cast came down with laryngitis at the same time.

HE JOINED THE Guild at the urging of its founder Harland Roden. Sauer was living in Park Ridge then, and taking voice classes at a small drama school. Roden was looking for actors.

Sauer had been interested in acting since he played a part in a St. Patrick's Day play when he was 17. He'd served at Pearl Harbor during World War II in the 9th Naval district personnel office.

Sauer, then 26 years old, played his first Guild role as a 50 year old man in "Brighten the Corner," a comedy. This seemed to set the pattern for Sauer. He played many comedy character roles. At one point he acted in 15 plays in a row.

The guild had 25 members in the beginning. The actors sometimes had to finance the plays themselves. They performed in the gym of the Rand Park Fieldhouse, in Des Plaines. Later they moved to the second floor, west room.

In 1962, the Guild moved to 620 Lee St. in downtown Des Plaines, and fixed up an old Masonic meeting hall. They renovated it, and put in regular theater seats, from the Pickwick Theater in Park Ridge.

AMONG HIS LEADS were roles in "Majority of One" where he played a successful Japanese businessman, and the weak husband in Lillian Hellman's "Little Foxes."

He has directed several plays, the most recent, last season's production of "Tom Jones."

He also is a former president of the Guild, and is now serving a two year term on its board of directors.

During the 25 years of the Guild, he has seen it grow to an annual subscription sale of almost 600.

"We are able to do better productions, because we have better talent coming in."

As I'm sitting here, I'm aware of the tapping of the typewriter keys against my fingers; of the noise the machine creates; of the voices in the room; of the tightness in my stomach created by the need to meet a deadline.

This is a strange way to begin a neighborhood column. But something is going on in our neighborhood that, far from being strange, is unique, and important, and deserves at least these few inches of space.

The awareness I mentioned to begin with was brought about by a program I attended Tuesday night at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines. One of four, this program dealt with Gestalt therapy and self-awareness — one in the same.

It was an exciting night. Exciting because more than 100 persons filled the large auditorium. They had come from all over the state and as far away as Kalamazoo, Mich. (and as near as Des Plaines) for the same purpose: to view two films of Dr. Fritz Perls discussing the therapy, to observe a live demonstration of it and to participate in an experience of awareness.

I could throw out a few 100 words to impress you with my new-found knowledge of Gestalt. It is something to be experienced to understand. It is something the 20-and 70-year-olds present were able to experience and understand together. No generation gap with Gestalt. An awareness gap, maybe.

The films, setting Dr. Perls in living color, prefaced the second half of the program by showing what would happen. Dr. Perls was filmed as he conducted a Gestalt workshop with a group of young people. He made them become aware of themselves — what was going on inside of them, how they felt and what they were experiencing at that moment.

WHEN THE EVENING progressed to live action two volunteers took the stage and, under the guidance and proddings of a therapist, went through a similar procedure.

The audience was asked to close their eyes and feel what was happening in every part of their bodies. It was amazing to say the least to feel your heart beat, to actually feel your toes, ankles, back or hair. It was totally relaxing, and, if nothing else, you found out in five minutes how many things you've never noticed before about you.

Then we broke into small groups, each with an experienced leader in Gestalt. We were asked to tell each person, as we looked at them, something we were experiencing and aware of in ourselves and then something we were aware of about them. It was not as difficult as I thought it would be. In fact, it was a comfortable, friendly experience — sitting there with complete strangers and talking about a whole new world.

The best part of the evening was knowing that there would be three more to come. For the next three Tuesday nights other areas of Gestalt will be dealt with in a similar manner. The programs begin at 8 p.m. and are held on the fourth floor at Forest.

This sounds like a plug. It is. It sounds unusual. Magnificent is a better word. For more information about the series, call Forest Hospital, 827-8811.

Try it once. I dare you to be aware for one night and not have it change a part of your life.

Memorial Fund Started For Schaumburg Girl

The Leslie Stansell Memorial Foundation, named for the Schaumburg girl killed in a Peruvian air plane crash last month has been initiated by Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Atcher kicked off the fund with a $100 check Tuesday night at the village board meeting. Money collected will be used to defray the costs put on parents whose children participate in student foreign exchange programs.

Trustee Jack Larsen will request the services of the Schaumburg Jaycees to take up fund raising for the foundation.

Legal services toward establishing the fund have been volunteered by Trustee James Guthrie.

Students participating in American Field Service (AFS) foreign exchange programs from Conant High School have their transportation costs and a small spending money allowance provided by the school, said Robert Lyons, last year's activities director.

MONEY THE SCHOOL provides is raised through student-sponsored activities through the year, he added.

Any additional expenses incurred by students have to be paid by the student's family, he added.

The Schaumburg Rotary Club this year sponsored a trip to New Zealand for Laurie Smith of Hoffman Estates.

The host Rotary club in Christ Church, New Zealand, will contribute $400 toward Laurie's expenses in the coming year. Her family must pay travel expenses and provide $100 for an expense account for her.

Several teachers had tears in their eyes as they pleaded with Dist. 59 board members Tuesday night to reduce class sizes.

The board announced that little relief would come until sixth-day enrollment figures were received. Next Tuesday is the sixth day.

Almost 100 teachers came to the meeting to present information to the board about their class sizes in hopes of convincing the board to hire additional teachers.

Although the teachers returned to the classrooms on the first day of school Tuesday and said they would continue to teach, they said they would not approve a teaching contract unless it included a lower class size.

The board has offered a salary acceptable to the teachers but the contract has included no provisions for class size. "WE HAVE NO intentions of exceeding last year's class size," Richard Hess, board president, said.

When the teachers said their classes were larger than last year, Hess said the board would have to wait until the sixth-day enrollment figures were received before making more changes.

Enrollment figures are compiled on the sixth day because of state regulation. This day was chosen because the enrollment is more stable by then, Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent in charge of finance, said.

The teachers proceeded to present their class attendance figures, however, to prove their point, saying things would probably be worse by the sixth day.

One female junior high school teacher listed class sizes as 44, 43, 39, 35, and 31 students.

"I THINK IT'S time we stop talking about money and start talking about human beings. We talk and talk and do nothing and tomorrow I'll have to go back to 44 students. It's our fault. They can't do anything about it," she said, now in tears.

One art teacher exclaimed, "I have an average of 40 students in my class. I had to put in two extra tables to seat the students. There are no windows and no ventilation. God forbid if there's a fire because they won't be able to get out."

A special education teacher at Dempster Junior High School told how she worked for a year to place one boy back in a normal math class, only to find the smallest class had 28 students, which she said meant the boy would have trouble.

She said her students were not counted in the class ratio, yet she had 15 others which she was hoping to eventually return to normal classes.

Other teachers reported sizes of 33, and 36 in remedial reading classes.

"YOU THINK THOSE remedial classes are heavy now — keep this up and you'll have all remedial classes because we don't have the time to teach all these kids," another teacher said.

The questions and statements by the teachers came after a report of opening day presented by Supt. James Erviti.

Erviti said there were no figures available yet for class sizes in the junior high schools — whose teachers registered most of the complaints. However, several teachers disputed his elementary school figures, which set 38 students in a class as the high.

One teacher listed classes at Robert Frost School as 28, 34, 35, 35, and 36. "Yes we have one with 28," she said. "But this is a split class with second and third graders!"

THE TEACHERS were told that several large classes in the junior high schools would receive additional teachers immediately, however, Al Waltman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, said there are only slightly over 10 teachers to be hired for the quota.

Erviti commented, "We still have not heard one teacher say what a desirable size is, or how the community will face paying for additional teachers."

"The teachers problem is not a problem created by the board of education but by the community," he said.

Erviti was referring to a defeated tax increase proposed by the administration and board last November.

No further negotiation meetings have been scheduled as yet, Waltman, chairman of the district negotiation team, said.

Dist. 59 Teachers Plead

Here's Board's Proposal

School Dist. 59 released details yesterday of its latest offer to teachers.

Details were developed by negotiating teams in a session last Thursday. They were rejected by the Teachers' Council negotiating team.

Here are the details: "The board of education has agreed to allocate $79,600 for extra-duty pay.

"This is money paid in addition to teachers' regular salary for additional duties like coaching sports, directing plays, or being a department head.

"The board agrees to add as net additions to the district staff, enough teachers for the 1970-71 school year to preserve district-wide class size averages prevailing during the previous school year.

"Historically and philosophically, the board is committed to make every effort to allocate extra revenue to decrease class size. It pledges to continue to support this program.

"IN AN EFFORT to retain career teachers, the superintendent will select 10 per cent of the full-time equivalent teaching staff as of Oct. 1, or 53 staff members, whichever number is greater, to be career service teachers.

"Sixty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by Dec. 1 to teach in the following year's summer school program.

"These teachers will receive an additional five per cent of their yearly salary as of Dec. 1 of the current year. They will be committed for 20 half-days of teaching in the summer school program.

"Forty per cent of the 53 career service teachers will be chosen by the superintendent to carry out specific assignments during the year. He will appoint them as the need arises.

"THESE ASSIGNMENTS could include such things as developing special programs; evaluating curriculum, pupil records and recording systems, or resource accounting systems; projecting resource needs; teacher training; or professional internships.

"The board had previously approved an agreement which included a $7,600 starting salary for beginning teachers a salary scale up to a maximum of $15,985 for experienced teachers. It also promised to add half the payment cost of medical insurance for dependents."

"We are ready at any time to continue to meet with the teachers' negotiating team in an attempt to reach agreement," said Albeon Waltman, Dist. 59 assistant superintendent in charge of personnel and head of the district's negotiating team.

The elementary district has nearly 12,000 students in 20 northwest suburban schools — 10 buildings in Elk Grove Village, five in Mount Prospect, four in Des Plaines, and one in Arlington Heights.

Set Des Plaines Oktoberfest

Beer, pretzels, corn on the cob and a generous supply of old world beauty will all be part of Oktoberfest in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines Jaycees are sponsoring a weekend of celebration, from 5 p.m. Friday through Sunday night, in an all-weather tent on the grounds of the Red Gavel Antique Shop, 575 Lee.

It will coincide with a carnival which will be held Friday through Sept. 20.

This annual event is one of three large fund raising events, which supplies funds for Jaycee community service programs.

Imported and domestic beer, as well as soft drinks for the youngsters, will be in large supply, according to Jaycee spokesmen.

GUS SORGATZ and his band will provide the music for dancing and sing-alongs.

Miss Oktoberfest of 1970, Sandy Felty, of 9122 Lincoln Dr., will appear. She will be wearing an authentic German costume. Members of the Jaycees, not yet named, will wear Lederhosen (leather shorts), as they have at past Oktoberfests.

Celebration chairman, Joe Lancaster, 3944 W. North Shore, has predicted that this year's Oktoberfest will be even better than the two previous celebrations. Last year, 45 half-barrels of beer, 636 pounds of bratwurst and 220 dozen ears of corn were consumed.

Lancaster said community interest has indicated to him that this year's Oktoberfest, "should be the biggest yet." Lancaster was aided by Frank Rutigliano, his co-chairman Ed Prell, 1153 Margaret, and Bill Seaman, 1167 Third.

Lancaster also explained why the Oktoberfest is held in September.

"Old-time Jaycees like to recall the when we had a record low of 45 degrees on Friday and a cold drizzle on Saturday," Lancaster said.

"Despite that, everyone had a marvelous time and it was then that we decided to make it an annual affair. But we vowed that from here on out, we would hold it in early September to get a better break on the weather."

Carnival Set For Friday

Twenty high-flying rides, 30 game booths, hot dogs and cold drinks will all be a part of the Des Plaines Jaycee carnival to be held Friday through Sunday, Sept. 20.

The carnival, which will be held at Oakton and Lee Streets on weekdays, from 6:30 to 11 p.m., and on weekends 1:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m., is a fund-raising event for the Jaycees. The last carnival, in June, earned more than $2,000 for Jaycee community activities.

Rides will include a ferris wheel, a merry-go-round, and more modern, and faster rides — "the paratrooper," a whirling twirling machine ride, and seventeen others. There will be game booths — ring toss, baseball throws, and skill games.

Food will include hot dogs, hamburgers, and softdrinks and coffee. A committee of Jaycee wives may provide some food, according to Richard Bush, one of the committee members who planned the event.

Other members of the committee are Dan Brennen, chairman, and Tom Brennen.

This carnival coincides with the Jaycee Oktoberfest to be held this weekend at the Red Gavel, 575 Lee St.

Bush said the carnival will be one of the biggest in the area, and that the twice yearly carnival provides about 90 per cent of the funds for Jaycee projects.

About 50 Jaycees will be involved in ticket-taking, setting up, and cleaning-up. Bush said.

Attendance should be high, he said. At the last carnival, more than 5,000 people attended in a single weekend day, he said.

Her Concern Is For Those In Need

by MARY HUTCHINGS

Linda Coughlin is a concerned high school senior, but her concern is not for herself.

She donates her time and efforts in trying to make life a little better for the thousands of persons born each year in the United States with birth defects.

Recently appointed teen chairman of the Metropolitan Chicago Chapter of the National Foundation — March of Dimes, Illinois.

the Conant student represented the area at the teen conference of the Foundations held at Amherst, Mass. during the last week of August.

Presently president of the St. Hubert's youth group, which annually sponsors teen tag day in January for the March of Dimes, Miss Coughlin was chairman of the 1970 drive, which raised the most money of any group like it in northern Illinois.

The Young Adult Youth Leadership Conference on Birth Defects brought together 300 representatives of the youth's March of Dimes from across the country.

The regional chairman of the March speak before various local groups to gain support for their activities. Miss Coughlin will preside at the Sept. 26 teen conference in DuPage County.

THE NATIONAL workshop held on the University of Massachusetts campus featured speakers and films on various birth defects. A Monday night concert, and autograph signing session by singing star B. J. Thomas of "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head" fame highlighted the conference for Miss Coughlin, who proudly displays a snapshot of herself with the star.

She termed her experience fascinating, and her enthusiasm for the birth defect cause is obvious when she talks about her involvement with the drive. "Not enough people realize that even though polio is no longer the big thing, the March of Dimes takes care of a lot of other defects."

After meeting and talking with a few active handicapped students at the conference, Miss Coughlin said it made her realize more emphatically "There is hope." She tells of one handicapped girl who spoke at the workshop, who told the audience, "I'm sure glad my mother didn't have an abortion."

Another featured speaker was Michael Creighton, author of "Adromeda Strain."

On the last day of the workshop, a rap session allowed the student leaders to exchange ideas for raising money for their cause. This year Miss Coughlin hopes to have a Walkathon in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates in addition to the regular tag day when the teens solicit donations. Another idea she brought back from the conference is "spook insurance" which is sold to families with the idea that any Halloween damage like toilet paper, soap or broken pumpkins would be cleaned by teens Nov. 1.

THOUGH THE YOUNG leader hasn't decided what she will do after graduation from Conant this June, she definitely plans to continue her volunteer work. She says it is a "great cause" and would be happiest if she were to be named state chairman of the teen chapter of the March.

When she thinks about the success of the Hoffman Estates drive that earned her the trip to Amherst, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coughlin, 307 Lakeview Ln., thinks about the people who also put work into the teen tag day.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Poniatowski, of Hoffman Estates provide hot chocolate, donuts and cookies for the workers. As adult sponsors they encourage the teens to donate as much time as possible to the drive.

And there are always standouts like Mike Gannon of the St. Hubert's youth club who was high man last January with a day's total of $107.

In the end, however, much of the credit for the March of Dimes success in this area has to go to one of the 300 national leaders who represented not only Hoffman Estates, but all of the Chicago area as well.

Campaign Comments

Crawfords Slates Opening

by ED MURNANE
Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Bellefonte, Democratic candidate for state treasurer, spent the first of several campaign days in the suburbs yesterday. He made stops in Arlington Heights and Niles Township, and said he plans to concentrate his October campaigning in the Chicago area.

State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging U.S. Rep.

Philip M. Crane, R-13th, for the second time, will host a cocktail party Friday afternoon following a press conference featuring U.S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn. Anderson is visiting the 13th District, Warman said, "to discuss in depth the congressional committee which is presently investigating Rep. Philip Crane's exceptional attempts to whitewash the Con Son prison situation and the Thieu-Ky regime, as well as Crane's questionable attack on House colleagues." Crane's story on Con Son has been backed up recently by Astronaut Frank Borman, who also visited the prison.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman's son, Andy, went back where he came from last weekend. The Schlickman's drove Andy to Georgetown University in Washington D.C. where he is starting his freshman year. Andy was born at Georgetown Hospital.

Do you know what Helminthosporium Maydis is? That's the official name of the fungus responsible for Illinois' corn blight. Dr. Franklin Yoder, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said the fungus will not cause human infection. Thought you'd be interested.

George Dunne, Cook County board president and a candidate for reelection, will attend the St. Emily's Church picnic Sunday afternoon at Northwestern Forest Preserve in Des Plaines.

Ed Warman is using the same campaign stationery this year that he used last year, with a new campaign headquarters address typed over the old address. Campaign funds are getting scarce for everyone.

The College Democrats of Illinois are launching a drive to register 65,000 students in time for the Nov. 3 election. According to the organization, the 65,000 are at nine universities and colleges in the state and are over 21 but have not registered. Makes you wonder about the 18-year-old vote, doesn't it?

County Assessor P.J. Cullerton, Democrat seeking reelection, will open a Northwest suburban headquarters in the Lawrencewood Shopping Center in Niles. Phone number is 967-6500. Grand opening will be scheduled soon.

Mrs. Jeanette Erskine and Mrs. Charlotte Harvey, both of Des Plaines, have been named co-chairmen of the 10th Annual Elk Grove GOP dinner-dance Oct. 16. The dance is to be held at the new Naverone Restaurant, Higgins Road and Oakton Street, in Elk Grove Township. Tickets ($30 a couple) are available by calling Mrs. Jacki Bremer at 439-5015. Mrs. Bremer says you better hurry.

U.S. Rep. Daniel Rostenkowski, D-8th (Chicago), said Rep. Philip Crane, R-13th, "has one of the sharpest political minds I've seen." Rostenkowski, prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., said Crane's image as a "far-right conservative" isn't true. He's voting as a good Republican.

Crawford Department Stores will open a fourth store later this month in DeKalb, it was announced today by Alan J. Garber, president.

To be located in the Village Commons Shopping Center on the campus of Northern Illinois University, it will be known as "Crawford on Campus" and encompass 6,500 square feet of selling space. It will incorporate the most modern design, color, lighting and fixture techniques, according to Garber.

The DeKalb store will be the fourth Crawford outlet. Others are located at 2509 W. Devon Ave. and 4020 W. North Ave. in Chicago, and at 3240 Kirchoff Rd. in Rolling Meadows.

"Crawford on Campus will be a unique operation in that it will cater to the fashion needs of both young men and young women," explained Garber. "Here, students can shop together for class and campus fashions in an atmosphere geared to his or her fashion image. The new store will offer great selections of sportswear, coats, dresses, shoes, and other fine quality merchandise."

The new DeKalb store will be managed by Sam Beyda, who has been associated with Crawford for nine years and most recently has served as manager of the Devon Avenue store.

Harris, Ginger Loughman Win Paddock Tennis Titles

Greg Harris and Ginger Loughman reign as the new 18-and-under champions in the 10th Annual Paddock Tennis Tournament.

Harris, seeded No. 1 in the tourney, was hard pressed by third-seeded Jim Merkel in the title match. After the eventual champion captured the opening set by a 6-1 score, Merkel reversed the total to take the second set. Harris came on in the final with a tough 6-3 victory and the trophy.

Miss Loughman wrapped up the crown on Labor Day with a pro set 10-6 win over Nancy Skarzyski.

Miss Loughman reached the finals with three wins and a bye. After getting by the opening round without using her racquet, Ginger stopped Ann Tobin by two 6-2 scores.

Then she had an easy (6-1) and then a hard (8-6) set victories over Pam Crews to gain a semifinal shot.

In the semis she met and defeated Andrea Laffey by scores of 6-3, 6-4.

Miss Skarzyski also drew a bye as the top seeded player. In the second round she met and defeated Kim Crews by scores of 6-4, 6-0; the next victim was Claudia Borman by nearly identical matches of 6-2, 6-0; and finally she disposed of Lynne Schwabe — ranked third in the seeds — by totals of 8-6, 6-1.

But Miss Loughman, who was the fourth seeded player, proved to be too tough to handle in the final.

Harris posted five victories enroute to the title. He blanked his first two opponents — Craig Mathews and Eric Vid — by 6-0 counts; defeated Roger O'Keefe 6-2, 6-4 in the fourth round; stopped Gny Pederson 6-0, 6-3; and put out fourth-seeded Don Martin in the semifinals, 6-3, 6-1.

Merkel, who finished second in boys action, won the opener by default. He blanked Don Cerva (6-0, 6-0) in the second round and was off and running. Jeff Seeger was the second victim by 6-2, 6-1; then handled Wayne Fish, 6-1, 6-0; and won his semifinal match against Don Martin's brother Dick by sets of 6-2, 6-3. So both Martin brothers just missed facing each other in the finals.

The men and women will play for their titles on Sunday beginning at 1 p.m. at the Arlington courts. Their final rounds were also rained out last weekend.

Don Martin reached the upper bracket semifinals in this manner:

He stopped his first two opponents — Dave McAllister and John Paczkowski — by 6-0, 6-1 counts; then he won 6-3, 6-1 over Mark Greenberg; and finally reached the semi's with a 6-4, 6-3 decision over Doug Lanfberger.

His brother Dick also avoided any three-setters enroute to the semi's of the lower bracket. He progressed this way:

He defeated Vern Fish 6-1, 6-0 in the first round; stopped Bill Joyce 6-3, 6-2 in the second; handled Scott Steingraber 6-2, 6-1 in the third; and then disposed of tough Bruce Starek by scores of 6-4 and 9-7 before losing to Merkel.

The two girls to reach the semifinals — Lynne Schwabe and Andrea Laffey — got there in this manner:

Lynne had an opening bye and then handled Karen Greenberg by scores of 6-0, 6-1. After that she met and defeated Sue Hoglund by sets of 6-2, 6-3 for her shot at Nancy Skarzyski.

Andrea wasn't lucky enough to have an opening bye and had to go three sets before ousting Debbie Rubner 2-4, 7-5 and 6-3. She had an easier time of it with Susan Dean winning 6-1, 6-2. She reached the semi's by defeating Laura Schunk by scores of 6-2, 6-3.

There were 64 boys and 23 girls that competed in this the first singles tourney sponsored by Paddock Publications.

During the past nine Labor Day tourneys, the field had been held to just mixed doubles play. In all there were over 170 adults and children participating from throughout the area.

LOTHAR'S KING. Lothar Peistrup returns a shot at Roger King during action last weekend in the Paddock Singles Tennis Tournament. Peistrup took three sets before defeating King and advanced to the semifinal round against Dave Johnson. The finals for both men and women will be played on Sunday at 1 p.m. because of last weekend's rainstorm.

FIRING AWAY at the elusive tennis ball is Roger King during last weekend's Paddock Singles Tournament at Arlington High School's tennis courts. Peistrup, Peistrup can earn a berth in the finals on Sunday by getting by Dave Johnson. The finals were moved up from last weekend because of the heavy rains. Both the men and women will play for the first place trophies.

Rich Net Pros To Gather At McGaw

At least four of the six contract professionals who will be appearing at McGraw Hall Sept. 17 and 18 in the Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic will make over $100,000 this year from playing professional tennis.

Agile Pancho Gonzalez and 1970 Wimbledon champion John Newcombe who will be highlighting the two-day tourney with a $10,000 head-to-head match on Sept. 18, rank four and six, respectively, in official earnings so far this year. Prior to the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, Gonzalez had won $82,749 and Newcombe $47,630.

Tom Okker and U.S. Pro Champion Tony Roche, who will be playing on Sept. 17, have won $52,990 and $46,089, respectively, so far this year.

Newcombe says, "Before the year is out, my winnings should come to between $50,000 and $80,000. Then there are the endorsement fees from manufacturers of tennis equipment. Including endorsements, a top player ought to make $110,000 to $150,000 a year." As for endorsements, the number two seed at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships said, "One of the world's top-ranked players should be making $35,000 to $50,000 a year from his racquet endorsements. This is about double the figure of two years ago."

Rod Laver, the top tennis player in the world, has already earned $135,803 in official earnings so far this year (prior to Forest Hills). He is so famous, so big, that while other players may endorse one racquet, Laver endorses three simultaneously. That's worth about $100,000 this year for Laver. When you add in his other endorsements, Rocket Rod should earn no less than $300,000 this year playing professional tennis.

Professional tennis is coming of age. "In just the last two years tennis has broken away from the cliché country club set. Now the public is taking it up," says Gladys Heldman, editor and publisher of World Tennis Magazine. She adds, "All of a sudden the big companies are starting to sponsor tournaments, and the equipment makers are shelling out wads of money for endorsements."

This year the French Open and Wimbledon both offered $100,000 in prize money. The U.S. open at Forest Hills is offering $160,000 in total prize money, with $20,000 ear-marked for first prize in the man's singles competition.

A chief reason for the growth of pro tennis has been a 1968 agreement for "open tennis" negotiated among the various organizations that control the game. Now the pros can play in many important tournaments that formerly barred them. The prestige of the tournaments — and of the pros — has grown correspondingly. Tennis supporters contend that the game will grow in the 1970's the way professional golf did in the 1960's.

On a local level, this prediction would seem to hold true. Last year, Chicago had its first major professional tennis tournament, the success of which prompted its promoters to being about this year's Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic. And the lure of a $10,000 head-to-head match brought Gonzalez and Newcombe together for their second such competition this year. Gonzalez defeated the younger Newcombe in January of this year in another $10,000 head-to-head match.

In addition to Gonzalez vs. Newcombe, the Friday matches at McGaw feature Northwestern's Marty Riessen playing Tony Roche; and a doubles match pairing Tom Okker and Riessen against Tony Roche and Ismail El Shafiei.

On Thursday night, the first night of competition, the action will get under way with singles competition between 1970 Wimbledon champion Margaret Smith Court and Nancy Richey, U.S. number one-ranked woman tennis player. If Mrs. Court manages to win the U.S. Open, in which she is competing, she will be the first woman tennis player to accomplish a grand slam (the championships of Australia, France, Britain and the United States in one year) since the late Maureen Connolly Brinker in 1953.

The next event Thursday night features 1970 U.S. Davis Cup champions Arthur Ashe and Cliff Richey in singles competition. Following this match, Mrs. Court and Ashe will team up against Cliff and Nancy Richey in mixed doubles.

Action starts both nights at 7:15 p.m. Tickets are priced at $6.50 and $3.00 and they are on sale at all Ticketron outlets and Marshall Field and Montgomery Ward stores. Tickets can also be purchased at Northwestern's Dyche Stadium or by mail. Mail orders should be addressed to Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic, Suite 505, 333 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Taxpayers Ask The IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I DON'T have the money to pay all that I owe on my third quarter estimated tax. Can I pay part now and the rest next time?

A — You may have to pay a penalty based on a 6 per cent annual rate if your payments are not made in full when they are due. To avoid the penalty, your estimated tax installments must be paid on time and should amount to at least 90 per cent of your income tax when your return for the year is filed. Farmers and fishermen can avoid this penalty if their payments equal 66 and two-thirds per cent of their total tax liability.

Q — I USED an employment agency to get my job. Are the fees I paid deductible?

A — Yes, if you itemize expenses this will be deductible. If a job was not secured, the fees are nondeductible.

Q — I WORK part-time as a maid. How can I tell if social security is being paid for me?

A — Ask your employer whether these taxes are being paid for you. Employers are required to file a return and pay social security taxes for household employees when cash wages of $50 or more are paid to an employee during any calendar quarter. Employers are also required to provide employees with an annual statement of wages paid and social security taxes withheld.

A full statement of your Social Security coverage may be obtained by writing the Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Md. 21235. Give your name, address and social security number when you write.

Q — MY SON has earned almost $600 this year. If he makes any more will I lose his exemption?

A) — If your son is either under 19 at the end of the year or a full-time student for at least five months during the year, the amount of his earnings will not affect his status as your dependent. The other dependency tests, support for instance, must continue to be met.

Q — I TOOK a loss when I sold some stock I inherited. Can I deduct this on my return?

A) — If you sold the stock for less than its fair market value on the date of the decedent's death then you are entitled to either a short or long term capital loss depending on how long you owned the stock beginning with the date of death. Anything over six months would be a long term loss.

Q — THE BANK where my daughter opened up a savings account wants her social security number. Where can she get one?

A) — Your daughter may apply for a social security number by filling out Form SS-5 which may be obtained from your local Social Security or IRS office. Banks and other financial institutions are required by law to report certain dividend and interest payments by the identifying number of the recipient.

A) — Ask your employer whether these taxes are being paid for you. Employers are required to file a return and pay social security taxes for household employees when cash wages of $50 or more are paid to an employee during any calendar quarter. Employers are also required to provide employees with an annual statement of wages paid and social security taxes withheld.

Teachers Attend Religion Class

More than 1,000 Catholic volunteers from the Northwest suburbs will attend workshops this month in preparation for teaching religion to students enrolled in public schools.

The volunteers from 11 parishes in the area will attend eight-hour workshops in nine centers sponsored by the Northwest Coordinators, a regional group of religious educators working in Northwest Cook County.

The cooperating parishes are St. Anne of Barrington; St. Cecilia and St. Raymond of Mount Prospect; St. Colette of Rolling Meadows; St. Edna and St. James of Arlington Heights; St. Julian Eymard of Elk Grove Village; St. Hubert on Hoffman Estates; St. John the Evangelist of Streamwood; Our Lady of the Brook in Northbrook; and St. Theresa of Palatine.

THE NINE workshops for the volunteers who will teach catechism is the first cooperative project being planned by Northwest Coordinators to pool the resources and professional abilities of the Northwest area where parishes are facing the problem of rapidly expanding populations.

Coordinators of the participating parishes are Sister Eileen Marie of St. Anne; Mrs. Bernadette Arnold of St. Cecilia; Sister Grace Marie Kelly and Mrs. Pat Miller of St. Colette; Sister Kay Merritt of St. Edna; The Rev. Thomas

Dore of St. Hubert; Mrs. Vicki Driver of St. James; Sister Carol Plochocki of St. John; Sister Rosemary Lynch of St. Julian Eymard; Sister JoAnn Persch of Our Lady of the Brook; Sister Mary Mrozynski of St. Raymond; and Sister Jean Allen of St. Theresa.

Republican Election Judges Meeting Set

Maine Township Republican election judges have been invited to attend the regular organization's monthly meeting Friday at 8 p.m. in the Thomas Jefferson school, Niles, north of Oakton near Prospect.

Major business of the evening will be a special training session on how to conduct an efficient and lawful election, instructed by Mayor Robert O. Atcher of Schaumburg, Republican candidate for Cook county clerk, the office that controls the suburban election machinery.

County Commissioner Floyd T. Fulle, Maine Township GOP committeeman, said Atcher knows more about proper election procedures than anyone in the county, and it is hoped the session can help avoid a repetition of the election day "mess" that hit Maine township and the suburbs two years ago, which Fulle blamed on inefficiency in the county clerk's office.

Opening lead—♠K

In some respects Ely Culbertson was way ahead of his time back in the early '30s. At least, he was always coming up with ideas for new bids.

One of his greatest brain children was the "Asking Bid." This bid was so far ahead of its day that no one wanted to use it back in the '30s. It is still a mighty complicated bid and only a few expert partnerships use it today but there is a lot of merit to it.

Specifically, an "Asking Bid" inquires about his partner's holding in some suit. The simplest asking bid is a common sense one.

North has a mighty fine hand opposite an opening bid that improves considerably when his partner gets around to bidding the heart suit. He wants to find out exactly one thing. That is what his partner can do about the club suit.

South has a very strong opening bid, 16 high-card points and two good five-card suits. He merely bids two hearts at his second turn. At this point North can count enough points for a slam. However, you can't make a slam if the opponents take the first two tricks and North wonders about the club suit.

His jump to five hearts is a clear request to partner to go to six if he can handle the second round of clubs. South can't handle the second round of clubs so he passes in spite of his big hands.

If West doesn't open a club South will make all the tricks but West does open his suit and does take the first two tricks. This five-heart call was a common sense asking bid. Tomorrow we will show one of Ely's original asking bids.

The Way We See It

A People Revolution

Years of growth, years of change. The impact of the 1960s revolutionized the Northwest suburbs.

Nothing more clearly documents the change than the preliminary figures recently released by the U.S. Census Bureau.

Twelve incorporated communities in the area currently served by Herald newspapers increased in population from 132,884 at the start of the decade to 318,977 in 1970. Dramatic growth was also recorded in unincorporated areas, although census figures for these areas have not yet been released.

Within the decade, Arlington Heights, which now has 62,568 residents, moved ahead of Des Plaines, to become the most populous community in Northwest Cook County. Census takers counted 58,191 people in Des Plaines this year.

Arlington Heights became the fifth largest city in Cook County, after Chicago, Evanston, Skokie and Cicero. However, none of the larger communities showed appreciable growth, and Arlington Heights could end up in the second spot in the next U.S. census.

The three percentage growth leaders in Cook County were all Northwest area towns: Hanover Park went from 451 persons to 10,985, a rate of 2,336 per cent; Schaumburg went from 986 to 18,312, a rate of 1,757 per cent; Buffalo Grove went from 1,492 to 11,549, a rate of growth of 674 per cent.

Based on the tentative figures, only three of the 12 area towns failed to double their populations: Des Plaines (70 per cent); Mount Prospect (87 per cent); and Rolling Meadows (74 per cent). Even so, they were among the county's growth leaders.

Here is how the Northwest communities rank, according to the preliminary figures: Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Hoffman Estates, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Streamwood, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Hanover Park.

Manners Provide Example

This letter is not to downgrade our teen-agers or young adults, I believe they prefer to be called that. What I am about to say will, I'm sure, be encountered by them as they grow older. It actually pertains to us parents and children.

Through our example and manner we hope they'll learn the values of good manners. Naturally where one starts is in the cradle. In this country, where there is an abundance of everything, clothes for our backs, food for our stomachs, I feel the main things missing are the manners and neighborliness between the people and even the children.

YOU CAN'T GO to a shopping center or restaurant and even get a cheery smile. Do you ever stop and ask yourself, maybe that is the only personal greeting he or she may have to look forward to that day. Our children, yes. Where have the days gone when little girls would have their dolls and carriages, playing house, etc., and the little boys with their fire engines or little dress-up outfits and happy faces. Even they seem to have forgotten how to smile. Taunt and bother, yes. I don't mean all children.

Yet we forget to realize that our children learn through our example. What about our older citizens? Winter is only a few months away; will a young boy or girl offer to shovel their driveway or help carry out their garbage? No, but they don't mind knocking and kicking the cans in the street — or throwing garbage on their lawn. Yet we fail to forget we the parents should ask ourselves once in a while when our children are out, what are they doing? Never mind saying, "Well, I don't get involved with children's difficulties." Maybe if they did they'd realize their child isn't the angel they feel he is.

A smile is such an easy thing it can make a day for the lonely. Even the most hardened heart can melt — they may not show it, but they do have feelings. To me a smile is part of our manners. One can live on a street for years, minding one's own business, yet on meeting a neighbor chat awhile, being cordial, yet, oddly enough doesn't seem to mold into their idea of being neighborly. You are either called a "loner" or you are snobbish. Yet they fail to realize if they would offer to be friendly themselves, maybe that's what the person has wanted, but afraid to do it themselves for fear they are imposing on them. Once again I must clarify that not all people are like that, but the biggest majority are.

WHY NOT BEGIN TODAY and open the lips that God gave you and "smile" once in awhile. It doesn't hurt. Then you'll find that our children will smile, rather than being rough and name calling.

I realize children do these things. Unfortunately it seems they pick on the ones much younger than they are. That to me reflects the parents not teaching the children to be kind to each other.

The U.S.A. is a lovely country. Many Americans don't realize your good fortune — but also remember people. They have feelings. I believe there's a saying, "We can live without friends, but not without our neighbors." Just because we don't particularly go in for daily morning coffees or popping into one's house each day, it does not mean we're unfriendly or don't care to associate with our neighbors.

My only regret is I should have written this a few years ago. When at that time, a friendly neighbor for me would have been a blessing.

'Insight' On Traffic Safety

I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank you for Judy Brandes' Sept. 1 article in the Herald. It is rare to see such "insight" in a person not directly involved in the police profession, and it is gratifying to know that someone such as she will take the time to express their ideas in print.

Her approach to the whole idea of the police department's concern with the life and safety of our youngsters "hits the nail on the head." Most of us are parents too and can, therefore, see both sides of the problem having to do with where and how many guards we are to put on the streets. The logic of her suggestion that a slightly longer route to school may supply the adult supervision desired is one that we have been trying to express for years. We would much prefer that enough funds and personnel were available so we could place an adult guard on each corner; however, this obviously is not the case.

UNFORTUNATELY, there are not enough people who will take the time she has taken to think things out and understand that we are "on their side too," but are still limited as to how much we can do in certain areas. She makes a good point when she recommends that hazardous areas and problems should be brought to the attention of the police, but the solutions needed for these problems should be left to those of us charged with the responsibility for solving them.

In closing, let me add that intelligent, constructive suggestions such as hers can do more to unify our community and accomplish its goals than the police department could ever hope to do on its own.

Rest For Guards

This letter is in response to Judith Gustafson's letter to the editor published in the Sept. 2 issue of the Herald.

Despite the obvious selfishness with which her letter is written, it is also clear she has no understanding of the 10-minute rest period.

She states in her letter that she must sit during this period and "watch and wonder why?" With her knowledge of the reasoning behind the 10-minute rest period, her entire letter should consist of the word wonder.

THE 10-MINUTE rest period is a rest period for the life guards who must sit on the guard stands for one hour at a time. It is believed that those over 21 have the ability to stay in the water without the life guards. The age 21 is as good as any. Also it is believed that the parents who brought their children to the pool would get a break from just sitting and having to watch the kids swim. It is now their turn to enjoy the facilities of the park district.

The alternative, she states, is entirely incorrect. The correct alternative is to close the pool for everyone for 10 minutes.

In the end, Judith Gustafson, is 10 minutes really that much to ask from you?

A Friendship Blossoms

by CRAIG GAARE

It was like the poor little child who enters the toy section of the department store just before Christmas.

The Buffalo Grove Park District was the little child, scarcely a year old, who stood in awe of the Wheeling Park District and its facilities at a joint meeting between the two districts last week.

And like a child, the Buffalo Grove

commissioners listened in eager anticipation.

At the outset, both boards were a little ill at ease and sparring verbally trying to find out each village's intentions for expansion into the unincorporated area between the two municipalities.

THE BUFFALO GROVE commissioners learned about the little things — the little things necessary to give their district direction.

One of the suggestions made was that Buffalo Grove establish park district colors and decide on an official seal, to give the district an identity.

Also, Wheeling gave Buffalo Grove information on how to go about negotiating with High School Dist. 214 for a future school-park pool.

Wheeling also gave some other advice on swimming pools; that it is almost impossible to sell revenue bonds on the open market to pay for construction of a pool.

The facility which both districts are lacking is a golf course. Neither board said they were buying one, but made it known they were in the market. The feeling was that, with co-operation, the two districts could jointly own and operate a golf course.

THE BUFFALO GROVE Park District can only gain from any sharing relationship. The question is how can Wheeling benefit? Perhaps the answer can be found in the desire to acquire a golf course.

The Buffalo Grove commissioners learned much from the meeting. In time they will catch up with their "big brother" in facilities and experience, but for now the common bond between is acquisition of a golf course.

Palatine Today

No Problem???

by MARTHA KOPER

There is no drug problem in the Northwest suburbs.

Believe it or not, that's what some people around here think. I know because I answered the phone a couple of weeks ago when most of our front page told about a gathering of people concerned with drug abuse.

Along with two stories describing the drug seminar held at Northwest Community Hospital was a picture of some of the participants. The man in the photo had long curly hair and a cigarette dangling from his mouth.

Apparently, that picture was just too much for some people and they called to say we were "sensationalizing."

I'M STILL bewildered. How can a photo of a psychologist for the Illinois Drug Abuse Program be anything other than what it is?

The man, Eric Shapp, is concerned about people who use drugs. He's doing his work mostly in Chicago, but when he heard there were a few people in the suburbs anxious to fight the problem he wanted to join them.

Although he may look a little "unusual" to some here, he has got a better chance of relating to the acid droppers.

But there's more than the complaints about the picture to the story.

Unfortunately, it must mean there are still people who only want to bury their heads in the sand. If something like that picture on the front page of their morning newspaper can be so distressing, I wonder what they would think about marijuana, speed, LSD, heroin.

Of course, it is not their children we have to worry about. It's not their kids who prompted a meeting of more than 100 people at Northwest Community Hospital last month to talk about drugs.

Four years ago in Palatine there were six drug cases reported to the police. By 1968, the figure had jumped to 19. Only 19 drug cases reported in a town topping 26,000. That's not bad at all.

BUT THE KEY word is reported. Experts are quick to point out that no one knows the extent of drug use because the users are not being apprehended.

So as long as the statistics are not alarming enough, I suppose we'll continue to have people ignore a growing problem.

There is no drug problem in the Northwest suburbs. That's why a long-haired young man joined more than 100 other concerned people last month to see whether a small task force can shake some reality into stale, complacent suburbs.

IDW Prepares Weller Creek Plan

A revised plan for the widening of Weller Creek in Mount Prospect is expected to be presented to the village this week by the Illinois Division of Waterways (IDW).

The new plan will be unveiled at a meeting, tentatively scheduled for later this week, among representatives of the village and the IDW. John Guillou, chief engineer for the IDW, is expected to attend.

"The state has redesigned the plan and will meet with us this week," said Robert Klovstad, chairman of the village's drainage and clean stream commission.

"Guillou will meet with us sometime in the latter part of the week, probably Thursday. We will discuss the new plan with him at that time."

THE ORIGINAL PLANS for the widening were turned over to the village late last spring. Once the plans were in the hands of village officials, they were to seek temporary easements for the widening project from the approximately 90 homeowners that live along the creek.

However, the easements shown on the plans were greater than what village officials had been told to expect. Moreover a permanent right-of-way along the creek was also shown on the plan.

As a result of those and other problems, village officials, instead of seeking the easements, questioned state waterways officials about the matter.

"There was a misunderstanding on the design," Klovstad said. "He (Guillou) now has a new way of handling the creek, other than the earlier plan."

"WE'RE STILL DISCUSSING the need for some sort of permanent easement along the north side of the creek. But he has set up a method whereby it (the widened creek) could be maintained from the center."

Under Guillou's new plan, said Klovstad, "There would be a low-flow channel in the center. As long as the water level was low, there would be a place for persons to bring in equipment to mow and clean the creek. In times of high water levels, this area would be underwater."

Klovstad said that apparently a permanent easement would be required on the north side of the creek despite Guillou's new plan. "The easement would be only for purposes of creek maintenance and repair. It would be like a utility easement," Klovstad explained.

Besides the permanent easement, temporary easements would also be needed during the widening project, he added.

KLOVSTAD SAID that as a result of the state's new plan, "We are more hopeful that we can still meet the November deadline" for procuring the necessary easements.

Klovstad said he planned to invite State Representatives Eugenia Chapman and David Regner to the meeting with IDW officials.

The state is funding the work on the creek widening project. The phase of the work now being considered extends upstream along the creek from Mount Prospect Road to Highway 83.

Flood Protection Sought

After hearing reports of flooding at Apollo Junior High, the District 63 school board asked the school administration to seek ways to prevent further water damage.

Heavy rains last weekend flooded two east-west corridors at the new junior high, shorted smoke detectors and shut down the air-conditioning system, James Bowen, business manager, told the board.

The flash floods backed-up water into the corridors because the sewer system is not connected to any storm sewer system. Instead, excess water overflows through a manhole in an adjacent field where it normally is absorbed into the ground, he said.

NO STORM SEWER system is available because the land near the Apollo school is undeveloped. Apollo is located on Central road in an unincorporated area, north of Des Plaines. It is attended by Des Plaines students from the area around Nathanson and Twain grade schools.

Bowen said workmen at Apollo had dried out the corridor by the time students returned to the school Tuesday, after Labor day.

The water also damaged smoke detectors which are near the air-conditioning system. To prevent the possibility of a fire starting without detection, the air conditioning system has been turned off, he said.

Board President William Gurolnick asked Bowen to present ideas in the future to solve the flooding problems.

BOWEN SAID development of housing on Central might eventually mean a storm sewer system would be created which the school could be connected.

Another proposal by board members was to check with Maine Township High School Dist. 207 to see if Apollo's sewer system could connect to the drainoff reservoir at nearby Maine North High School.

In other matters, the board accepted an offer by the Niles Library District to annex the Gemini and Apollo junior highs, and to extend the library privileges to the students.

Gurolnick explained that the Niles District had approached the board with this request, as part of an annexation of the Greenwood Shopping Plaza.

The board felt the library services available to the students would be improved. No increase in tax would occur because no residents live in the annexation area involved, he said.

Students at the junior highs will receive library card applications, he said.

Asst. Supt. Donald Stetina told the Herald/Day that unofficial enrollment counts show that the district has approximately 14 fewer students than last year.

LARGEST RISE at any single school was at the Nathanson school which increased by 27. Stetina said the administration do not know why there was an increase, but will study the matter.

The rise was not caused by new building, but it may have been caused by the moving in of families with more children, he said.

Bowen told the Herald/Day that Apollo will be completed in several weeks. The building, which was scheduled to be completed in July, was delayed by strikes.

Board member Mrs. Irene Luck questioned the lack of overtime by electricians in anticipation of the entering of the school's first class Sept. 1.

Bowen answered that the electricians could not work overtime because they had to wait for other workmen to finish before they could do the final necessary tasks.

The board also discussed a proposed rezoning of a half acre of land on Greenwood near Ballard. The board decided it would not oppose the rezoning for a Convenience Store, which would sell package liquor.

Mrs. Luck said she would oppose the store if it were a bar. Other board members said the store was not along any routes taken by children to school.

Sewing For The Bazaar?

Easy-To-Make Tote Bags

Ideal For Sales And Gifts

Every woman needs a little something to carry a lot of things in, and a roomy cotton tote bag is the answer.

Make one for yourself to find out how easy it is, and then stitch up several for Christmas gifts or bazaar items. Vary fabrics and trim for unusual effects. At top, a bright yellow cotton duck tote is

All it takes is a yard-length of any bright, colorful cotton fabric; some cotton cording for a drawstring; and bits of fringe, fabric scraps, and buttons for trimming.

Cut an oblong 15 inches wide and 36 inches long for the bag. Fold the fabric in half, right sides together, and seam on each side. To give the bag a squared-off base, make an inverted tuck at the bottom. With the bag inside out, fold the bottom up one inch and stitch in place for the tuck.

To make a casing for the drawstring, turn the open end of the bag under about two inches and hem. Then make another row of stitching an inch higher to slip the drawstring cord through.

THERE ARE DOZENS of ways to decorate the cotton carry-all bag. For example, you can add a simple flower design to a bright yellow cotton duck bag by appliqueing on red petals and green leaves cut from fabric scraps. Sew on a big white button for the flower center.

Or applique the bag with a design appropriate to its use. Mark a shoe tote, for instance, with a shoe applique cut from contrasting cloth. Appliques are easy to add with a zigzag machine stitch.

On printed cotton totes, keep trims simple. Circle the bag with a single row of thick cotton fringe, flat braid, or jumbo rick-rack.

Choose washable cotton trims so the bag can be popped in the washer with other household cottons to keep it looking fresh and bright.

FLORAL-PRINTED cotton duck is circled with a row of thick white fringe for decoration, and cotton cording makes a handy drawstring for the cotton carry-all. This and other tote bags are easy to make for yourself, as gifts to others and are especially good sellers at Christmas bazaars.

And Enthusiasm To Juniors

The traditional garden tea of the Junior Women's Club of Des Plaines, a member of the Illinois and General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be held Sunday from 2-4 p.m. at the home of Mrs. George Gregg, 108 S. Lee St., Prospect Heights.

pect Heights.

The program will be an operalog presented by Mrs. Richard Impey.

Mrs. Lester Peters, president, and club officers will welcome new members, returning members and guests to formally open the 38th year of community service for the Juniors.

Honored guests include Mrs. Benjamin Adamowski, IFWC Seventh District president; Mrs. Roy B. Sove, IFWC Seventh District Junior director and past president of the Des Plaines club; Mrs. William Ewing, president of the Des Plaines Woman's Club; and Mrs. Savanna Gorsline, past president of Seventh District and the Des Plaines Woman's Club.

"We're looking forward to our 38th year of continued community service," said Mrs. Peters, who is beginning her second term as president of the Des Plaines Juniors. "We've changed the club structure to place greater emphasis on service to others and hope our new members will pitch right in and help us accomplish our goals and continue the club's long tradition of community service."

The Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines, called the Junior League until 1963, was organized in February, 1933.

Membership was limited to unmarried women over 18 until the war years when membership was opened to married women as well.

Meetings were held in Oehler's clubroom at Lee and Perry streets until 1949 when they moved to St. Martin's Episcopal Church, and then to Rand Park fieldhouse, Forest School, South Park and in recent years the Northwest Suburban YMCA. This year the "Y" will again house the club on its traditional fourth Tuesday of the month meeting night.

THROUGHOUT ITS history, the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines has worked for community improvement. One of its first endeavors was Patton Cottage of the Park Ridge School for Girls. During the war years, projects were added to help hospitalized servicemen and for five years the club sponsored a canteen for servicemen every Sunday afternoon.

A well-baby clinic in Des Plaines was supported financially until 1948 when the Community Chest included the clinic in its annual budget. The Juniors continued to donate time and clerical assistance until 1957 when this and a Mexican clinic for children of migrant workers were discontinued. These were replaced by the Juniorettes, a club for local teenage girls.

Recently the Juniors were instrumental in the formation of the Des Plaines Historical Society which led to the establishment of the historical museum for the city.

Club philanthropies are supported largely from proceeds from the annual Benefit Fashion Show. Since 1950, the benefit has been the club's major fund-raising event. In March of this year, over $3,000 was raised for local, IFWC and GFWC philanthropies by the show held at the Marriott Motor Hotel.

THIS YEAR THE Juniors will continue their tradition of service through the activities of four major groups. The community service, fine arts, home life and international relations committees direct club projects in areas of current community concern such as conservation, youth, health and education, and aid to local and international service organizations.

"We're starting this club year with a new attitude, new enthusiasm, and renewed spirit," continued Mrs. Peters. "Ours is a service organization and we're hopeful all our members will feel a sense of satisfaction and fulfillment from the year's accomplishments."

The Doctor Says:

by WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—WHAT WAY does disodium edetate help arteriosclerosis? Is it available yet?

A—This drug is given to bind the calcium in the blood when too much calcium is present in the tissues including the arteries. It is available on prescription as Endrate or Sodium Versenate.

Q—I HAVE temporal arteritis. What is the cause and treatment?

A—The cause of this inflammation of the temporal artery in the skull is not known. It is rare in persons who are under 50 and is characterized by pain and soreness to touch in the temporal region. If cortisone is given early in the course of the disease and continued for six weeks, the condition is usually cured.

Q—A PHYSICAL training teacher said that standing on one's head is good for hardening of the arteries. Is this true? Would it have any harmful effects?

A—Standing on one's head will increase the blood supply to the brain but will not improve cerebral arteriosclerosis. If continued for more than four or five minutes, it may cause unconsciousness.

Q—WHAT IS the difference between polyarteritis nodosa and periarthritis nodosa? Can they be cured?

A—These are two names for the same disease. The cause is unknown but it is rarely seen in anyone under 30. Drugs of the cortisone group give the best chance of improvement but they must be used with caution in victims of this disease.

Q—I HAVE HAD agammaglobulinemia since 1957. I get an injection of gamma globulin every week. Are there any pills I could take instead?

A—Your shortage of natural gamma globulin increases your susceptibility to infection. There is no drug you can take by mouth for this but the injection of an adequate amount every four weeks should be sufficient.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., IN CARE OF Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60004. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Campaign Comments

by ED MURNANE

What does a congressman do when the U.S. House of Representatives is on vacation?

If you're Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, you stay in Washington and do a lot of reading and set a personal record for contributions to the Congressional Record.

Crane and the 400-plus other members of the House have been on a three-week break while waiting for the Senate to finish its lengthy debate on military appropriations.

Most of the congressmen have returned to their districts to begin their campaigns but Crane has stayed in Washington and has inserted items in the Congressional Record for five consecutive days and six of the last seven, as of last week.

Although a number of other Crane items have been inserted in the Record's Extension of Remarks section, the new 13th District congressman has never been as regular a contributor as he has been during the vacation.

Congressmen insert items in the Record if they tend to agree with the congressman's views.

THE CRANE CONTRIBUTIONS between Aug. 18 and Aug. 26 have included:

—Aug. 18: Crane entered speeches of five persons, including Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in favor of a volunteer army. The speeches were delivered at a Young Americans for Freedom symposium.

—Aug. 20: Crane entered a column by Samuel F. Chabough, author and military strategist, saying that Communists consider international negotiations and treaties as a means of continuing hostilities, as well as ending them. The column warns against relying too heavily on Soviet treaty agreements.

—Aug. 21: A speech by Prof. Yale Brozen of the University of Chicago warning against socialism and the threat to the free enterprise system was printed. The speech supports Crane's views in favor of a non-monopolistic postal system.

—Aug. 24: Crane entered a letter from a Chicago resident, Gerald Gidwitz, in defense of President Nixon's foreign policy and criticizing those who listen to anti-American policy statements rather than accepting the President's word.

—Aug. 25: Crane entered a column by Henry C. Wallich from Newsweek and a Washington Post article which indicated that tight population control in the United States was not as crucial as some writers indicated.

—Aug. 26: Crane had printed an article from the San Diego Union warning of the continuous threat of the Soviet secret police.

SEN. CHARLES H. PERCY has called on Adlai E. Stevenson III to agree to debates with Sen. Ralph T. Smith throughout Illinois. The two hopefuls for the United States Senate seat now held by Smith have debates scheduled in Chicago, Rockford and Peoria but Percy said debates in Springfield, Carbondale and East St. Louis also are needed.

Richard Elrod, Democratic candidate for county sheriff, said his opponent, Bernard Carey, is running a campaign "based on distortions and downright untruths, rather than issues." Nothing like an original campaign statement.

GOP County Chairman Edmund Kucharski, who is the Republican candidate for state treasurer, said the suburbs are the key to victory for the Republican Party this fall. Kucharski's remarks were made at the first of a series of breakfasts the GOP county candidates are having with suburban newspaper editors. Democrats also have been saying the suburbs will be the battleground this fall.

Michael Howlett, auditor of Illinois and a Democrat, said Sen. Ralph Smith is "trying to divide the people of Illinois" by his use of billboards saying he represents downstate Illinois.

"A United States Senator must represent Republicans, Democrats, the rich, the poor, black, white, young and old," Howlett said.

A series of campaign workshops is planned for Wheeling Township Democrats this month by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and Democratic Committeeman James L. McCabe, Sept. 16 and 17 are the dates and both will be held in Mrs. Chapman's home, 16 S. Princeton Ct., Arlington Heights, at 8 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 293-7092.

A reception for Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, is scheduled for Sept. 20 at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. Bob Burrow, of Burrow Chevrolet in Barrington, is chairman and donations to Graham's campaign fund may be sent to Roy Klepper at the First National Bank and Trust Co. in Barrington.

Graham will have a hard time duplicating the excitement he had at last summer's reception. The day was July 20 and just as the reception began Neil Armstrong's voice on the television sets reported, "Tranquility Base here, the Eagle has landed."

Make Him Your Confidant

The decision to buy a home represents planning for future security, said John P. McKay, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

"It may have been made because your family situation demands it, because you can afford it or because — in your circumstances — owning is less costly than renting," said McKay. "Perhaps you want the seclusion a home provides. Or it may simply be that you have always lived in a home and are uncomfortable otherwise."

McKay said home buyers, whatever their reasons, can avoid looking at every home listed in the "for sale" columns of the newspaper by consulting an expert in the real estate field.

"A Realtor is a professional in finding the right home," said McKay. "He can use this registered term through education and experience, as a member of the local board of Realtors as well as the National Association of Real Estate Boards. He is pledged to conduct his affairs according to a nationally recognized code of ethics."

"TAKE HIM INTO your confidence," said McKay. "He needs to know certain facts in order to find you the proper home, so don't bristle with indignation, for example, when he may ask such personal questions as 'How much can you pay?'"

He said the Realtor may also need to know:

The type of neighborhood into which you prefer to move.

The architectural style or styles of homes you prefer.

Your personal preferences in schools, churches, clubs, hobbies and recreation.

Your financial situation — income, savings, and family obligations.

The size home you need — rooms, bedrooms, bathrooms — as a minimum to accommodate your family, the price bracket you have in mind, and the monthly payments you can comfortably assume.

The size home you prefer, for the comfort of your family, and the monthly payments you consider desirable or those you consider the maximum.

"THE GENERAL rule of thumb is that the price of your home should not exceed the two and one-half times your annual gross income," although this guide can be affected by your obligations," said McKay.

McKay said questions the potential home buyer should ask himself include whether the neighborhood is attractive, if the neighbors appear congenial, if there are good community facilities and if there is good transportation available.

He also listed questions to ask about the house itself, including:

Is the architecture compatible with the neighborhood?

Is the house well planned, and is there a separation of functional areas in the house?

Does the workmanship appear to be of good quality?

Are the plumbing, heating and electrical systems sufficient for my needs?

Is the lot well landscaped?

What are the average utility costs?

"Once you've been in, out and around the house, you have an overall impression," McKay said. "You are well of the way to answering the all-important question, 'Is this the right home?'"

Insurance Ads 'Misleading'

Some private insurance companies have been sending misleading advertisements to Medicare beneficiaries in the Chicago and suburban area, in an effort to sell them insurance to supplement their Medicare protection, according to Cornelius R. Schafer, social security district manager.

Schafer said the promotional literature distributed by these companies has been designed to give the reader the impression that the company is in some way connected with the Social Security Administration, or that it has access to the federal agency's records.

One company used a window envelope that was almost identical to the envelopes Social Security uses to send out benefit checks, Schafer said. Only careful reading of the fine print in the advertisement revealed the statement that the company was "not the agency of the state or federal government," he said.

Schafer said the Social Security Administration does not endorse any privately sponsored insurance plan designed to "supplement" Medicare benefits. He also emphasized that private insurance companies do not have access to Social Security records, which are confidential by law.

Schafer said most private insurance programs supplementing Medicare offer valuable additional protection and advertise honestly in their sales literature. "However," he said, "a few companies have engaged in practices which clearly are intended to mislead Medicare beneficiaries."

Schafer advised persons who are confused by material they get in the mail offering additional Medicare protection to get in touch with their nearest social security office, or their State Insurance Commission for further information.

Golf Maine Park Dist. Expands Fall Schedule

The Golf Maine Park District has sent out brochures to all area residents announcing its new fall schedule. This year the program is considerably expanded and diversified.

Adults and high school students are being offered such programs as judo, ski lessons, drawing and painting, ladies exercise and dance, men's basketball league, Sunday touch football, huddles and wives volleyball league, and swimming.

The upper and middle grades can choose from such activities as modern jazz, drawing, painting, swimming, knitting-cooking-sewing, hockey, flag football, tackle football, and a Saturday fun club.

The lower grades are represented by such offerings as crafts, special Saturday, ballet, and early evening sports.

SPECIAL EVENTS in the future are a square dance to be held on Oct. 14, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the Mark Twain Gym, for all high school age and adult couples, and trips to the Chicago Bulls basketball games, starting in December.

Classes are limited in number and will be filled on a first come-first served basis.

There are still a few openings left in the park districts fall pre-school recreation program. The program guarantees to add smiles and enthusiasm to a child's day and week. It will give a child group exposure to games, creative dramatics, arts and crafts, music, and free play, park district officials said.

The program begins Monday and is offered on Monday-Wednesday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and Tuesday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

An information booklet is available at the Park Office, 9380 Dee Rd., Des Plaines. For further information call 297-3000.

Hospital Researches Malignant Tumors

Research is now being conducted on malignant tumor tissue removed from patients during surgery at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

The tissue is grown, studied and tested in the tissue culture laboratory. It is one of the cancer research projects at the hospital supported by funds from the Park Ridge United Fund. The hospital recently received $9,500 for cancer research made available by the 1969 Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy in which the United Fund participates.

"WE WANT to learn the effects of different drugs on different types of tumors. We hope this knowledge will help to establish the best method of treating patients who have a similar type of cancer," said Dr. Jonas Valatits, chief pathologist and director of clinical laboratories.

"The United Fund gift enables us to keep on working in the tissue culture laboratory. We are also doing research on the effect of drugs on animal and human tumors in relation to hyperbaric treatment," he said.

Social Security And You

Q. I'll soon be 60 and eligible for social security widow's benefits. I have no idea what my husband's social security number was, and I can't find his card. Can I apply for social security anyhow?

A. Yes, go ahead and file the application at your social security office. But to locate your husband's number, they'll need to know his full name, where and when he was born, his father's name, and his mother's maiden name.

Q. I get social security because of my disability. Is there a limit on how long I can get checks?

A. Your benefits will continue as long as you are disabled or until you are 65. At 65 your disability benefits will be changed to retirement benefits. The amount of your payments will not change however.

Q. I was getting social security as the wife of a retired worker until I went back to work. Now I have worked enough to get retirement benefits on my own record. Can I collect as both a wife and a retired person?

A. Sorry, you can't get both benefits at the same time. But if the benefit based on your earnings would be larger than the amount you'd collect as a wife, you would get this higher benefit.

Q. My husband and I receive a single social security check with both our names on it. Can we receive separate checks?

A. Yes. Checks for married couples usually are combined to save administrative costs and to save check cashing fees. But, if you'd rather get separate checks, just send a written request, signed by you or your husband, to your social security office.

Q. My father wants to retire at 62. Will he be able to get social security?

A. Yes, but his monthly checks would be 20 per cent less than the amount he'd collect if he retired at 65.

Q. I have contributed to social security for 10 years. How much will I get when I retire?

A. That depends on your earnings. The amount of your social security checks will be figured at the time you retire on the basis of your average earnings over a period of years. But your contributions over the past ten years ensure that you have enough work to qualify for retirement benefits and Medicare.

Q. When I started working, my social security contributions were very small. They have increased a number of times since then. Have benefits gone up, too?

A. Yes. The average monthly benefit for a retired worker has increased some five times since payments first began in 1940. The average retirement check in 1940 was $22.60. Today, the average is $116.

Not only has the benefit amount increased, but health insurance and benefits for survivors, dependents, and the disabled have been added over the years.

Q. I get VA disability benefits. Can I get disability benefits from social security, too?

A. Yes, if you meet the social security disability requirements. The fact you get VA payments will have no effect on social security benefits. The disability requirements for social security are different than the requirements for the VA benefits however.

Taxes Can Be Protested

You think your real estate or personal property taxes are getting out of hand and you would like to file a protest?

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, the law gives you the right to protest the appropriations and levies of local tax bodies — but it isn't easy. Moreover, even though you may protest all or any part of a tax, you must at the same time make whatever tax payment is due. The notice of payment under protest must accompany the timely payment of the tax and be in the form required by Illinois law.

In the case of payment under protest of a real estate tax, the protest must contain the volume number and item number of the tax as these appear on the tax bill, the original amount of tax and amount of the payment that accompanies the protest. Most important, at a time after paying his taxes under protest, the taxpayer must state his ground for objecting to the tax and the percentage of the tax which he claims should be refunded by filing his written objections with the circuit court of the county in which the property is located.

THE FACT THAT A real estate taxpayer feels that his taxes are "too high" is not one of the grounds of protest provided by law. Instead, the taxpayer must allege that certain procedures were not followed when the taxes for the year in question were appropriated and levied for his taxing district. The taxpayer, by his protest, petitions for the refunding to him of his pro-rata share of the allegedly illegal tax.

Generally speaking, the law requires a three-step procedure in order for taxes to be properly levied by the taxing body.

An infraction anywhere along the line could provide ground for a taxpayer's protest.

The three steps are as follows:

1. The taxing body must prepare a budget which estimates the assets and liabilities of each fund of the body as of the beginning of the fiscal year, as well as income it will receive from various sources and the expenditures which are anticipated.

2. The taxing body must appropriate the money required to cover the anticipated expenditures and this appropriation usually must be published in a newspaper which has general circulation within the taxing district.

3. The taxing body must pass the levy which authorizes the levying of taxes against the property in the tax district. In most districts, a certified copy of this levy must be filed with the county clerk. In certain districts, there must be a public hearing before the appropriation is passed.

ACCORDING TO THE ISBA, any failure on the part of the taxing body to fulfill the legal requirements may be a substantial defect which voids the levy. The protesting taxpayer may allege that the taxing body underestimated available assets or income, overstated liabilities and that had more accurate assessments been made, the tax levy would have been reduced or unnecessary.

The rules and procedures for protesting of personal property taxes are similar to those for protesting real estate taxes. The ISBA said protesting one's taxes is different from objecting to the assessor's evaluation of a person's real estate or other property for tax purposes, which is another story.

Detectives Take Course

By the end of this month four Des Plaines police criminal investigation detectives will have completed a two-week course at the Chicago Police Department crime laboratory.

According to Lt. Robert Clark, of the department's services division, the 88-hour course teaches detectives to locate and gather physical evidence at a crime scene and how to transmit the evidence to a crime laboratory.

Dets. George Neumann and Herbert Volberding have completed the course, Det. William Kuta is presently enrolled, Det. Jack Storm is scheduled to begin the course next Monday. A fifth detective will be enrolled in the course in October.

"The first week of the course is spent in a crime lab car which is used in the field," Clark said. "The men go out to criminal scenes where they are taught how to gather any evidence which can be used to connect the offender to the crime and help the officer ascertain what happened on the scene."

"THERE IS A scientific principle," Clark added, "which says every criminal either leaves something on the scene or takes something from the scene and the investigating officer must find out what this clue is."

The second week of the course is spent studying forensic laboratory procedures.

"The men spend their second week in the classroom and in the crime lab itself," Clark said. "They learn just how the evidence they have gathered is analyzed. They don't analyze the evidence themselves but they are taught how chemists examine the evidence they have collected."

After the detectives have completed the course there will be one trained crime investigating detective on duty at all times. The trained detective can do crime scene processing for any major crime in the community, according to Clark.

Air Conditioning, Anyone?

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
NEW YORK (UPI) — You've made it through the worst of another long, hot summer but next year — air conditioning.

If you own your own home, plan to live in it for some years, if it has ductwork or is so arranged that ducts can be installed easily and economically, central air conditioning could be the answer for you. Now, before winter winds cool the memory, is the time to plan next year's air conditioning. And your plans need not be grandiose.

But central air conditioning is not essential to comfortable summertime living. One or two window units can work wonders — in a three-room apartment or a two-story house.

"The key is in thoughtful planning," says Paul Komroff, vice president of engineering for the Quiet Kool division of Emerson Television & Radio Co., Woodbridge, N.J.

Komroff speaks from 35 years of engineering experience in the room air conditioning industry and such personal credits as the first 10,000 BTU, air conditioner to operate on 7½ amps — plug in anywhere unit — and the first 14,000 BTU unit at 12 amps.

A delightfully frank man, with a faculty for translating his engineering know-how into layman's language, he talks not of the perfect air conditioning system for the ideally designed home, but of the ingenious setup such as that he worked out for the first apartment of newlywed young relatives.

Air from the cooled living room was blown down the hall to the bedroom at night by means of a directional fan placed on the floor and adequately protected by a screen box. "You'd be surprised at how well the one unit cooled that apartment," he said.

KOMROFF URGES THOSE who would air condition to spend time in the planning. "The sales people can give you industry guidelines, charts to help you work out your requirements, the specifications of different models, but you know your home and your family best."

Adequate size is important in an air conditioner, of course, Komroff said, but he warned against the pitfall of thinking biggest necessarily is best. "An oversize unit won't do a better job. It will cool faster, then shut off, allowing humidity to build up and make you uncomfortable."

If the requirements for your house work out between standard unit sizes, say 11,000 BTUs, buy a 10,000 BTU unit, not the 12,000 job, he advised.

"Use ingenuity in locating a unit," he urged. Some examples:

In a typical small two-story house with forced air heating and ducts, a single 24,000 BTU unit, selling for less than $400, can cool the whole house nicely.

Place the conditioner in a room where the noise will be least annoying — in a dining room perhaps, or a ground floor utility room. Then manipulate your heating ducts. Run the furnace fan in summer position.

Shut off supply ducts to the room where the conditioner is located, open the return ducts. As air is cooled it is returned to the furnace fan and recirculated to other rooms where supply ducts have been opened, return ducts closed.

At night, supply ducts can be shut off in living rooms and the cool air concentrated in bedrooms.

IN HOUSES WITHOUT ducting, smaller units upstairs and down may do the job. To cool a typical three-bedroom second floor with no hall, for instance, Komroff recommends a fairly large unit be run all day in the master bedroom, then be shut off at night.

A kitchen exhaust fan will help distribute cool air from a conditioner on the first floor. A regular window fan moves too large a volume of air to be used for this purpose, he said.

In a typical two-story, center hall layout, Komroff said, a unit in the upstairs hall window usually will do the trick, perhaps with an auxiliary unit downstairs in kitchen or family room.

In some split levels where basements are above grade and windows are of adequate size, units may be ducted directly into a forced air furnace for distribution to rooms upstairs. Ordinary basement windows generally are too small and too low, Komroff said.

As a general rule, he said, place a conditioner as high as possible, allowing the cool air to drop to lower levels. For less conspicuous location in a permanent dwelling, units may be placed in sleeves through the wall.

Adequate roof insulation, awnings to shade windows unprotected by trees, a dehumidifier in the basement can help reduce the load on an air conditioner.

Some pointers to remember: Be sure wiring is adequate. Check local authorities for code restrictions. Be sure the air conditioner you choose is suitable for the power you have available. There is a 10,000 BTU, 7½ amp unit designed for plugging in anywhere. Larger models may require a single 115-volt circuit or a 230-volt separate line.

Always ground your air conditioner. Never, Komroff warned, use a three-prong adapter. Always replace the outlet to be used with a duplex receptacle.

Be sure air circulation isn't impeded by curtains, furniture or a dirty filter.

Filters must be kept clean, Komroff stressed. This means cleaning at least once every two weeks; better yet once a week. A dirty filter can lower capacity by as much as half and it can cause problems such as coil freeze-up.

If you work out your air conditioning plan now, at the tag end of summer, buy in the off-season, install at your leisure, next summer won't seem that long, or that hot.

Tornado On Capitol Hill?

by CAROLYN A. BOWERS
NEW YORK (UPI) —Tornadoes are rare on Capitol Hill, but a watch has been called for next January. Most observers predict the impending storm will take its shape in feminine form.

They say it will hit in the guise of a vociferous congressional hopeful named Bella Abzug, a lawyer, 48, referred to by her supporters as the "Wonder Woman."

"I plan to shake Congress up or there wouldn't be any reason for me to go," Mrs. Abzug said in an interview. "I believe in a new style of politics — activism and leadership."

"Anybody can make a speech but, the people want someone who will understand their problems, organize, fight and stay with them and not wait for them to write a letter."

"I'm an activist. I really believe in the role of leadership. I don't just talk about it."

Mrs. Abzug, a practicing attorney since 1947, is a founder and member of both the New York state and national executive committees of the New Democratic Coalition, a reform democratic organization.

SHE BEGAN her congressional bid with a hard hitting Democratic primary campaign in Manhattan's conglomerate 19th district. Campaigning against the war and for total equality for women, she incumbent Leonard Farberstein, 67, for the nomination by a vote of 17,341 to 14,642, thus ending liberal Farberstein's 14-year tenure in the House of Representatives.

The 19th district is heavily Democratic so that the primary victory is considered tantamount to election, which means the house will get its first women's liberation spokesman.

However, Mrs. Abzug —the wife of a stockbroker and the mother of two teenage daughters —does not associate herself with the radical side of the women's "lib" movement.

"I'm very sober in my approach to women's liberation," she said. "I'm not interested in replacing men, but I do think they can be changed a little."

"Women should be able to lead full lives and realize their total capacity, which society does not fully allow. Women are not encouraged to reach the levels men are allowed to reach."

"I will take the cause of women —America's oppressed majority —to the halls of Congress. I will fight in Washington against the discrimination that condemns most women to low-paying jobs, gives women welfare instead of income, keeps them out of the professions, denies them day care facilities, mis-educates their children, gives third rate health care to black, Puerto Rican and poor women, and forces them to risk their lives by submitting to illegal abortions."

Mrs. Abzug, national legislative director of Women strike for Peace, said that the Vietnam war and "archaic" congressional rules will be her first targets.

An outspoken opponent of the war, she believes America is going in the direction of militarism.

"The Pentagon is still running the country," she said. "People want jobs and decent housing, but they can't get them because all the money is being used for the war."

"THE WAR IS robbing us of our maternal resources."

Of congressional rules, she said, The "archaic" rules don't allow Congress to represent the people. The committee system is an impossibility, she said.

"I will join the small but growing group of men and women in Congress challenging the outmoded seniority system and insisting that Congress represent the reality of American life."

In November, Mrs. Abzug will run against the radio broadcaster, Barry Farber, the Republican-Liberal candidate. Both are outspoken but Mrs. Abzug's booming voice puts her points across with pile-driver punch. Her campaign literature tells you that "This Woman's Place Is In The House ... the House of Representatives."
